S.E.C

The Student Executive Committee can be looked upon as the liaison network or buffer and mediator between the administration and the student body. The elected members will control the allotment of student activity fees to authorized representative groups of the North Central Campus. To have a responsible self-government we need reliable, industrious, responsible representatives in our student government. The more thought a person puts into the selection of members for the S.E.C., the more satisfied one will be in his decisions. All qualified full-time students are urged to run for office.

Men's Club

This club along with the Women's Club has been sponsoring intramural athletics and activities. The interests of this club can be many and diverse. All ideas are welcome and will be considered. This club is particularly interested in forming an all-star basketball team from its intra-mural team to represent the Purdue North Central Campus in an industrial and/or an inter-regional league. Drop in and see the Men's Club representative after the formal orientation. They are always looking for new members.

Women's Club

The Women's Club of the North Central Campus is one of the newer additions of extra-curricular activities, having been organized last year. This organization provided many activities for females of the Purdue North Central Campus and it will continue to do the same this year. Last year this club served hot lunches to the students at the Barker Center, and made up a Thanksgiving and Christmas basket for a needy family in the area. This club also competed with the Men's Club on making a lawn display which would depict Purdue's trip to the Rose Bowl. If you are interested in joining this club please come to the Women's Club room after the formal orientation.

Political Clubs

Political clubs are also being organized at the North Central Campus. Both political parties will be represented in a room after the formal orientation. These clubs will widen your knowledge of the political parties of the United States and they will give you the chance to take an active part in your college campus. This will give you an excellent chance to get an inside view of politics. If you have a political party that you are interested in other than Democratic or Republican, it is up to you to make it known.

Car pools

Since all students must commute, and not all students have cars or other means of transportation we are trying to organize car pools. A room will be designated to which either students desiring a ride to campus or students willing to give one, can go and leave their names and the times of their classes. We have no desire to run this-- just to organize it, therefore arrangements as far as cost will be left up to the individuals involved.

Flying Club

If you are the type that can't keep your ^{feet} on the ground or your head out of the clouds, then you really ought to look into the flying club. This is a new club and we do not have very much information on it, but we expect to have it represented during the orientation program so that those that are interested in joining might inquire into its activities. Also, remember that this club is not strictly limited to males----- aren't there any adventurous girls around that would like to fly and get their pilots license?

BOOKSTORE

As you walk through the main entrance and down the stairs you will see the bookstore. It carries all of the textbooks that are required for all of the classes being offered at the North Central Campus. It also has other supplies one may need or just like to have.

A book drop will be provided on the outside of the bookstore. No textbooks may be brought into the store.

There is no smoking in the bookstore.

Self-service is the word in our generation and the bookstore is no exception. Never the less, if you have any questions just ask-- they will be more than happy to help you.

The hours for the bookstore will be posted later.

Student Tutors

The Student Tutoring Service, better known as STS, is an organization which serves the students of the public schools in this area. Any college student can offer his or her services one hour a week to tutor a grade school student, between third and eight grades. If you are willing to help a child with his school work, please contact Mr. Peretti or sign up in the STS room.

S.E.C. ELECTION RESULTS

The first election of the student governing body (S.E.C.) at Purdue North Central Campus was conducted this past week. The candidates waged a spirited campaign which saw several of them introduce a number of novel gimmicks to attract voters. The time for decision has arrived and the results are now a matter of record.

Mr. Ed Hammond, Student Affairs Officer, announced today that the following seven students have been elected to serve on the Student Executive Committee.

Zenaida Balingit
Tom Grudovich
Claudia Hamlin
Steve Hedges
Barb Mannia
Carol Reed
Jerry Widelski

Congratulations and best wishes. We of the newspaper staff pledge our support of your endeavors to make ours a vibrant, active campus.

One disappointing aspect of our first student election was the small total vote. Only 136 ballots out of a potential of more than 1,000 were turned in. This could mean many things--but the most dangerous would be that the student body is not interested. We are in the formative stage of developing a student government--our worst enemy is APATHY. If you were guilty of not voting--you lost the first opportunity to become an active member of the student body. We hope it's not too late.

A POME

Think that I shall never see
A form so lovely as a knee,
A shapely hip that swings and sways
In circles in the nicest ways.
I know that summer weather brings
Some of life's most lovely things.
The pleasant thoughts that they ensnare
The dreams of which I never tire.
Facts look bad on fools like me,
On a girl they're nice to see.

DEAN SCHWARZ ANNOUNCES
DEDICATION PLANS

Purdue University North Central Campus opened its doors on September 13, 1967. The formal dedication will be a week long celebration beginning on Thursday, October 19, 1967. The purpose of this dedication is to bring people from various areas of the community to our campus and give them information on how their activities are related to our campus. The ceremony will be formal and will show the contribution Purdue North Central expects to make in serving northern Indiana.

Dean Robert Schwarz, Director of Purdue North Central, outlined for the newspaper the following schedule of activities that will take place during the week of dedication.

On Thursday, October 19th, the editors and staffs of area newspapers will be invited to visit our campus. These people will be provided with background material to be used in news releases and coverage during the week.

Saturday, October 21st, will be "Legislators' Day." The Mayors and State Legislators of LaPorte and Porter Counties will be invited to tour the campus.

Women's Day will be featured on Monday, Oct. 23. Mrs. Ed Cass of Westville is the Chairwoman in charge of arrangements for this part of the program. Key club leaders from women's clubs in this area will attend. The featured speaker will be the Dean of Women, Helen B. Schleman, M.S. After the program the women will tour the campus and then attend a formal tea in their honor.

Tuesday, October 24, has been designated as "High School Day." In the morning Superintendents, Principals and Administrators will be our guests. In the afternoon, Student Leaders from area high schools will attend a special program. The speaker will be Vice President Donald R. Mallett, PhD.

INTRODUCTION

Each new school year brings a new group of students and faculty members to all institutes of higher learning. Purdue North Central is no exception. In the following short biographies we would like to introduce a few of the new members of the faculty.

MR. EDWARD HAMMOND

Relaxed in an unfamiliar place could be one of the many ways to describe the easy-going personality of Edward Hammond, Student affairs director at PNC. Mr. Hammond has traveled all over the United States since his childhood and has lived in such cities as Boston, Cincinnati, and Kansas City. Although he was born in Texas, he attended Kansas State Teacher's College, Kansas City, Kansas.

Mr. Hammond received his Master's degree and also his Bachelor's degree in Science and Education from KSTC, which qualified him to teach on the secondary school level, or as a guidance counselor. He decided to choose the latter because he enjoys working with students, not only in the classroom, but in extra-curricular activities as well. While attending college, Mr. Hammond was active in the Field Service programs, which deals with guidance and counseling.

Since he has only been here since August, Mr. Hammond is still forming opinions about the area. However, he commented that he and his wife like it "so far." They're just waiting to see if everything they've heard about "Midwestern winters" is true.

DR. DAVID FRANK

One new member of the faculty, this year is Dr. David Frank. He came to us from Shippensburg College in Shippensburg, Pa., where he taught for two years as a Professor of Psychology. Previously, he was a guidance counselor in the public schools for ten years. During his time, he was also a practicing psychologist. Dr. Frank received his B.S. degree from Shippensburg College and his Master's from Maryland University. He had scholarships at Temple and Penn State Universities and the University of Missouri. His doctoral work is done at W. Virginia University, and he is currently working on his dissertation.

MISS CARRIE BYRD

Miss Carrie Byrd, assistant Professor in Nursing at PNC, has recently moved to Valais from the University of Bridgeport, Connecticut. Miss Byrd taught for four years in Bridgeport under the associate degrees' program, which was the first of its kind in Connecticut.

Prior to her teaching assignment in Bridgeport, she taught in Cleveland, Ohio, where she received her B.S. and Masters' degrees at Western Reserve. Most of her work was done at the University Hospitals, in the Benjamin Rose Division.

Miss Byrd's interests cover a wide area, from wildlife photography to bird watching. She enjoys sports and traveling. Her adventures have taken her from her hometown, Norfolk, Virginia, to Europe.

She is an active member of the American Cancer Society and sponsors the Women's Club at PNC.

MISS JOHNNIE CRAWFORD

Miss Johnnie Crawford is another new member of the PNC faculty. She teaches first and second year French and an English Composition class. Miss Crawford graduated from Western Michigan University with a B.A. in 1966. From there she went to the University of Grenoble in France for six months. She received her M.A. this month. Miss Crawford said that she always wanted to teach in a new building, and really enjoys PNC and the students.

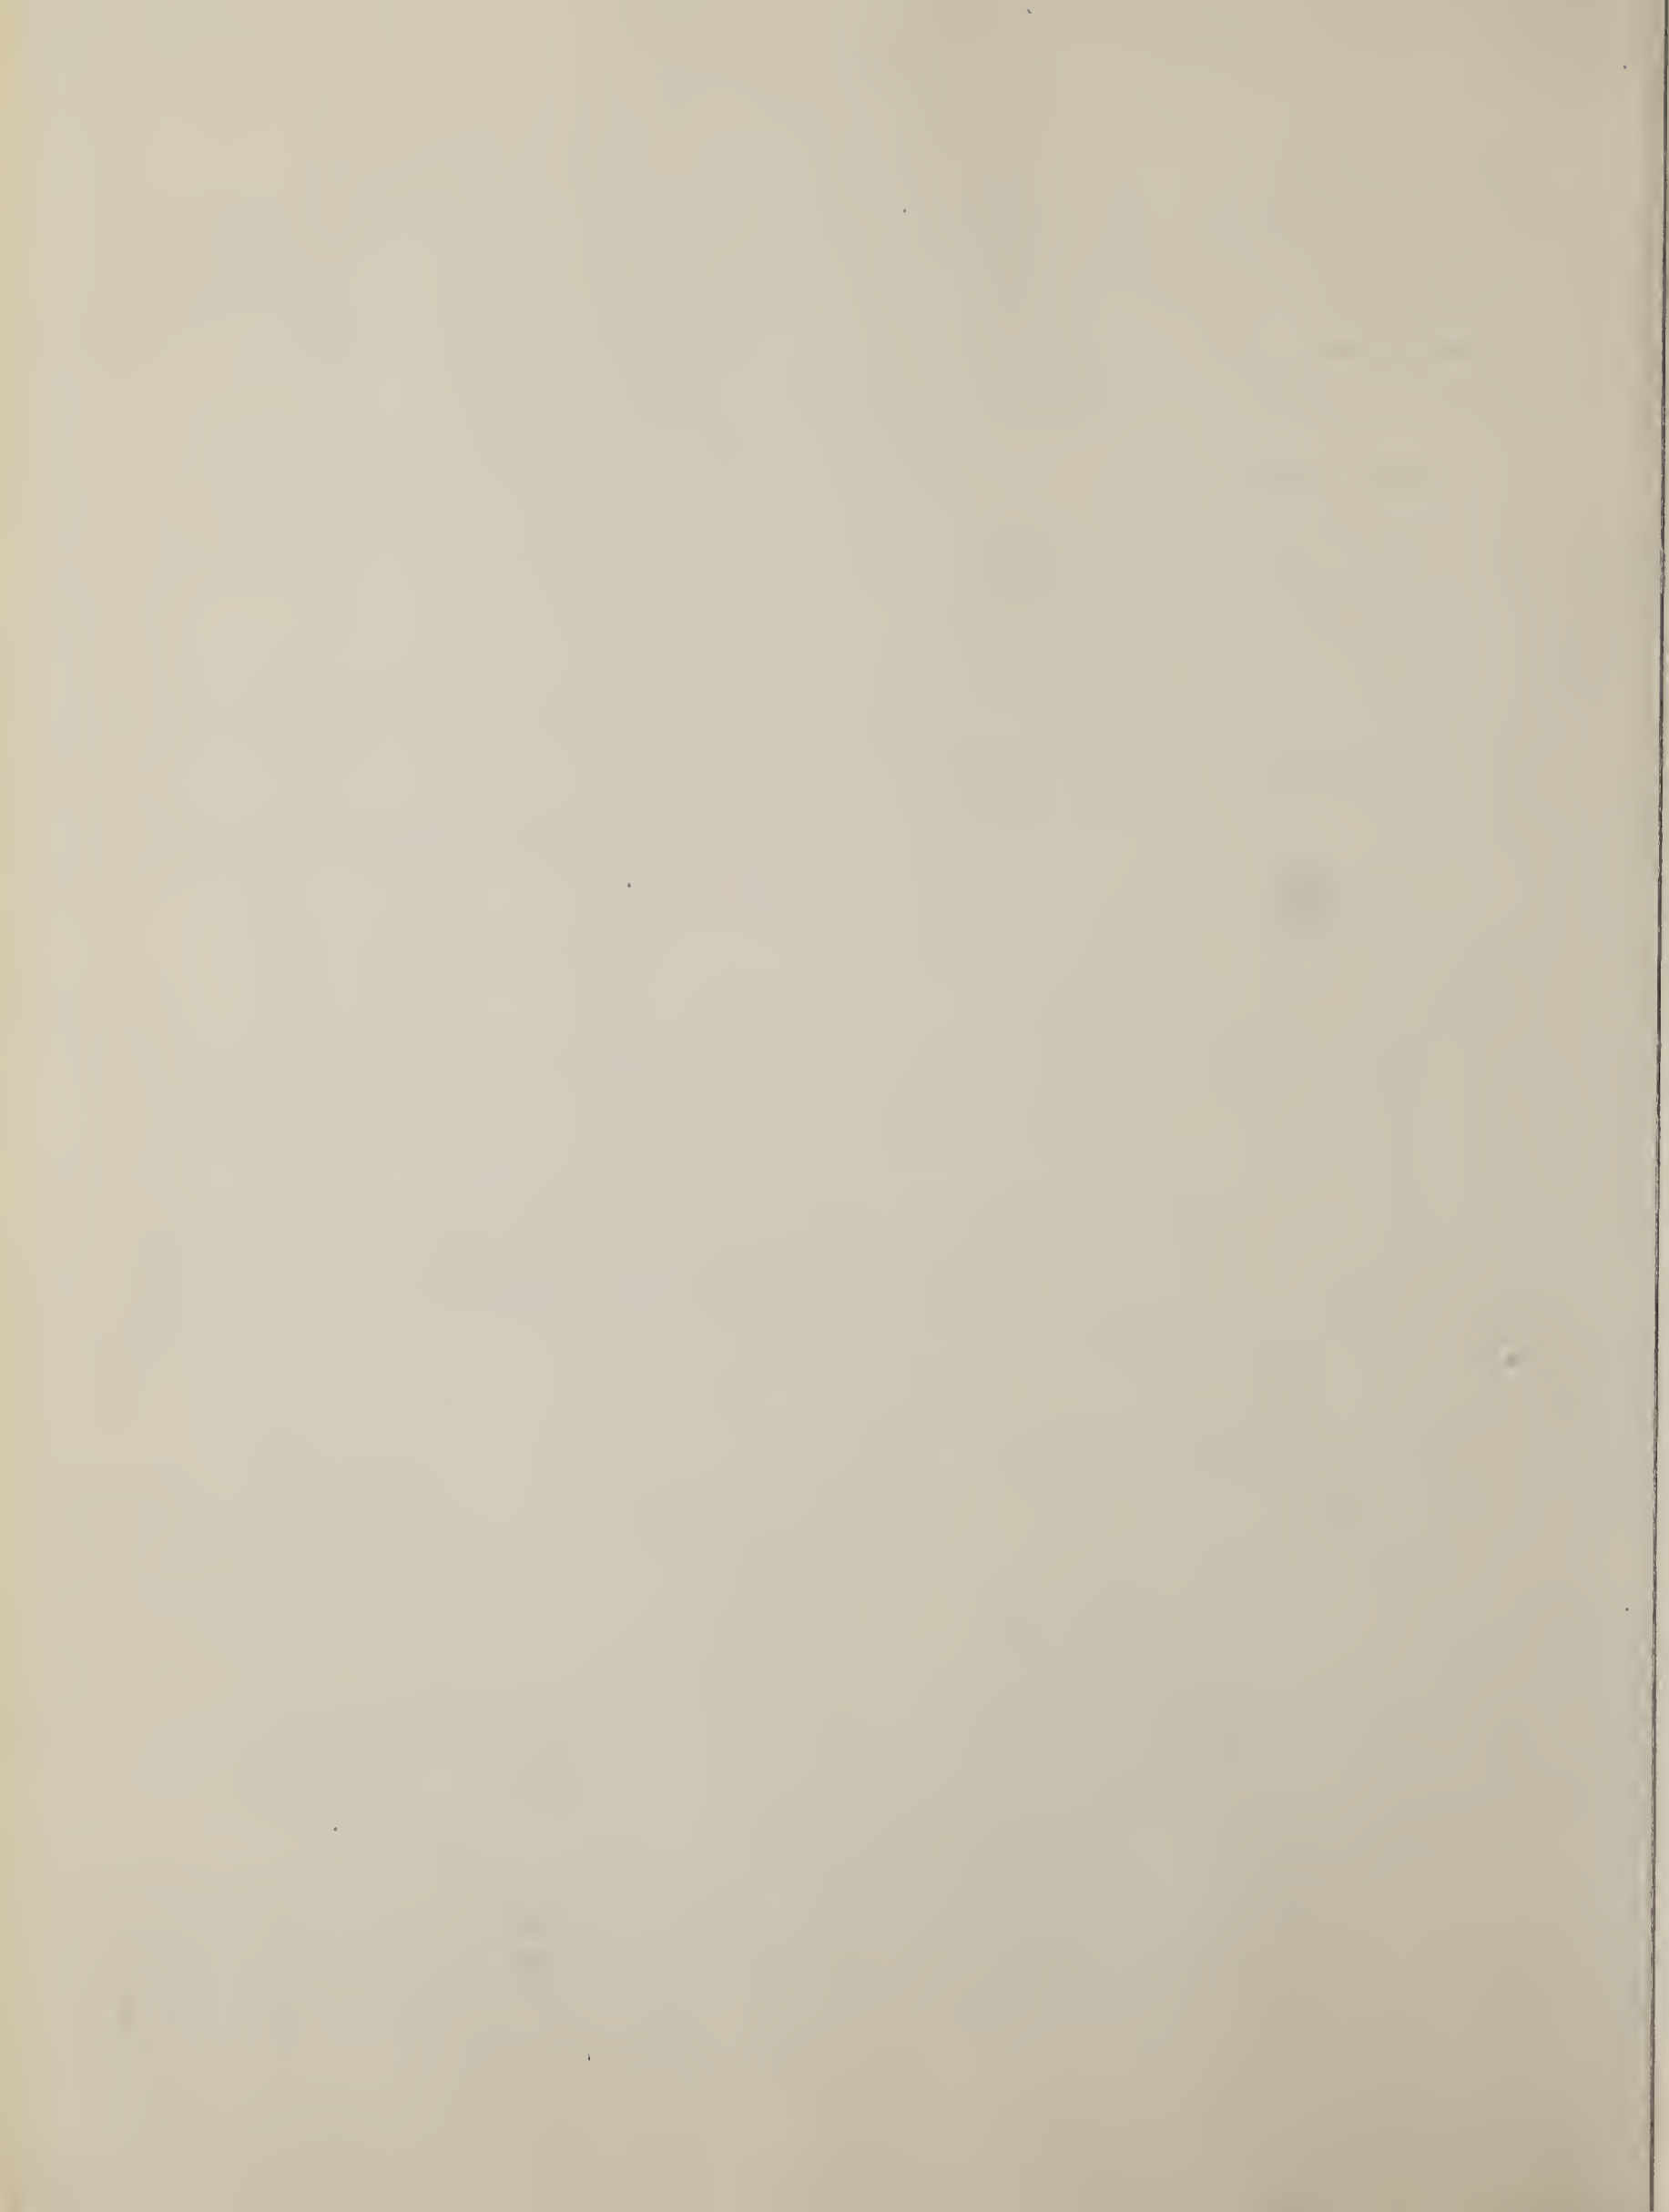

MR. JOHN STANFIELD

Although Mr. John Stanfield is not new at PNC, this is his first year as a full-time member of the faculty. Mr. Stanfield is a member of the English Department and is presently teaching one class in composition and two literature courses.

Mr. Stanfield earned his Bachelor and Master's degrees at Indiana University. He attended the University of Colorado and is currently doing his doctoral work at Florida State.

College teaching is not a new field for Mr. Stanfield. Before coming to Purdue, he taught at Thornton Junior College, Florida State, and the University of Colorado.

Mr. Stanfield is also the public relations director at PNC.

ENCORE FOR S.T.S.T.S.

The Student-To-Student-Tutoring-Service, better known as the S.T.S.T.S., will be an in effect this year. The program is up to help children in grades 5 through 8 in areas of difficulty, if help is wanted. Tutors, students from Purdue North Central Campus, spend an hour a week tutoring. The program is under the supervision of Mr. Peretti, head of the Department of Sociology at Purdue North Central. Mr. Peretti has been program director of the S.T.S.T.S. since its start three years ago. The tutoring takes place at the First Methodist Church, the Exchange Club of Michigan City, and Purdue North Central are co-sponsors of the S.T.S.T.S. program. The program is being extended into surrounding areas LaPorte, Chesterton, and Valparaiso. The S.T.S.T.S. is in the process of setting up a program in the areas. Student Director of the program is Barbara Blank. Co-Chairmen are Frances Booth, Linda Dolk, and Cathy Nowicki. The Secretaries are Beth Lute and Nino Pecoraro. Anyone interested in joining the S.T.S.T.S. should give your name to any member of the S.T.S.T.S., or fill out and leave an information blank on the front table in the activities lounge.

THE FLYING BOILERMAKERS

Only a few short weeks in the semester have passed and already PNC has students up in the air, literally that is! The Purdue North Central Campus Flying Club has already recruited 20 members. Professor Buck and Professor Raelson have undertaken the roles of advisors to the members, who all hope to attain private license status. At present, a Cessna 150 from Municipal Airport is being used by the students, though they envision buying their own plane. The prospective pilots have found it less expensive to fly in groups, though sometimes a little harder on the nerves. Professor Buck, who flies in daily from his home in Michigan, sets down on the landing strip across from campus--PNC International Airport.

The activities of the Flying Club are of a more specialized nature than other student groups, but have met with enthusiastic student support.

FROM THE DESK OF DEAN BLACKWELL

Dean Blackwell asks that the students continue to bear with the administration concerning five major problems which will occur during the next few weeks:

1. Installation of permanent seats in the lecture rooms.
2. Installation of library shelves and other furniture.
3. Installation of language and reading lab equipment.
4. Installation and setup of additional computerized equipment.
5. Installation and setup of additional storage shelves.

Dean Blackwell hopes that all of this will be completed before Dedication (October 19-29).

He would also like to thank all the students for doing such a fine job of picking up after themselves; especially in the student lounges. Keep up the good work!

WOMEN'S CLUB

The Women's Club is a social organization for the women of Purdue University. Holding office at the present are: Carol Reed, President; Pat Maloney, Secretary; Zenaida Balinigit, Treasurer.

The Women's Club held a coffee hour in the formal lounge on September 5 to get acquainted and receive new members.

A general meeting was held on October 2 in the formal lounge. The club discussed the upcoming Pajama Party to be held in the student lounge on October 14. The Women's Club is the co-sponsor.

Anyone interested in joining should contact an officer or member.

FOLLOW THE YELLOW LINE ROAD

This is a tale of the Greene Knight and mythical pilgrimage to see the Great and Powerful Wizard of North Eudrup. It began with all the preparation such a quest of this kind demands. He had arrayed himself in his best armor--a button-down shirt of mail with an appropriate "V" neck slipover tunic, dry-pressed breeches and well worn moccasins. Greene (short for The Honorable Greene Knight), like all well armored knights wore stockings as a mark of his worldliness and jousting ability. Greene had also mastered all the skills which he knew would insure his success at the Wizard's court. He had learned to smoke a pipe without showing his colors. He could show himself well in a "euchre" joust. The hair on his chin--chin-chin revealed his silent virility. Greene could also draw a slide rule from its belt sheath faster than anyone in North Cornia (which is the name of the state in which he lived). His lengthy preparation completed, he mounted his trusty Honda (a breed closely associated with social success) and thundered on the "yellow lined road" in the direction of Wheresville, the great golden city closest to the home of the Wizard. On the way, he happened upon the "Golden Girl." Soulful creature that she was, she had been frozen in a Twiggy Pose waiting for the great Purple Coach which traveled frequently to the Wizard's home. Her gold tulle mini-dress and mink eyelashes marked her as a damsel whose quest was one of the sort. Being the suave and debonair knight that he was, he offered to share his steed. Being the fragile and helpless damsel that she was, of course, accepted. Not far down the road they came upon another pilgrim, obviously one from the outskirts of the great Metropolis of North Cornia. Bits of hay clung to his overalls. He spoke of existentialism, involvement and hallucinogens--a strange language to Greene and Goldie. He said his quest, too, was to see the Wizard whom he planned to convince the world was really flat. Deciding this hayseed constituted a threat to their success, the knight and his damsel broke off choking the outsider in a cloud of dust.

Discovering they were lost, they met a ragged stranger who offered to show them the way to the Wizard, if they would pay him. After receiving two gold schickles from each of them he told them the way.

It seemed he too was going to see the Wizard, who he was sure could give him the key to power and success.

When they reached the home of the Wizard they found they had been disillusioned about his willingness to help them.

The Greene Knight did not find the excitement he had anticipated. The Golden Girl did not find the conviviality she sought. The hayseed found nothing of the glory he expected. The tattered stranger found no wealth.

Instead, each found that they still had a greater task before them, a dragon each must fight. And still they come, to this day, seeking excitement, conviviality, glory, and wealth--and the Dragon still waits to be conquered anew.

Breaking the Ice

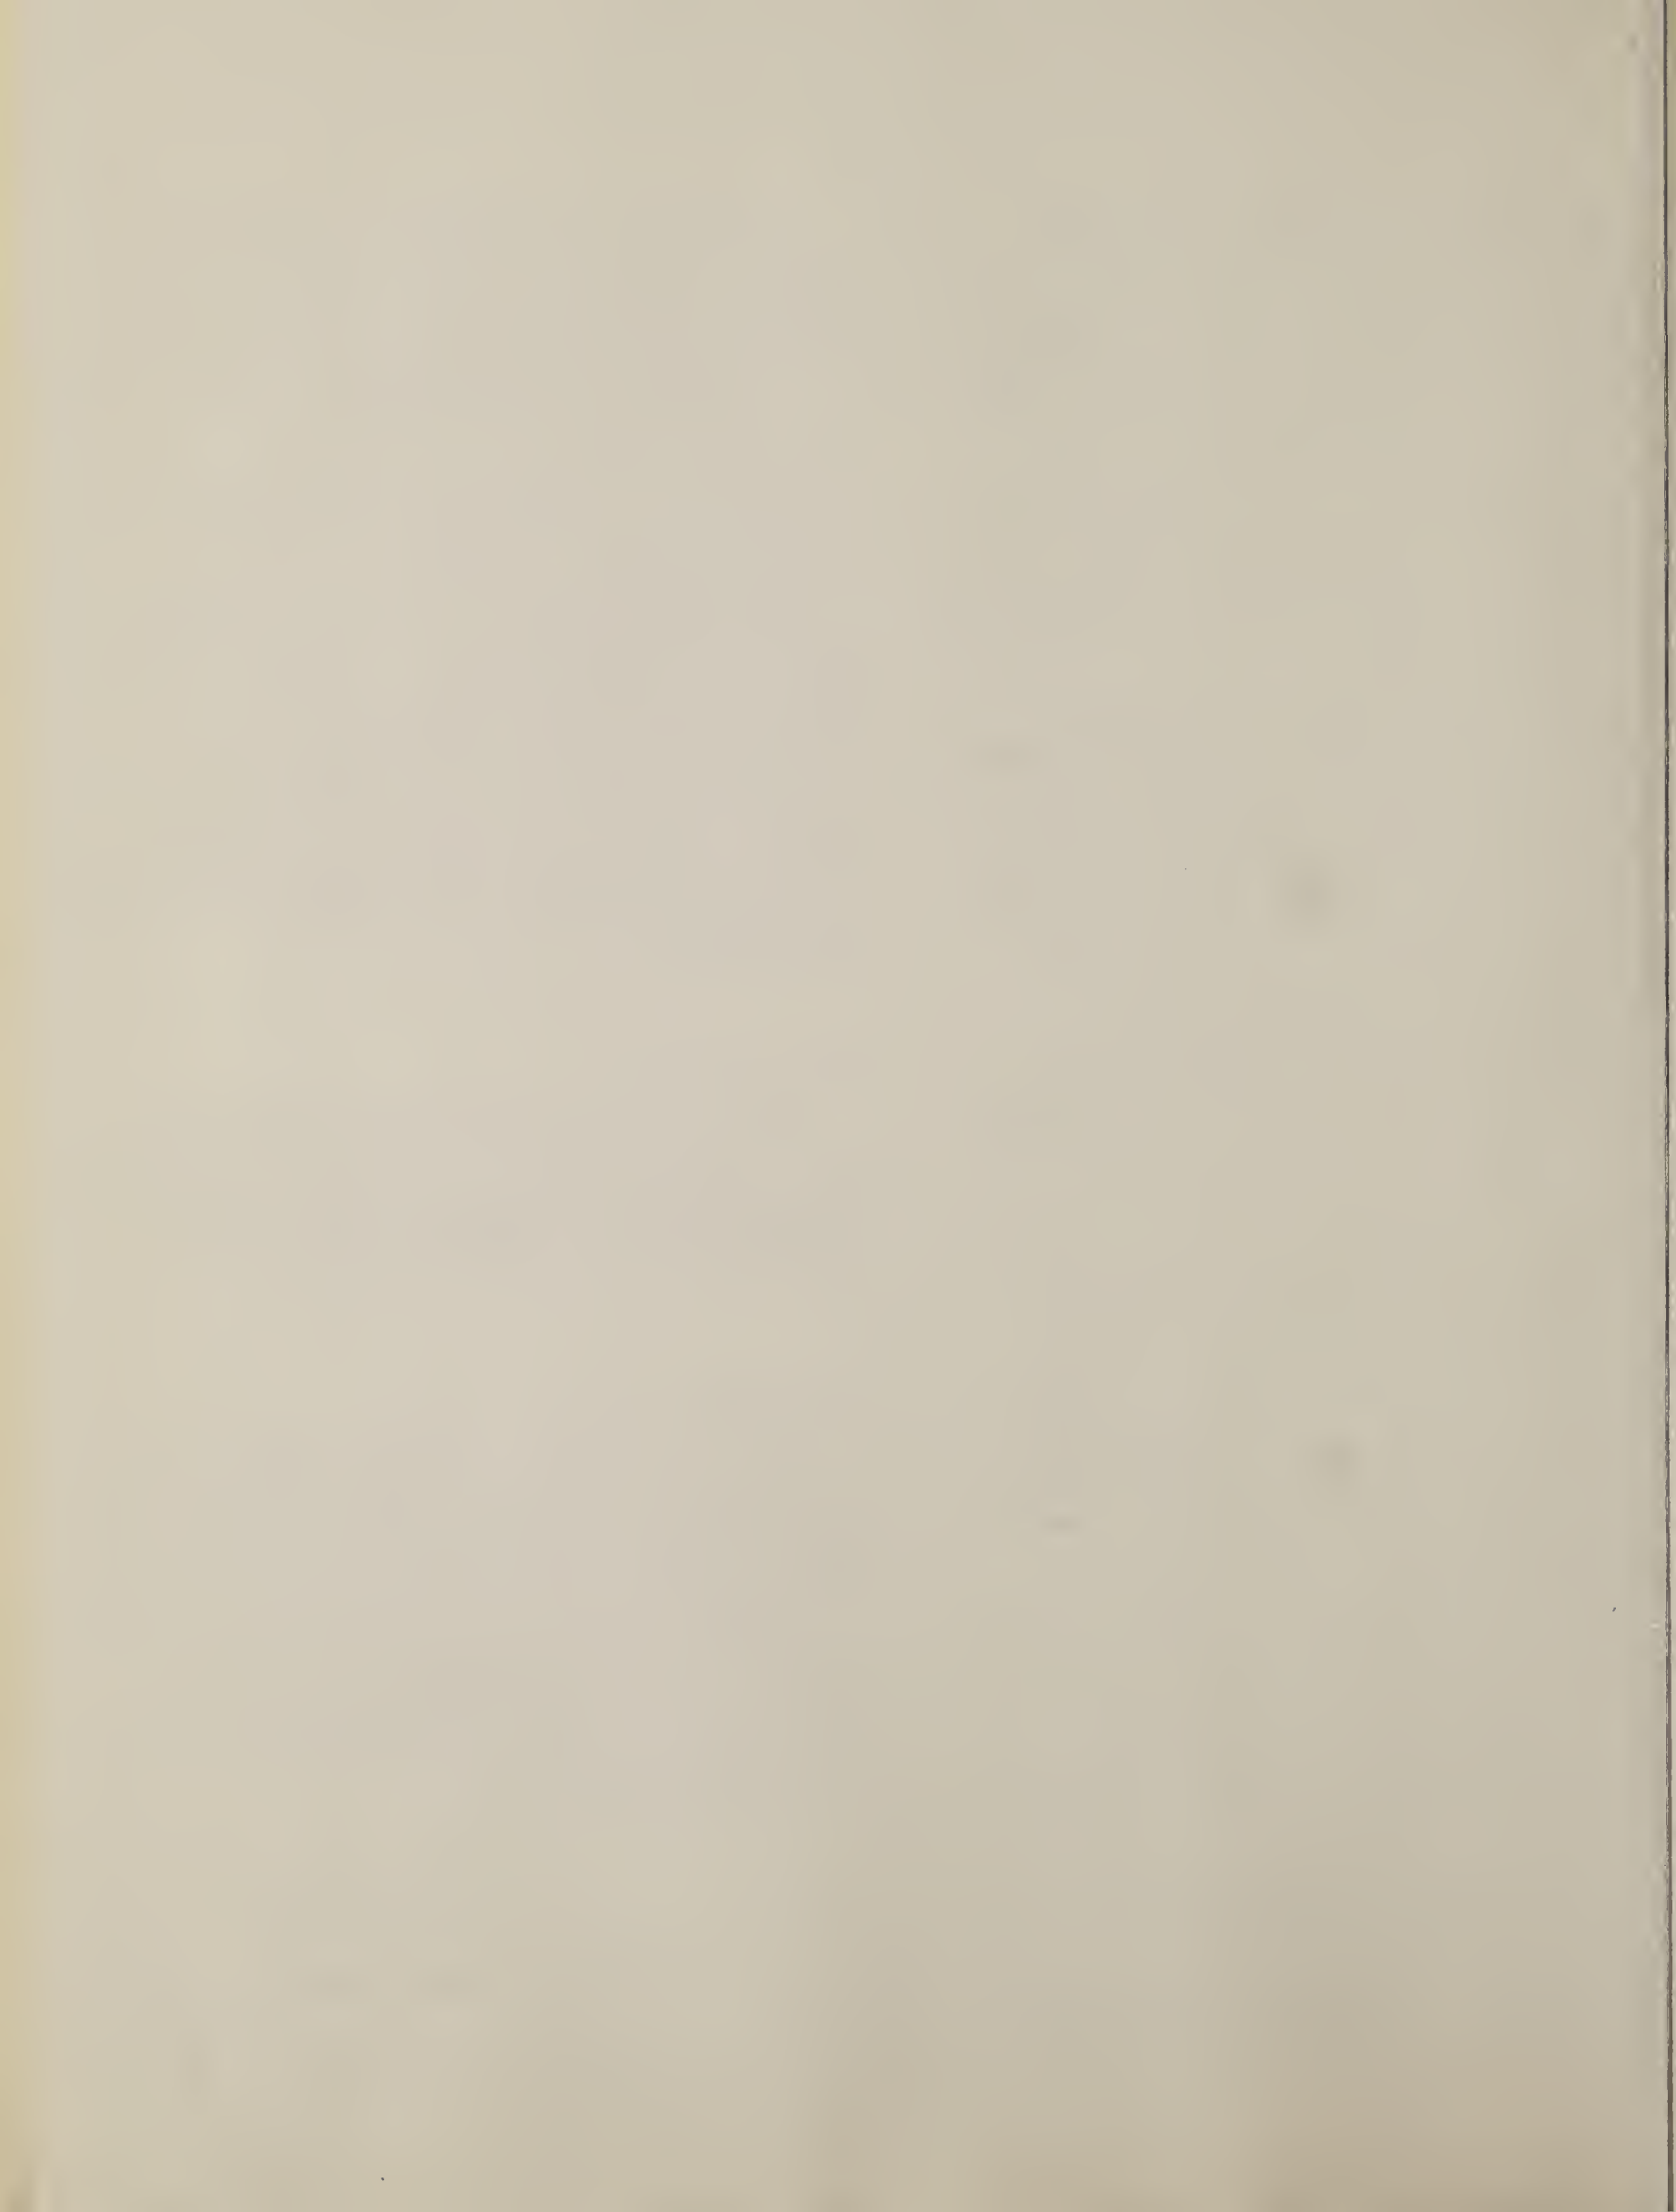

"The late professor John L. Brumm, chairman of the Department of Journalism at the University of Michigan, had an effective way of dispelling the uneasiness that prevails when a teacher confronts his class for the first time. For a full 5 minutes at the opening session he would silently appraise the class. At last, he would clear his throat and say, 'Well, you've looked me over and I've looked you over--and I hardly can keep from laughing either.'"

NEWS OF THE MEN'S CLUB

The Men's Club is back once again and Steve Hedges, President, is looking forward to a great year. Steve, and his temporary officers: Dave Kolodjewski, Treasurer; Ernest Wells, Secretary; Dave Hawkins, Athletic Chairman; have been busy men trying to get the Men's Club off the ground for 1967. This group must have used a launch- ing pad because activity has been its mid- dle name the past few weeks.

Should you happen to be over near East- port School in Michigan City some Sunday afternoon, it's likely you will hear the litter-patter of little feet, most likely Ray Zonyk's as some of the men of Purdue North Central knock heads in a game of football or more properly "flag" football. This activity was arranged by none other than the Men's Club.

Perhaps you like dancing. Our Men's Club is going to be sponsoring two dances in the near future. One will be a Halloween Masquerade Dance and the other will be a Thanksgiving Dance. While these are the only dances positively scheduled by the Men's Club, there could be one or two others, but these fellows just started and plans are sketchy at this time.

Also planned by the Men's Club especially for those of you who like sports are the Holiday Basketball Tourney over the Christmas vacation, a sports happening at Camp Tee-Nee-Be, and a road rally.

Finally, the Men's Club will be co-spon- sors of the Pajama Party to be held in the student lounge, October 14.

As was said before, the officers men- tioned are just temporary. An election of permanent officers will be within the next two weeks according to Steve. It is also hoped that with the increased male enrollment over last year, an increased number of men will attend this year's Men's Club meetings. The Men's Club is for your benefit fellows, give it some attention. Come to the meetings, you might enjoy them.

A Georgia State professor was surprised when he called on a male student in his Cor- poration Finance class and a female voice responded. The part-time student, an insur- ance salesman, had sent his secretary to take notes."

Local service clubs have been invited to tour the building and grounds on Wednesday, October 25. The Service Clubs will have their regular meetings including a luncheon. This will be the only part of the dedication program that will require the use of areas normally designed for student activities.

On Thursday the top executives of local industries, banks and contracting firms will be our featured guests. They will be served a Continental breakfast and then taken on the tour of the campus. The speaker for their program will be Dean Emanuel T. Weiler, PhD., Dean of the School of Industrial Man- agement.

Friday evening will see the alumni of Purdue University attending dedication week services. The Dean of Agriculture, and a possible candidate for governor of Indiana, Earl L. Butz, PhD, will be the speaker. Earlier that day he will be speaking in Hol- lywood, Florida.

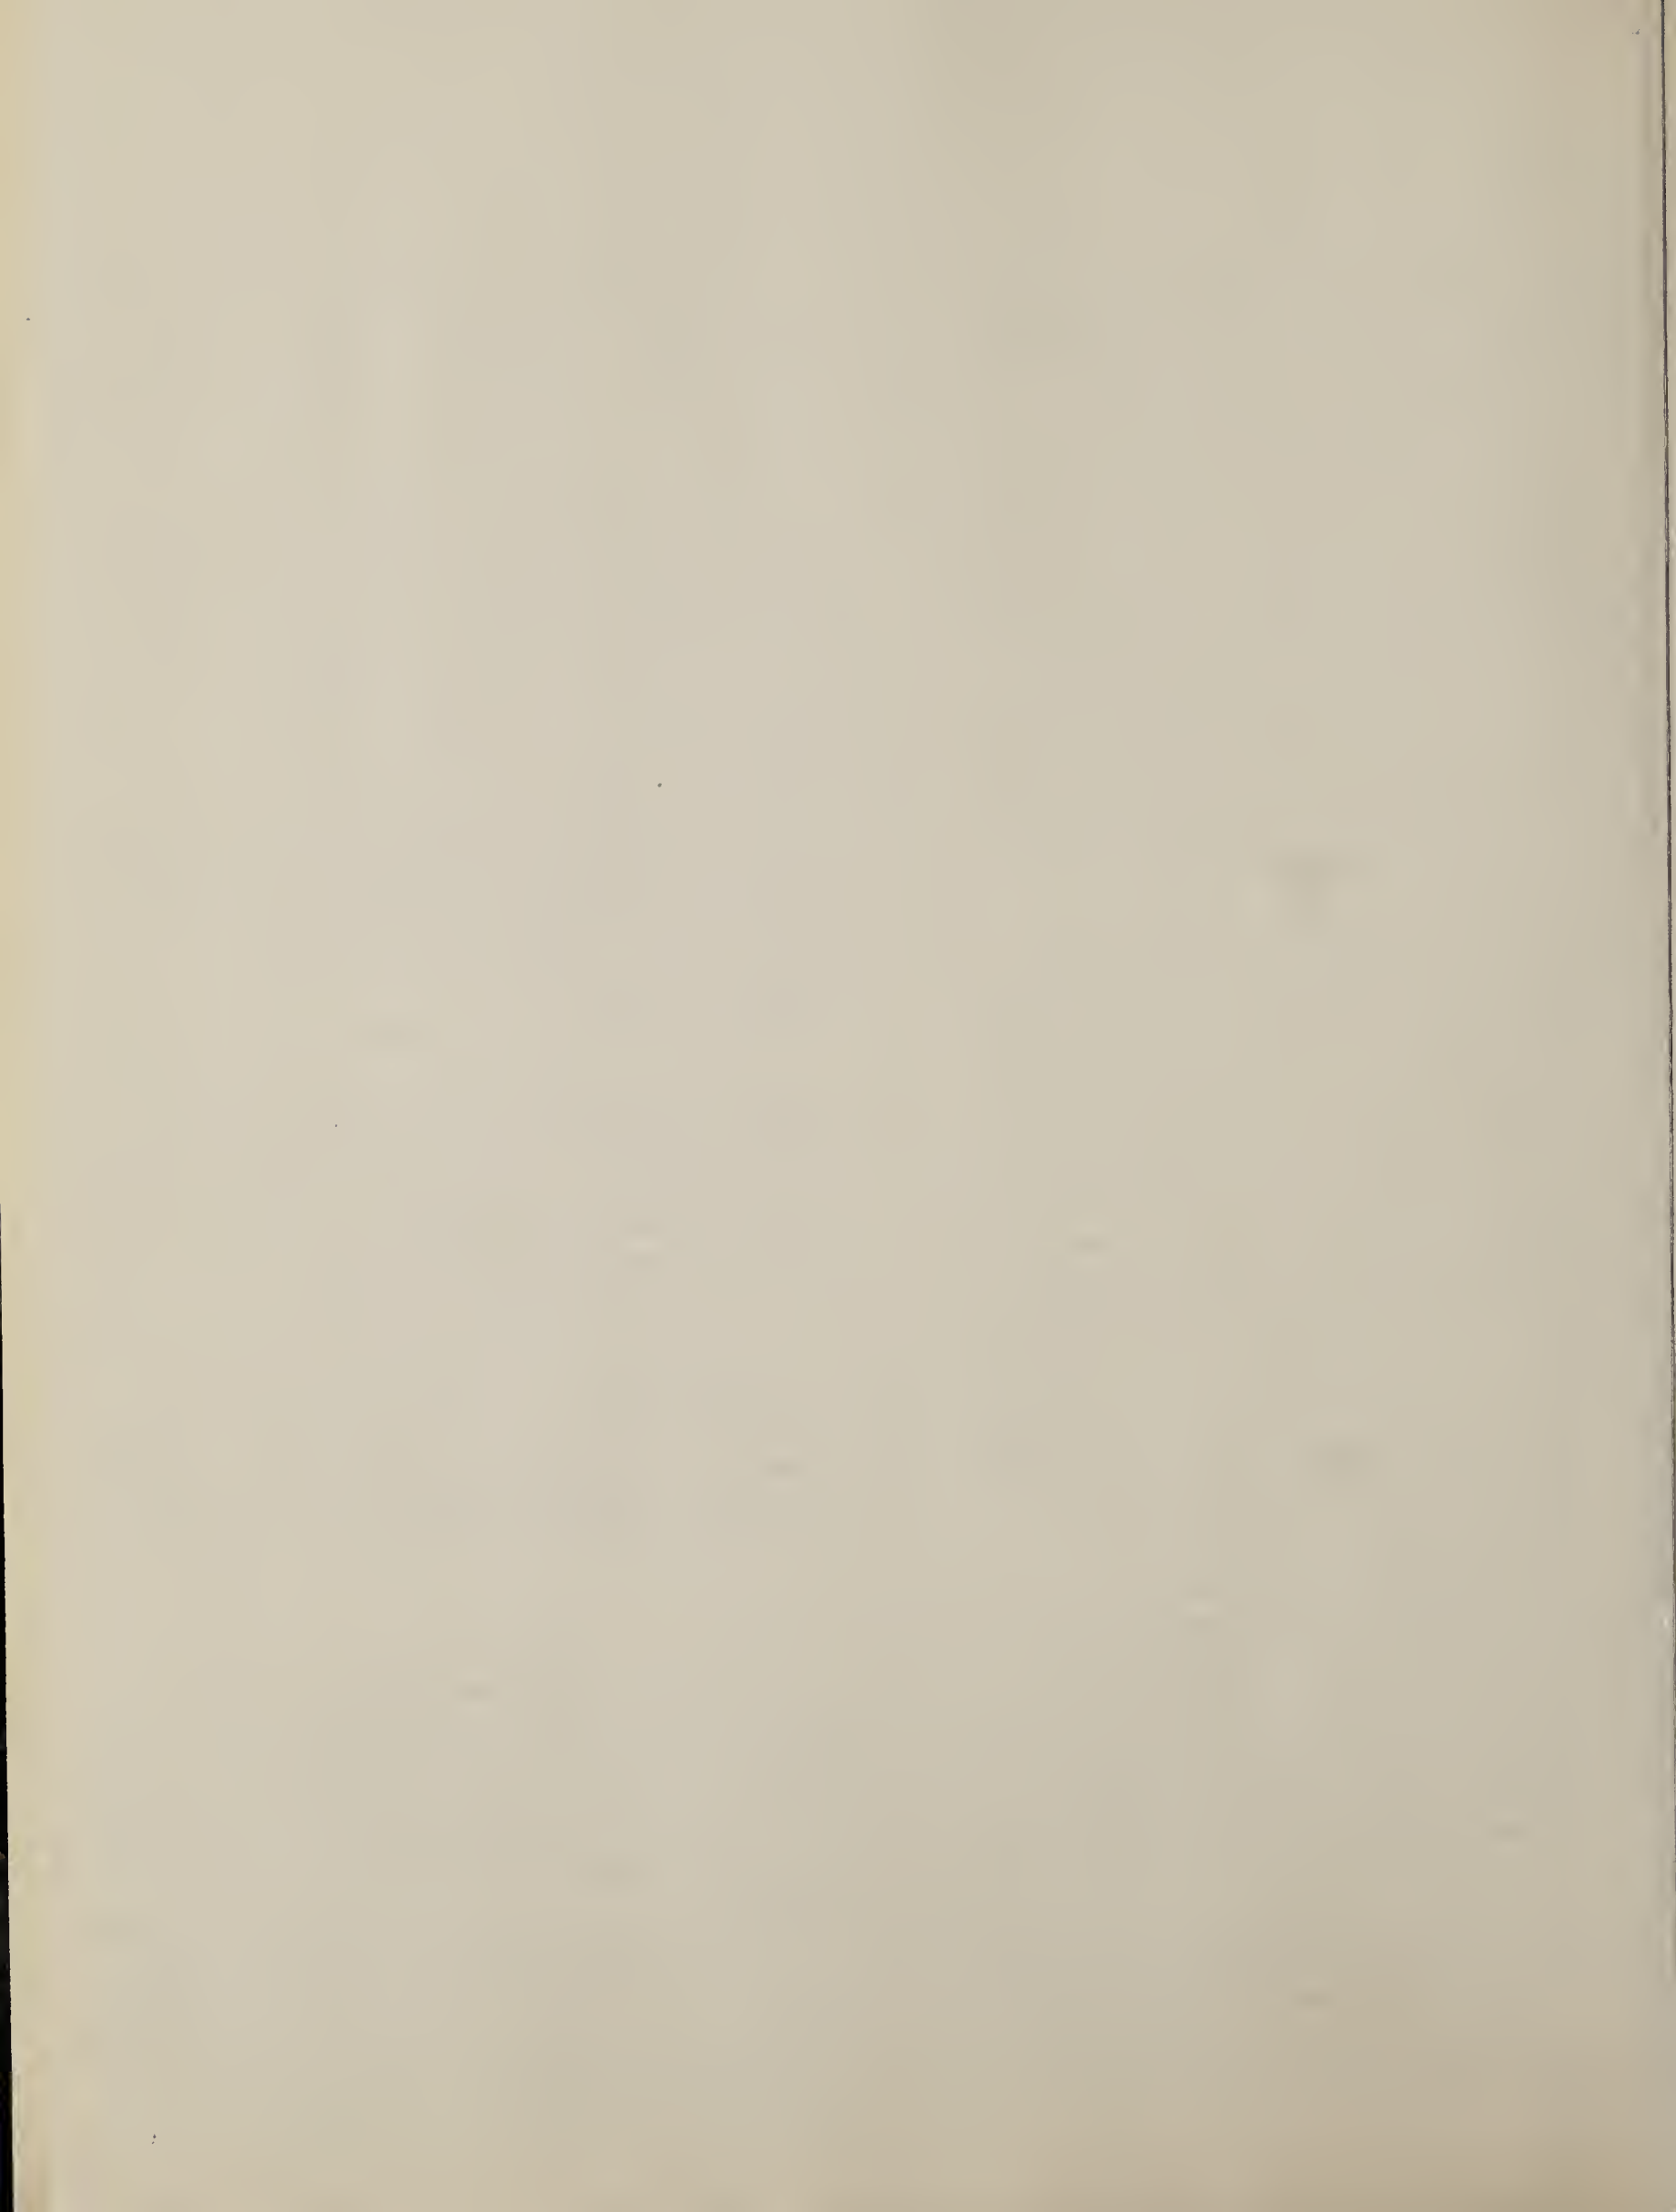

No activities are scheduled for Saturday.

The formal dedication will take place on Sunday, October 29, starting at 1:30 p.m. The service will include an academic proces- sion, which will include the President of Purdue University, Frederick L. Hovde, PhD., the Vice-Presidents of the University, the Board of Trustees, and the Faculty and Ad- ministration of Purdue North Central Campus. This program will be followed at 2:30 p.m. by an open house to which the public is invited. Dean Schwarz invites all to make a tour of the building and grounds. We will also be prepared to explain the services and facilities of our campus.

PSYCHO

"The Psychology Department at a south- eastern university recently set up a lounge where its industrious graduate students could relax and meditate. The lounge was equipped with a coffee maker and all the accompaniments even individual name-painted cups for all the scholars.

The Psychology students were appreciative. A sign soon decorated the lounge bulletin board: 'HAPPINESS IS A GOOD CUP OF COFFEE.' Then another appeared beneath it: 'SECURITY IS HAVING YOUR OWN CUP.' And, finally; 'ANXIETY IS WONDERING WHO HAS BEEN USING IT!'

PURDUE BEATS NOTRE DAME COLD; LLENKOPF POURS IT ON.

Purdue 28 Notre Dame 21 Thus the biggest upset of the year had come into being.

Notre Dame came into this game as defending National Champions and the Number 1 team in the country. With the great passing and catching team of Terry Hanratty and Jim Seymour, Notre Dame was expected to breeze by the Boilermakers. But an inspired Purdue team was led by Mike Phipps, their sensation-sophomore quarterback, and Leroy Keyes, who is considered as the best all around football player in the country. Phipps completed 14 passes out of 35 attempts and kept Purdue in front after the Irish bounced back to tie. Keyes caught 9 passes for 108 yards and 1 touchdown. On defense he knocked down 3 Hanratty passes and intercepted a fourth late in the game.

Purdue this week showed that they are the best underrated team in the country, and that they can play against the best teams in the country and win.

Looking forward to next week, Purdue must face a scrappy Northwestern team, which like Purdue, does not let National ratings scare them. Last Saturday they knocked off the Number 9 team in the country, Miami Florida 12-7 and this week gave 10th ranked Missouri all they could handle. Behind the fine passing of Bill Melyer and their tough defense, Northwestern should give Purdue all they can handle, if they are still on cloud Nine.

Those planning to attend the game this Saturday hope to see a lot of North Central students there to support this year's national champions. Please notice the sign on the overpass north of PNC on 421 which says, "We beat the hell out of No. 1."

WORDS OF WISDOM

NAME THE NEWSPAPER

You are holding the very first copy of your newspaper. As you can see, it has no name. We are leaving that up to you. The staff will select the best suggestions offered--and will give a prize to the one who submitted the winning name. The prize--two tickets to Purdue-Notre Dame football game.

This will not be the usual format. We have not received all of the printing equipment which will enable us to do a "professional" journalism job.

The newspaper is "for the students" and "by the students." We hope to become the voice that expresses the feelings and attitudes of our student body. We will cheer and chide as the need arises.

Remember -- we are your newspaper! ! !

LOOKING AHEAD WITH THE S.E.C.

In order for the Student Executive Committee to fulfill the expectations of the student body, it must attract student participation. S.E.C. meetings will be posted and open to the student body. If there is something that you would like to bring up for action by the S.E.C., notify one of your S.E.C. members and they will have it placed on the agenda.

One of the first tasks before the S.E.C. is the formulation of a constitution which will be submitted to the student body for approval. In order to draft a fair and comprehensive constitution a committee representing the student body and the student organizations will be formed. If you are interested in this task, watch for a notice of a meeting on the bulletin board or in the newspaper.

This is going to be your government. There are going to be many ways in which you can participate. Complaints are welcome; but, then so is participation!

HOLIDAY

HOLIDAY SEMI-FORMAL

The freshmen members of the Women's Club have been working very hard on the forthcoming "Christmas Wonderland in White" semi-formal dance. Paula Iona and Anne Pizurek are co-chairmen of the affair. They have made arrangements for the dance to be held at the Holiday Inn on December 3, 1967 from 9:00 p.m.--1:00 a.m. The Rogues have been contracted to provide the music. The cost is $3 per couple. Tickets are available from Women's Club members, and a limited number will also be available at the door. Invitations have been issued to all faculty members, and a big turnout is the hope of the Women's Club.

Plans are also in the making to provide Christmas dinner for a needy family. Members are urged to bring some canned goods or other non-perishable items to PNC before the 20th. This food should be a compliment to a turkey dinner. A box will be provided in the bookstore to hold the food.

MEN'S CLUB BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT

The Men's Club is sponsoring a double elimination tournament to be held at the La Porte National Guard Armory. Each team will have to lose two games before being eliminated. The dates for the tournament are December 26, 27, and 28, 1967.

The tournament will be played under high school rules, and there will be two referees per game. They will be certified referees from the Michigan City Parks and Recreation Board.

Ten men must be signed up for each team. Six men must be either students or faculty from PNC. The other four men can be from anywhere provided they hold a University card. Four men must be present five minutes after the scheduled start of the game or a forfeit will occur.

The deadline for signing up is Monday, December 18, 1967. A schedule for the first games will be announced at a later date.

A five dollar entry fee will be required by each team on entry to the tournament. These fees will be used entirely for trophies, and each player on the winning team will receive a trophy.

Merry

Christmas

Do you as a student, faculty member, or an administrator of PNC have something that you would like to say? If so, I hope that you will take the time to let your newspaper know your ideas so that in turn we can pass it along to others. This is your chance to express your views on matters that you feel are important. It will be our policy to print contributions from anyone who writes on a topic of real concern in a well-written form.

Please feel free to turn in any comments or suggestions pertaining to the paper. They will be read and considered, but not necessarily put into action. This is the only way that we can find out if we, as a newspaper staff, are serving our purpose which is to inform those people associated with PNC of topics of concern to them.

I hope that through our student newspaper we can express the ideas of many people who are associated with PNC.

If you have an article that you would like printed, please hand it in to any member of the staff or take it to the office, and ask them to put it in the newspaper mailbox.

This is your paper, and this is your chance to take an active interest in it.

SMOKE SIGNALS

It has been suggested that the smoking regulations at Purdue North Central be broadened somewhat. This may not be too much to request of the school, after all, haven't all of us at one time or another wished that we didn't have to run from the third floor to the lounge just to have a cigarette between classes?

This reporter knows that the S.E.C. has submitted a recommendation to the Dean for a broadening of the smoking regulations. It is also known that the school's insurance is based on the number of square feet of smoking space allotted in the building; the more square feet, the higher the rate.

But don't lose faith students, maybe if the administration hears enough voice they will be willing to pay a little more money in order to accommodate the students and give them a smoking area on each floor.

STUDENTS SAY

Do you think smoking should be allowed on the landings? Why or why not?

Gene Baron: I guess so. Why not? They have ashtrays there, don't they?

Henrietta Gast: Yes, where there are tray receptacles. Either that or have designated smoking areas on each floor but I can't see cigarette butts all over the floor.

Tom Grudovich: Yes, because when I have a nicotine fit I can't run from the third floor to the basement. My lungs can't take it.

Dave Hawkins: I guess so. That way people won't have to run to the basement.

Steve Hedges: No, for insurance reasons. The more square footage of space devoted to smoking area, the higher the rates. Also, the kids wouldn't use the receptacles and would butt their cigarettes on the floor and burn the

FROM THE DESK OF DEAN SCHWARZ

Christmas is the time for presents, and Dean Schwarz hopes that the students, faculty, and administration will look at the new Purdue North Central Campus as a Christmas present for everyone.

Dean Schwarz has expressed his gratitude for the way that the students have been responding to keeping the school in good condition. He hopes that the school will remain a place we can all be proud of if we all take the responsibility of keeping it in shape.

Dean Schwarz would like to wish everyone a Merry Christmas, and he is looking forward to a successful New Year at Purdue
North Central in 1968.

NEWSPAPER ELECTION

Wednesday, December 6, 1967 saw the election of the officers of the student newspaper. The following officers were elected: Frances Booth, Michigan City, Ed.
Asst. Ed.s are Forest Wells, Chesterton;
Don Belzowski, La Porte; Barbara Blank, Michigan City. Jim Clark of La Porte was elected the treasurer for the student Newspaper.

The first order of business was to decide on a name for their paper. After many rounds of voting on the many names suggested by students and faculty, the staff decided on the name North Central Barker. This name not only identifies the location of this campus of Purdue University, but it also reflects some of the history of our regional campus.

WHAT IS IANS?

What is IANS? It is the Indiana Association of Nursing Students, a pre-professional organization of nursing students in twenty-nine schools of nursing in the state of Indiana. The state is divided into nine districts; the elected representatives from these districts vote for state officers at the annual convention held in February.

The purpose of IANS is to aid in the development and growth of the individual student by fostering good citizenship. It helps to prepare her or him for membership and participation in the parent organizations, the Indiana State Nurses Association and the Indiana League for Nursing.

There are four levels of Student Nurses Associations. In our local group we have 21 members at present. Perhaps this article will encourage others to join. Four schools of nursing comprise the North District: one four year college program, Goshen College; two three year diploma schools, Memorial School of Nursing and Holy Cross, both of South Bend; one two year Associate Degree School, Purdue North Central. As mentioned above, there are nine such districts in the state organization. The state theme for this year is "Start Now." The National Student Nurses Association is made up of members from the 50 states plus the territories of Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands. Payment of dues ensures membership in all four associations.

Local students active in the district level are Barbara Campbell, Program Committee, Joyce Carpenter, Finance Committee, and Wilbur Stephens, Bylaws Committee. He is also our local Corresponding Secretary. Terri Shawley is serving on the State Recruitment Committee. She will go with an R.N. to career nights at local high schools to tell about nursing. The State Convention will be February 24. North District will be allowed to have 10 elected voting delegates; however, any nursing student can attend.

ROTC AT PNC

The Purdue-Lafayette campus has now made available to transfer students a two year ROTC program in which transferring students can receive their officer's commission in all three services. Application deadline for the Army and Navy are January 18, 1968 and March 15, 1968 respectively. The Air Force Officers Qualification Test deadline was December 2, but these two tests will be given at 9:00 a.m. in Room 216 of the AESA building. The Air Force test deadline was December 2, but this information was not released in time for compliance.

Students selected for this two-year Advanced Course must complete six weeks of basic training for which they receive $22 plus travel. Upon entering classes in the fall, students receive $50 a month up to 20 months while working for his BA or BS.

To qualify the student, upon entering, he must pass an aptitude test of reading comprehension and mathematics, a physical examination, and a personal interview by a board of officers.

Detailed information may be obtained from the Professor of Military Science, Armory, for the Army; Professor of Naval Science for the Navy, both are located in the AES Annex Building at the Purdue-Lafayette campus.

MERRY CHRISTMAS AND HAPPY NEW YEAR

The editors and the staff of the North Central Barker would like to take this opportunity to wish the students, faculty and administration, a very Merry Christmas and a Very Happy New Year.

INTERVIEWS.....

PROFESSOR BRILL

Who is Professor Brill? He is Purdue's professor of Physics 210, Math 123, 154A, 100. He was born in Albion, Indiana and went to Manchester College in North Manchester, Indiana, to get his BA degree in physics. He went on to Purdue Graduate School to receive his two masters and PhD in physics. He taught there for three to four years, before receiving his first assignment at PNC. He and his wife, Joan, with their two daughters; Andrea 5 and Jackie 2, now reside in Michigan City. He commented that it will take him time to get used to teaching undergraduates, but that he does enjoy teaching.

MR. BOHLEY

Purdue North Central has many new faculty members, but another new face is also present. Mr. Bohley is the new head librarian. Mr. Bohley was born and reared in Indianapolis, Indiana. He earned his bachelor's degree at Purdue University, and in 1967 he was awarded his master's degree from Indiana University. Before coming to our campus, Mr. Bohley spent three years as the assistant head of the Special Services Unit on the Lafayette campus.

Mr. Bohley and his wife live in Westfield with their daughter, Karen Ann, and son, David Alan. Mrs. Bohley enrolled in credit hours. In his spare time, Mr. Bohley enjoys woodworking.

MR. STEVE RADOS

Mr. Steve Rados was born in Nis, Yugoslavia, where he received his primary and secondary education. World War II was the first major turning point in his life. Mr. Rados volunteered in the Yugoslavian Army to help defend his country against the German invaders. When Yugoslavia collapsed before the overpowering enemy assault, he was captured and, consequently, spent four years in Germany as a prisoner of war. Mr. Rados counts April 25, 1945, as one of the happiest days of his life. On that memorable day he was freed from German captivity by the U.S. Seventh Army.

After his release, Mr. Rados chose not to return to his native Yugoslavia because of the Communist regime there, but to seek entry into the United States. While waiting for the necessary clearance, he began to pick up the threads of his interrupted education, studying electro-mechanical engineering at the Technische Hochschule at Munich, Germany. He entered the United States in December, 1949. He worked for a time at the steel mills while learning English, then began his studies at Purdue University. He received his Bachelor's Degree in Electrical Engineering in 1955; and after a period of employment with International Harvester Company, Motorola, and General Electric, he returned to school for further graduate study in electrical engineering at Illinois Institute of Technology. (Master's degree, 1962, and currently working toward PhD degree)

Mr. Rados spent three and a half years in Southeast College in the Technology Department as an instructor. He came to Purdue's Electrical Engineering Technology program to teach and operate new equipment.

Mr. Rados is married (his wife is a graduate pharmacist) and is the father of a $4\frac{1}{2}$ year old boy. Photography and sports rate highly among his interests.

EDITORIAL ON THE CHRISTMAS SPIRIT

By Asst. Ed. Don Belzowski

Yes, sportfans, Christmas is almost upon us; and, what with this being our Christmas edition of the brand new Purdue North Central Barker, I feel it only appropriate that at least somewhere in here we mention the Christmas spirit. Every year at this time (or a few months earlier) the American free enterprise system braces itself (undoubtedly with a good deal of holiday cheer) and prepares to break all existing sales records with the onslaught of countless members of our species, all buying and buying their Christmas peace offerings early before the big "rush."

An old legend (circa 1950) has it that we must buy our gifts somewhere between Halloween and Thanksgiving to save our consciences from that awful feeling of guilt we will surely have--should we, God forbid, wait till about the last month before taking any action. Well, somehow we seem to cope with this condemning guilt. Indeed, we even find time to engage in some healthy competition with our neighbors. Who has not found the pleasure around Christmas time of frantically trying to out-decorate our equally frantic neighbors? We hang our blinking lights and prop up our aluminum trees and plant in our yards cardboard Santas and animals with the most sincere Christmas spirit.

1967 is surely, folks, going to be another wonderful year for the open-field Christmas games with records for early shopping, most cards received, and gaudiest lawn displays expected to fall like aerosol decorating snow.

Enjoy the show, and, in the sincerest of the commercial holiday spirit, may I wish you all a very groovy Xmas.

DECORATING CONTEST

The celebration of the first Christmas at PNC will be aided by the four trees that were purchased by the S.E. and decorated by the Womens Club, Men's Club, S.T.S.T.S., and Newspaper. The decorating party was Friday night from 7:00-9:00 p.m. Each club was provided with a tree and stand; the decorating was left up to the club members. Judges were: Dr. Woodard, Mrs. Bowser, and Mrs. Richardson. The judges decided on the tree in the student lounge which was decorated by Claudia Hamlin, Sandy Kemerer, Jerry Widelski, Gene Baron, and Frances Booth for the Newspaper. The prize for the winning tree was $25.

SENATE ELECTIONS

Last week eight freshmen and three sophomores were elected to the Student Senate. They represent 2 1/2% of the full-time student body. Unfortunately the voter turn-out was small; if you didn't vote, don't complain. The new members are: freshmen, Doug Anderson, Dave Goldman, Patrick Dodson, Keith Harman, Mary Jo Novak, Beth Schaviak, Mary Schuh, Sue Therien, and sophomores Kathy Essling, Tom Kissinger, and Tom Learman. Mr. Wagliardo is the adviser and the meetings will be posted by him. Paul Janzaruk and Paul Magro functioned as the election committee.

BASKETBALL

A North Central basketball team has been organized. The first practice session was held Monday night, October 7, 1968 at the Westville High School Gym. Practice this week is Wednesday and Thursday nights from 7-9 p.m. at the Westville Gym. Guys are reminded to get a waiver slip from Mr. Bednar. Anyone interested can contact Mr. Bednar or go to practice. A schedule of games will be published later.

CLUB NEWS

The Flying Boilermakers met last Friday and elected Doug Ely, President and Doug Schultz, Vice President. Members are waiting for Joe Phillips' Airport to clear an airplane for their use. Dr. Buck is faculty adviser.

Tickets for the Purdue-Wake Forest football game are available in the office until Friday. The tickets are $1.00 and the game is at Purdue.

Items for the paper must be in by Monday night for Wednesday paper.

BLOODMOBILE TO VISIT PNC

The necessity of life is blood, and many ill or injured people depend on YOU to supply this blood. If you want to donate one pint of your blood the American Red Cross Bloodmobile will be at PNC on Oct. 24 from 10:00 am to 4:00 pm.

Anyone between 18 and 60 can give blood but if you are under 21 please get a permission slip for your parents to sign. The slip can be obtained from Mr. Wagliardo, Student Affairs Director. If you have about one hour of free time on October 24, please sign up after Monday, October 21. It doesn't hurt anymore than a shot and you get a free sandwich and milk when you have finished.

In order to promote a large turn-out and make this an annual event the Red Cross has offered a permanent trophy. The competition this year will be between the male and female donors with winner's name inscribed on the trophy. Let's make a real effort to pass the goal of 50 pints the Red Cross has set.

A Purdue North Central coed has been tapped for membership in the Alpha Lambda Delta, National Honorary Society for Freshmen Women.

Kristy Ann Kniola, daughter of Mrs. Phyllis Kniola, 1107 1/2 Manhattan Street, Michigan City will be initiated into the society along with 30 other coeds in ceremonies to be held at the Lafayette campus on Thursday, November 7.

To be eligible for membership a student must attain at least a 5.5 average while carrying a minimum load of 14 hours in her first semester of college or she must have at least a 5.5 graduation index and a minimum total of 28 hours for her first two semesters.

NOTICE: Dean Schwarz has announced that smoking is now permitted in the Student Study Lounge. Please use ash trays provided. This is a change to the 1968-69 Purdue North Central Student Handbook

ROCK VISITS PNC

On October 2, Lt. Governor Robert L. Rock, Democratic candidate for Governor, visited PNC to campaign. Dave Bannwart, President of the Young Democrats Club introduced him.

Rock, if elected governor, proposes to reorganize the executive level of state government by making the governor and Lt. Governor a team on the election ballot, by allowing the governor to be re-elected, by making all two year elective offices four year terms, and by changing the office of judge to an appointed office rather than an elected office. He also advocates the revision of the Indiana constitution and improvement of Indiana roads.

During his term of office, Lt. Governor Rock said he helped Indiana become one of the leading states in industry and tourism. He introduced two bills to provide a fund for cities to borrow money for industrial improvement; he exposed Hoosier businessmen to European trade, moving them from 12th to 9th in industrial export and to 6th in agricultural export; and he helped increase the tourist dollar to $21 million a year.

A question and answer period followed his speech. His aids passed out the packets of tourist information used by Indiana.

BASKETBALL

Practice for the Purdue North Central Basketball Team is continuing - at various times depending upon the availability of the Westville gymnasium. Over 20 students are competing for positions on the team which will represent this campus during the coming Basketball Season. The schedule has been completed and will be published next week. Present indications are that the team will play at least one game each in LaPorte, Michigan City and Valparaiso even though the Westville gym will be considered the home court.

Dean Blackwell has made tentative arrangements for the showing of the color football film of the Purdue University - Ohio State game on Wednesday, October 30th, 1968, at 12:30 in Room 230. Mr. Joe Rudolph, Executive Secretary of the Purdue Alumni Association, will bring the film from the Lafayette Campus on that date. Mr. Rudolph also will narrate the film and explain the various "unfortunate" events that occurred during the game. The film will last approximately 45 minutes. All students and staff are invited to attend the showing at 12:30 p. m. on Wednesday, October 30, 1968. If there is a good student turnout for Mr. Rudolph, it may be possible to arrange for another film later in the season.

ADMINISTRATION ANNOUNCEMENTS

A reminder - the color football film of the Purdue University - Ohio State game will be shown on Wednesday, October 30, 1968, at 12:30 in Room 230. Mr. Joe Rudolph, Executive Secretary, Purdue Alumni Association, will narrate the film which will last approximately 45 minutes. All students and staff are invited to attend the film showing at 12:30 p.m. If there is a good student turn out, it may be possible to arrange for another film later in the season.

Pre-registration starts November 18 to January 13. Students should make appointments now with their academic advisors.

Anyone interested in transferring to Lafayette in the Fall of '69 should make application immediately because there will be a critical housing shortage on campus.

November 12 is the last day for any student to drop a class with no grade report. The date which appeared previously in the paper was in error.

Mr. William O. Broad, from Wellington, New Zealand, visited Purdue North Central Campus on October 22, 1968. Mr. Broad is traveling in the United States under the auspices of the Carnegie Corporation of New York to study higher education in the United States. He visited the PNC campus to study the Purdue Regional campus "concept" in the state of Indiana.

NEW FACULTY

A B.S. degree from Purdue University in math in 1965, plus a MS degree from Purdue University in 1968, equals a new math professor at PNC. His name is Ralph E. Schreiber. Mr. Schreiber's personal interests are divided between Chess Club sponsor and a wide interest in sports and music. He was born in Wells County, Ind. and now resides in the Michigan City area. The sum of his opinion of PNC is he likes the atmosphere and the students enthusiasm.

Professor Walter Evans is not only a native of Lafayette but a 1954 graduate of Purdue University with a bachelor of science in math. He received his masters degree from the University of Michigan in 1959. Professor Evans teaches computer technology: "DO NOT BEND, FOLD, OR MUTILATE."

Mr. Evans is married and has two children and enjoys photography, flying, and "potpourri." One can tell he has been around computers, when asked for his impression of PNC he answered, "insufficient data to calculate".

MIDWEST STEEL

The management of Midwest Steel in an attempt to improve their management skills, has initiated a Management Development Conference in cooperation with the Purdue North Central Campus. From Sept. 16 to Nov. 22, the foreman, general foremen, and assistant superintendents are involved in this up-to-date and intensive approach to the improvement of management skills.

Over a ten week period approximately two hundred men will participate in week long conference sessions. The men are staying at the Holiday Inn during this week-long training period.

Dean Schwarz, Dean Blackwell, and Mr. Bobillo are the instructors for the first two days of a training. Dean Schwarz commences the program with a discussion of conference dynamics, Dean Blackwell speaks on the principles of management, and Mr. Bobillo deals with motivation, leadership, morale, and communications in his discussion.

Mr. Bobillo, who is the coordinator of this program, stated, "There is a tremendous need for programs of this nature in industry. Management must be familiar with the constant changes and new concepts in industry. I am pleased with the reactions of the participants. They have responded well to the material presented."

Mr. Bobillo feels that this conference is a great success and hopes that other industries will notice this. He added, "This conference is designed to familiarize the men with other departments in their company for a better understanding of the production process and obstacles that other departments encounter."

Mr. John Bean, a foreman for the Five-Stand Mill and Midwest Steel, said that he believes that the classes will be of considerable help to him in dealing with the problems of his department and now he can fully recognize the role that his department plays in the complex production of steel. He added that Mr. Bobillo, Dean Schwarz, and Dean Blackwell were "great".

RECITAL

Dr. Gilbert Fischer, from the Purdue Calumet Campus in Hammond, will present a piano recital on November 19, 1968 at 1:00 p.m. in the Formal Lounge. The recital is free and open to all.

BLOODMOBILE

CHESS

The BLOODMOBILE will be here tomorrow, October 24. Have YOU signed up yet? The sheets to sign are in the Student Activities Lounge and the permission slips for persons under 21 are there also. Sign NOW, you may need blood someday.

The requirements are simple: If you have given blood before, you must wait a minimum of eight weeks; females must weigh at least 110 lbs., males at least 130 lbs.; eat within 6 hours of the donation (no fatty food) and get a good night's rest.

The competition is on, men against women, the trophy is in the first floor trophy case. Sign up now, spend a worthwhile hour, and let's pass the goal of 62 pints set for us by the Red Cross.

NOTICE: Dean Schwarz has announced that smoking is now permitted in the Student Study Lounge. Please use ash trays provided. This is a change to the 1968-69 Purdue North Central Student Handbook.

Beginning next week and continuing for a month, the first PNC Chess Tournament will be held. It will be a round robin tournament with games being scheduled at the convenience of those participating. The first six players will be eligible to participate in the National Intercollegiate Tournament; the first four as members of the PNC team and the next two as alternates.

To participate, sign the poster on the bulletin board in the student lounge. Deadline for signing is Friday.

Chess Club meets Thursday at 7:30 pm in room 160. A talk on Sicillian Defense, a defense which forces White to play your game, will be given.

The Flying Boilermakers have now secured an airplane for their use. A meeting will be held at Joe Phillip's Airport on October 24, at 12:00 noon.

The "nameless" PNC basketball team has released notice of four scheduled games. They are as follows:

SENATE MEETS

The first meeting of the Purdue North Central Senate was held in two sessions, the first one on Wednesday, October 23 and the second one on Thursday, October 24. The following students were elected officers: President, Tom Learman; Vice President, Dave Goldman; Secretary, Mary Jo Novak; Treasurer, Doug Anderson, and Corresponding secretaries Beth Schaviak and Kathy Essling.

The Senate unanimously voted to give the blood drive trophy to the faculty, based on the high percentage of faculty donors. A committee was appointed to plan a dance for November 8th.

An appeals court for school traffic violations will hold sessions on Wednesday morning at 8 am. The court will only hear the appeal and the appellant will be notified of the decision by mail.

A "Name the Basketball Team" contest will be held by the Senate. (Ed. note, Why not include a contest for a newspaper name?) Home game basketball tickets for the season will be free to any PNC student with a Student Identification card.

All clubs and organizations are asked to submit a planned budget for the 1968-69 school year.

Mr. Wagliardo still has many run-away books and other items in his office. If you are missing your favorite book or even the book you hate most, please pick them up in Mr. Wagliardo's office.

CANDIDATES

Last week PNC was visited by two opposing candidates for Congress, Earl Landgrebe and Edward F. Kelly.

Republican candidate Earl Landgrebe spoke to the students on Wednesday and discussed the three main issues of the 1968 election. Militant action, Landgrebe feels, is the only answer to the situation in Viet Nam. Concerning civil disobedience and civil rights, the Republican candidate favors firmer police action. He also said constitutional rights should be over-looked in order to protect the innocent. He feels we should "....crack 'em (rioters) on the head and ask questions later."

Landgrebe, a lifelong resident of the 2nd District, owns a trucking business outside of Valparaiso. He has been a State Senator for 10 years.

On Friday, Landgrebe's opponent, Democratic candidate Edward F. Kelly spoke to PNC students. Kelly, a lawyer, is also a lifelong resident of the 2nd District.

He feels we should end the struggle in Viet Nam as quickly as possible but do so by peaceful negotiations. He advocates higher salaries and adequate training for police to provide better protection for all citizens but feels constitutional rights should not be violated.

If elected, Kelly hopes to attain a position on an agricultural committee. He believes the farming situation is deplorable because the farming industry is not profitable.

Although Mr. Kelly acknowledged a personal lack of information dealing with some issues he is willing to find acceptable solutions.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT CONVENTION

The sixth annual Student Government Convention of Purdue and I.U. Regional Campuses will be held in Fort Wayne November 15-17.

The most important business of the convention will be to ratify the constitution of the association of Regional campuses (ARC).

Several years ago the ARC was initiated for the purpose of improving communication among the separated regional campuses of Purdue and I.U. The convention discovered that a problem on one campus had many times been solved by another. An exchange of ideas and advice is the primary objective of the convention.

CULTURE UNLIMITED

Dr. Gilbert Fischer, Purdue Calumet Campus, will present a piano recital on November 19 at 1:00 in the Formal Lounge. The recital is free and open to all. If the interest is good, plans will be made for future "mind-expanding" presentations.

Effective November 5, the Student Activities Lounge will be closed at 10:30 p.m. every Tuesday evening and will reopen at 7:30 a.m. on Wednesdays. This closing will permit the Custodians to thoroughly clean the Lounge.

Reminder: Pre-registration starts November 18 to January 13. Students should make appointments now with their academic advisors.

BLOODMOBILE FLUNKS OUT

The bloodmobile left the Purdue North Central Campus with only thirty-five of the necessary one hundred seventy-two required pints to meet the LaPorte County quota. The bloodmobile workers would like to thank those who donated blood.

The thirty-five pints donated were divided as follows: men, 7 pints; women, 7 pints; faculty and staff, 14 pints; others, 7 pints.

This year the Student Senate initiated an award that will be given annually to the leading group in the drive. The award this year will be presented to the faculty and staff.

Mr. Wagliardo, Student Affairs Officer, stated, "Some (people) don't realize the seriousness of this drive and the result is evident." He conceded that it was a poor day, due to low attendance on Thursday.

Next year the bloodmobile will return on a more appropriate day. There will be no excuses next year. It is hoped that students will show more enthusiasm for this event next year. Someday the blood bank may save your life. Perhaps you can save another's life now. Think it over.

ART SHOW

The Progressive Art Club at Indiana State Prison is holding its fourth annual art exhibit and sale on November 16. The show is from 6:00 - 8:00 p.m. in the prison fieldhouse. The public is welcome.

Lafayette is on Eastern Standard time which means that it is one hour later there than it is in this area.

NEW FACULTY

The new Industrial Management instructor, Mr. Daniel P. Anderson, comes to us from Kalamazoo, Mich. Mr. Anderson is now living in Valparaiso with his wife.

An important point in the field of Industrial Management is to be well informed which Mr. Anderson's majors show he is. He received a B.S. degree from Northwestern in 1967 with a combined major in business and English. He continued his education at the University of Michigan and received a M.B.A. in 1968 in finance and marketing.

When asked for his opinion of PNC, he stated that he felt academically, PNC is off to a good start as a regional campus. Mr. Anderson also feels the staff is very competent, qualified, and a wonderful group to work with.

Mr. Anderson's interests include investment, management, football, both as a participant and spectator, sports cars, and classical and folk music. Like most people he also has a pet peeve which is an illiterate student.

Anyone interested in transferring to Lafayette in the Fall of '69 should make application immediately because there will be a critical housing shortage on campus.

November 12 is the last day for any student to drop a class with no grade report. The date which appeared previously in the paper was in error.

RICHARDSON RESIGNS

Chief H.B. Richardson of the PNC Police has turned in his resignation, effective November 8. He has been affiliated with the campus since July, 1967. Chief Richardson said, "I would like to thank everyone for their support and help." He has accepted a job in Elkhart as a security guard for Host International Foods. As yet, no replacement has been appointed. All of us at PNC wish to express our thanks for a job well done; and we all wish Chief Richardson a lot of luck in Elkhart.

HELP WANTED

The basketball team needs your support and help. Help is needed to take tickets and perform other duties for home games. If you can help, please leave your name with a Student Senate member of the Student Affairs Office.

SUPPORT - The basketball team this year has 20 scheduled games including 8 "home" games and several "near-by" games. A substantial portion of your student activity fee has been budgeted for the PNC team. Let's show that we care about the PNC team and that we appreciate the team efforts to make this regional campus something other than a building with classrooms. A winning team needs to have strong support. SHOW THEM WE CARE!

ART SHOW

The Progressive Art Club at Indiana State Prison is holding its fourth annual art exhibit and sale on November 16. The show is from 6:00 - 8:00 p.m. in the prison fieldhouse. The public is welcome.

SINAI SUNDAY EVENING FORUM

On November 17th the Sinai Sunday Evening Forum will begin its 15th year. Since its founding in 1954 the forum has brought to Michigan City many national and world leaders in politics, government, entertainment, journalism, and science. The speakers are chosen on the basis of their reputation, their availability, the timeliness of their subject matter, and their appeal to the forum-going public. This year the Forum will present five speakers.

Mr. R. Barry Farrell on November 17th will speak on the "Thaw and Freeze Behind the Iron Curtain". Mr. Farrell, a Northwestern University Professor, is a Specialist in Soviet and Eastern European politics and has made many trips behind the Iron Curtain.

On December 8th, Mr. David Brinkley, world-famous NBC news analyst and commentator, will present "State of the Nation". He will analyze the Presidential election and the effects of the campaign on our national posture, both at home and abroad.

"Power Politics in the Space Age" will be the topic of Mr. John Clark Kimball on January 5th. Mr. Kimball is a State Department expert on geopolitics and is the Senior Editor of its Bureau of Public Affairs. He will take a look at the problems and opportunities confronting the U.S. as it approaches the 21st Century.

On February 2nd, actress Lily Lodge will interpret characters from modern and classical literature, selected for their humanity and wit. "Theater is a Mirror" is the title of the speech by this dramatic actress who is a member of a distinguished political family.

Mr. Kenneth Crawford will present on March 9th, "1969 - Time of Transition". Mr. Crawford, a respected Washington columnist and editor of Newsweek magazine, will analyze the role of the new administration as it attempts to solve the national problem of law and order with justice.

As a PNC student you are entitled to a special student rate of $2.00 per season ticket. No single admission tickets will be available. All the lectures start at 7:30 at the Sinai Temple. If you are interested in purchasing a ticket see Mr. Wagliardo, Student Affairs Officer.

PNC'S FIRST FLING

Purdue North Central presents its first dance of the 1968-69 academic year. The "Fling" will be November 8th from 9-12. The Student Senate is sponsoring the dance and has invited anyone who wishes to attend. Tickets will be sold at the door: 50¢ with a PNC I.D. card and $1.00 for guests.

The Payton Brothers will be featured at this Height-Ashbury scene in the Student Lounge. The Payton Brothers have been with Aretha Franklin, The Temptations, Jackie Wilson, and the 5th Dimensions. They also have played on the Purdue-Lafayette Campus and Illinois University.

PAYTON BROS. TRIUMPH

Friday night proved to be an excitement-filled evening in the student lounge. PNC's "first fling" of the year was a glowing, electrified affair. The Payton Bros. Revue proved to be a shot in the arm to the social life of the campus.

This writer tips his hat to a job well-done by the members of the Student Senate. The committees responsible for organizing the dance did an efficient, capable job. It seems after the success of the first dance of the season, there will be many others to come.

A WISH FOR SNOW

On Thursday, November 14, the Ski Club will present three interesting and informative movies. The films will be shown in room 239, beginning at 8:15 under the direction of Mr. Phillips.

The movies include: Europe '68, The U. S. Olympic Ski Team in Action, an exciting story of the 1968 U. S. Ski Team in European meets prior to the Olympics. The second film will be The Taste of Victory; the U.S. Ski Team takes on the top European skiers at Aspen, Sun Valley, and Heavenly Valley. The last film will be Yoo Hoo! I'm a Bird, a ski film showing the skiing facilities at Aspen, Colorado plus the fun and excitement of a winter vacation there.

The public is invited to attend at no charge.

MRS. NORA KINZER

Mrs. Kinzer lives in Lafayette with her husband and commutes to our campus for a sociology class. She earned her BA from the University of Toronto and spent a year studying in Madrid, Spain. Mrs. Kinzer received her MA in Spanish at Middlebury in Vermont and is presently working on a sociology PhD at Purdue. Mrs. Kinzer has taught Spanish at Purdue, Lafayette for seven years and spent the 1966-67 school year in Latin America as a teaching fellow.

She states her main interest is her husband but also enjoys horseback riding, football, music, and reading.

Mrs. Kinzer likes PNC very much. She feels the student body is very interesting but thinks the students are too quiet and accept her as an authoritarian.

FISCHER FEATURED

Professor Gilbert Fischer will present a piano recital in the Formal Lounge on November 19, at 1:00 p.m. Mr. Fischer has an AB in Music from Oberlin College and a Master's in Music and English from North Texas State. He also has a PhD in Philosophy from the University of Chicago. Professor Fischer has taught Philosophy at Purdue-Calumet for five years.

The piano recital will include Sonata No. 32, Opus 111 in C minor by Beethoven and the 12 Etudes of Debussy.

If this program is well received by the student body an attempt will be made to present more programs of this type during the year.

HOOSIER HYSTERIA BEGINS AT PNC

The premier season for the North Central basketball team begins November 21. Several fine opponents have been scheduled including Wilson Junior College and Crane Junior College. Both of these teams are from the Chicago area and are two of the strongest competitors in the Northern Indiana Junior College Conference. Also scheduled are Valpo University Junior Varsity, Roosevelt University Varsity, Bethel College, Southwest Michigan, and IU-PU, Fort Wayne. The Fort Wayne campus should provide an interesting rivalry since this is the first year for their team. The North Central team will meet the IU-PU team in a Christmas tournament at Indiana Tech.

The team is small but scrappy and have some experience. Neil Hurdle, Steve Hart, and Greg Christensen were all regulars at St. Mary's High School, Michigan City. Steve Hart, a forward and the tallest man at 6'4", is a fine shot and rebounder, Greg Christensen, a forward at 6'2", is very tough under the boards, and Neil Hurdle, a 6' guard, is a better than average shot from the outside and a team leader.

From Jackson Twp. High School are Al Krause and Henry Matthys. At 6'2", center Krause is small for a center but makes up for his lack of height in aggressiveness under the boards. Guard Matthys at 5'5" is the spark plug of the team.

Other players with high school experience include Dave Gonzorek, a 6' guard, with four years experience at Wawasee Prep, Fort Wayne, Everett Wallace who is a fine outside shot who averaged 15 points a game at Oregon-Davis two years ago and back from the service is Ed Haverstock who played high school ball at Rolling Prairie. Also, Lee Wainscott from LaPorte, a 6'2" forward, and from Elston, Bob Courington, a 6'2" center, Tom Buczkowski, a 6'2" forward, Pat Dodson, a 6' guard and David Santana, a 5'10" guard. From Valparaiso, Eric Youngren a 6' guard.

All North Central Students with ID cards will be admitted to all home games at no charge. Let's get behind this team and give them the backing they need and deserve.

EDITORIAL

If you drive an automobile to school, as do almost 1500 PNC students, you are immediately obligated to pay a parking fee. Unless, of course, you want to try and fight the system, which would be most costly than the parking fee. A five dollar fine levied for those who don't have their vehicle registered can hardly afford to park in the areas designated for "A" or "B" permits. You can park at the meters for ten cents an hour, but inevitably, the meter runs out during a three hour physics lecture, or when you are involved in a heated discussion over the parking facilities and meanwhile our alert law enforcement officials are nailing you for another dollar. Unless you have extremely radical convictions against parking fees, and an income to match, you make the concession for the sake of education. I feel that the student body and faculty of PNC are being subjugated to pay an outrageous parking fee by the administrators at the main campus in Lafayette.

All figures stated hereafter are approximations and should be considered as such. There are approximately 131,400 square feet of asphalt parking facilities at PNC at an estimated 17¢ per square foot construction cost. There are additional costs of construction such as: lighting, curbing, and sewerage. The total cost of the student unmetered parking area would roughly be $80,000. This semester there are 1468 registered vehicles, and in averaging the cost of "A" and "B" parking permits, parking fines, and parking meter revenue, the cost per registered vehicle is approximately $20.00 per semester. At this rate the University is obtaining almost $30,000.00 per semester in parking revenue. This means that the student and faculty parking areas would have paid for itself this semester.

Unlike the main campus in Lafayette, an automobile is a necessity at PNC and should be considered as such. The American Automobile Association states that the average American car costs 13¢ per mile to operate. At this rate the cost of driving one daily round trip to PNC from Michigan City would be almost $190 per semester. The municipal meters allow two hours for 10¢ compared to one hour for 10¢ at PNC.

I am aware of and share the discontent and annoyance of the student body and faculty at the parking regulations set by Lafayette administrators. The only means of correcting this situation is by careful arbitration between the student senate and the administration. I urge you not to remain silent but to notify your elected student representative and student affairs officer about any complaints you may have. If you take the side of complacency, you can look forward to repetition in parking assessments next year.

Bruce Baker
Ron Kniola

EDITORS'S NOTE: There is a possibility that the parking revenue enters a cumulative fund. We believe that the students should be informed of such appropriations. It is also our belief that lesser parking fees might be acceptable to the faculty and students, provided there are any students here next semester. It is no wonder that students wish to live on the main campus at Lafayette.

ARC HOLDS CONVENTION

ARC MEETS IN FT. WAYNE

During the week-end of November 15-17th, eight of North Central's Senate members including: Tom Learman, Kathy Essling, Dave Goldman, Doug Anderson, Beth Schaviak, Keith Harmon, Mary Schuh, and Sue Therien, NEWSPAPER? Editor Lynn Hauck, and Student Affairs Officer John Wagliardo attended the Association of Regional Campuses (ARC) at the Gerber Haus Motor Hotel in Ft. Wayne, Ind. Other campuses present were Purdue Calumet, Purdue Indianapolis, Ind. U. Indianapolis, I.U. South Bend, I.U. Kokomo, Purdue Southeastern, and I.U.-P.U. Ft. Wayne who were the hosts of the convention.

The purpose of ARC is to more effectively unite the regional campuses, and to help member campuses with individual problems.

The delegates spent the week-end writing an effective and acceptable constitution. Each school represented had three voting delegates during the General Session to adopt the constitution. Tom Learman, Kathy Essling, and Dave Goldman cast votes for PNC under a unit rule.

A campus will become a member of ARC when they ratify the constitution on their campus. The Student Senate of PNC has already done this making this campus the first member of ARC under the new constitution.

A meeting of all regional campuses is scheduled for the North Central Campus in December to set the agenda for the next convention at Indianapolis in March.

THANKS MR. WAGLIARDO

Mr. John Wagliardo, Student Affairs Officer, was appointed parliamentarian by Harry Luchnenko, I.U.-P.U. Ft. Wayne, the Presidential Aid who conducted the General Session. Without Mr. Wagliardo's knowledge of procedure it is the opinion of this writer the convention would not have accomplished anything. He saved us from much unnecessary argument on procedure. Thank you.

STUDENT SENATE MINUTES

The third meeting of the Senate was called to order by Pres. Tom Learman at 4:30 p.m., Nov. 7th. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

The dance committee reported that all details had been taken care of, but that several people were still needed to help decorate. Volunteers responded.

Mr. Wagliardo reported that the First Merchant's National Bank in Michigan City had donated the printing of posters and season basketball tickets. Two hundred, fifty $5.00 season tickets and fifty posters listing the team's schedule will be printed. It was also noted that a Basketball Management Committee was needed to handle the sale of tickets and other such details. Mary Schuh, Dave Goldman, Pat Dodson, and two people from the campus at large will form this committee.

The "Name the Basketball Team" committee gave a report. Theater tickets will be awarded to the person submitting the winning name. The tickets will be presented at half time of the second

AN EDITORIAL

WHY SO MUCH?

The PNC Student Senate gave the basketball team $1,700; my question is why so much? It seems that they could have gotten by with a little less.

In the first place, what are we here for? Are we here to play basketball or are we here to get an education. I will admit I planned on having some kind of social life while at PNC. If I wanted a certain book from the library everyone knows it is not the best in the country and the book more than likely will not be there.

There are also clubs and organizations in this school who could use some money to start out on. But no, we have to have a basketball team with the best of everything. We will soon find out if a basketball team is really wanted by the number of students who show up at the games.

game and the final decision on the team's name will be made by a vote of the student body. It was also noted that anyone interested in Cheerleading should see Mr. Wagliardo.

Pres. Tom Learman told the Senate about the Association of Reg-Campuses (ARC). Among the purposes of ARC cited are to solve the problems of the regional campuses and to bring in big name entertainment at low cost. The Senate committed itself to ARC by unanimously accepting the ARC Constitution. The need for three representatives from PNC to the Executive Board was brought up. This matter was tabled until the next meeting.

The Senate next turned to pending club budgets. The Ski Club Budget was not prepared so it was tabled. Treasurer Doug Anderson presented and explained the Student Senate Budget for a total of $367.68 which was approved. The treasurer was instructed to send all clubs and organizations a letter concerning the necessity of submitting a budget to the Senate.

The meeting was adjourned.

PRE-REGISTRATION

Pre-registration is in progress and will end Jan. 13th. If you have not made an appointment do so now and avoid those long lines and filled classes. You can make your appointment with the switchboard in the secretarial pool.

VACATION - VACATION - VACATION

Classes will end on this campus for Thanksgiving Vacation at 11:00 p.m., Tuesday, Nov. 26th. Classes will resume at 7:30 a.m., Monday, Dec. 2nd. The Newspaper? Staff wishes everyone a Happy Thanksgiving and a relaxed, fun-filled vacation. There will be no paper next week.

PNC MEETS FIRST FOE TONIGHT

North Central's as yet nameless basketball team meets Wilson Jr. College tonight at 8:00 p.m. in the Westville Gym. Wilson was the No. 2 ranked J.C. team in Illinois last year out of approximately 45 J.C. teams. This is the opening game for Wilson also. Their players average 6'4" - 6'5" so our players will have to hustle.

Friday night the team will play Southwest Michigan at Barker Jr. High in Michigan City. Their players average from 6'2" - 6'7".

The first three games of this campuses' schedule will be the toughest of the year. The team has worked hard and hopes to overcome their height disadvantage with speed and accuracy. They have not had the chance to play against an outside team nor see any of their opposition play.

GOOD LUCK, WIN THOSE GAMES

UNIFORMS

The basketball uniforms which were ordered in September have not arrived as yet. They are due to come in Wednesday air freight. The team assures me that they will play the games, with or without the new uniforms!

FOOTBALL

The Purdue - Indiana football game (Saturday, November 23) will be televised via closed-circuit television to the Calumet Campus. Our Business Office has been notified that North Central students and staff are invited to view the Purdue victory. Admission price for those presenting an I.D. card is $1.00; kick-off time is 12:30 p.m.

NEWSPAPER MEETING

A newspaper meeting will be held in Room 60 at 1:00 today, Nov. 21st. All members of the staff please be there. We still need help so anyone interested, come also.

BRIDGE CLUB TO FORM

Anyone interested in joining a bridge club should contact either Ed Everman, 872-0352, or the Student Affairs Office. No knowledge of the game is necessary for joining. We will teach you the fundamentals of bridge.

PROFESSOR NUNN TO SPEAK

Professor Thomas Nunn, English Department Head at PNC, will lecture Sunday, Nov. 24 at 11:00 a.m. at the "Old North Church", the Unitarian Church in Beverly Shores. His lecture is entitled "Some Hoosier Literary Figures" and Prof. Nunn will demonstrate the individualism of Indiana literature.

SNOW EMERGENCY PROCEDURES

The policy of the University is to continue to operate at as high a degree of efficiency as can be achieved during all periods including unusually heavy snowfall.

After an unusually heavy snowfall has occurred or after unusually severe drifting, or when either of the above are certain and imminent, a SNOW EMERGENCY may be declared by the Dean's Office.

Under these circumstances the information will be relayed to all local radio stations.

In an effort to further student to student communications an office has been set aside for use by the Student Senate and THE NEWSPAPER staff. Members of each organization will post regular hours during which they will be in the office.

The office is located at the south end of the lounge on the left side. If you have a complaint, suggestion, idea, or problem you are invited to talk to a member of either organization. At present, all we can offer you is an ashtray and coffee (bring your own). The room has none of the modern facilities, ie, wall-to-wall carpeting, telephone, intercom system, beautiful secretaries, handsome executives, we don't even have a typewriter - yet!

This cubicle with only a desk and metal shelves could be the place to get things done. We elected the Senate members on this campus, now let's let them know what we want accomplished by seeing them and talking to them in the office. If you don't know who they are, now you can find out by checking the schedule. The Senate members are the "student powers that be," we elected them so let's tell them what we think.

The newspaper staff has a policy to print opinions, if you want help, or want to make your opinion known, come in and talk to us. Nothing will be accomplished by your silence. Submit your ideas and complaints so we can make this campus a campus with a future.

Help us, so we can all help each other.

dance held

The momentum of successful dances once again prevailed Friday night in the student lounge. The people who attended were entertained by The Barons from Michigan City.

The next dance scheduled is the post-Christmas dance at Memorial Park on Dec. 28 and will be sponsored by the Men's Club.

Racks Donated

The new book racks in the student lounge were donated by Southworth's, Lafayette. They are for student use to help keep the tables clear.

P.N.C. Cagers Open Season

PNC CAGERS LOSE OPENER TO WILSON

Herald-Argus

Purdue North Central had a pair of costly scoring lapses in each half as it lost a season opening basketball decision, 88-56, to Chicago Wilson Junior College, Nov. 21st at the Westville H.S. gym.

Purdue went without a point for six minutes during the first half and for the first eight minutes of the second half.

Steve Hart scored 14 points and Neil Hurdle 13 to lead the Purdue cagers. Wilson, powered by a 6-6 frontline, got 20 points from Harris and 16 from Warfield.

SOUTHWEST SNEAKS PAST

Herald-Argus

Purdue North Central boasted a commanding 11-point lead with 10 minutes remaining. Steve Hart, with a heavily injured hand, lead the scoring with 32 points. Then thing began to happen. Southwest unleashed a fullcourt press and scored six points within a 30-second period to make it a new game.

Purdue was able to protect the slim margin by trading baskets until the end of the game. Watson, from Southwest; scored the final two points to beat PNC.

PNC DROPS DECISION TO CRANE

News-Dispatch

North Central's improving basketball team was an 80-68 loser to Chicago Crane College at Westville on Nov. 26th.

Purdue's lack of depth was shown in the second half when Crane rallied to wipe out PNC's 39-29 half-time margin. Pat Dodson with 19 points led the scoring with Steve Hart adding 18 and Greg Christensen 14. Lark, for Crane, scored 31.

SENATE MEETS

The basketball committees reported that the "Name the Basketball Team" contest was still in progress and two theatre tickets had been obtained. The student body will make the final decision on the name. The Management committee reported that ticket sales were doing well and the upcoming games were completely planned.

The Ski Club Constitution was tabled since it was not ready to be presented. The Senate resolved that the Ski Club could hold no functions until their constitution is recognized by the Senate.

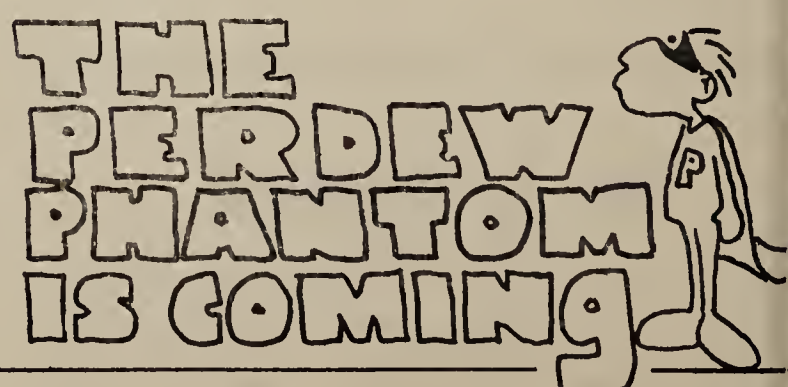

Club budgets were presented and after much discussion on administrative policy, the Senate passed a resolution to affirm the current balance of all clubs of PNC with the presentation of the club's current slate of officers. A motion was passed to table all budget matters until the next meeting to allow time for the clarification of dissenting points of view on financial policies.

It was decided to present the ARC (Association of Regional Campuses) Constitution to the student body on Dec. 4th.

Mary Jo Novak was elected to serve on the Faculty Senate; Keith Harmon, Doug Ely, and Clarence Mrozinski were elected to the Appeals Court; Beth Schaviak, Mary Jo Novak, Myron Levin, Doug Anderson, and Dave Goldman were appointed to study the Student Senate Constitution; and no appointments have been made yet to the Activity Fees Committee.

EDITORIAL

I am tired of hearing the students on this campus calling each other apathetic. These people stand back and, with a silly smirk point their finger and say, "You are apathetic," then walk away with all the pomp and complacency of a ruling king.

The definition of apathy is "lack of interest or desire for activity." We may have a small percentage of students who lack interest but there is an overwhelming desire for activity.

If the "ruling king," rather than making profound announcements, would get off his royal rear and contribute some of his time and effort toward the betterment of this campus, we could forget that the word "apathy" exists.

Christmas is coming and as yet I haven't heard anything about a caroling group, or adopting a needy family, or a group sharing its time with someone else. This campus has only a few clubs and there is room for many more. An interest club is the best way to meet new people and increase your social circle. We have no language, science, or literary clubs. If you have an idea, come into the newspaper office, in the back of the student lounge, and talk to us. We would be delighted to see you. Hours will be posted.

College should be and can be more than books, term papers, lectures, and labs, but everyone has to make an effort. Let's quit talking about apathy and DO SOMETHING!!!!

CHESS CLUB NEWS

The chess club will meet Thurs. at 7:30 in room 60. Starting Dec. 3rd, practice sessions covering the opening, middle game, and the end game will be held daily from 12:30 to 1:20. The place will be posted on the door of room 305.

The sixth and seventh round of the campus tournament has been posted. With the fifth round finished, the leader is Jim Nadeau. He has 4-1/2 and is followed by Harry Vallangeon and Ralph Wille with 4 points each.

The National Chess Tournament with U.S., Canada, and Puerto Rica will be held in Chicago from Dec. 26-30. Each team will consist of four with an alternate. These teams represent the best college teams in the United States.

When someone attempts to write an editorial, the first thing he must do is be certain of his facts. In the two most recent "Newspaper?" editions, the writers apparently did not make certain of their facts.

For instance, one editorialist wrote that if one drives to school he must immediately pay a parking fee. Wrong. There is a free parking lot available to both students and faculty at a distance of less than two city blocks from the nearest entrance. Now if you think this is a long way to walk, ask of the students on the Lafayette campus how far they have to walk to get to class. Although this free parking lot will not accomodate many cars, it must be large enough for our purposes since one never sees it fully occupied, if indeed he sees more than one or two cars there at any time. It is extremely doubtful if a parking fee of $12.50 per semester is in any way connected with a student's desire to live on the main campus.

Another editorialist accused the PNC Student Senate of turning over $1700.00 to the basketball team. Wrong again. The figure was closer to $500.00, which makes it much more reasonable. Now I am not going to get into any discussion as to the relative merits of a basketball team. My main reason for writing this letter is to set the records straight and to suggest that one verify the facts before he puts them down on paper for all to see.

CONSTRUCTION CONTINUES

There is an increasing demand for regional campuses, and PNC is playing a major role to meet that demand. Many institutions fail to expand to meet their growing demands but this campus's administrators are planning ahead.

There are two improvements in process, totalling $500,000. The basement floor is now being completed, and an addition on the east side of the building is under construction. These improvements, although they appear small, will provide more than adequate space for the near future. The actual area of expansion seems trifling, but it is very deceiving.

The addition to the basement floor will provide seven student activity rooms, an enlarged book store, a television room, two research labs, a study room, three offices, a work room, a record room, a computer lab, a key punch room, and a class room. The activity rooms will provide a place for club meetings, newspaper production, and other similar student activities. The enlargement of the bookstore will permit the competent Mrs. Grace Hastings to meet the growing student needs.

The east side addition will provide four offices and four classroom on each of the first two floors. The third floor will consist of four offices, a lab and demonstration room, two lab rooms, one special lab, three animal research rooms, a mechanical room, and several maintenance rooms.

The general contractor is Tonn and Blank from Michigan City. U.S. Piping is the contractor for heating, plumbing, and ventilation, and Continental Electric Co. is the electrical contractor.

In the future, this main building with the addition will be a science building. It is designed so that it can be easily converted into laboratory and lecture rooms. A main corridor and the central core makes this conversion easily possible. The future looks bright for PNC.

SENATE MEETS IN SPECIAL SESSION

A special session of the Senate was called Nov. 26.

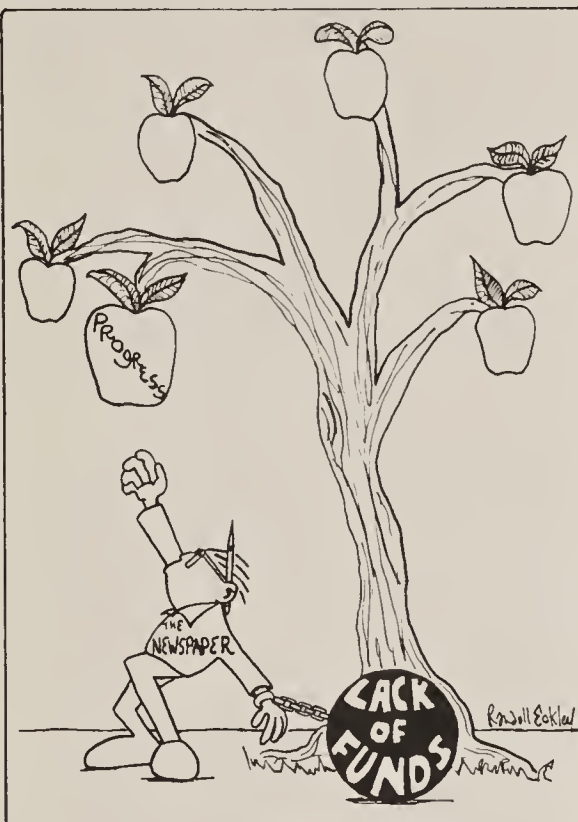

Doug Anderson, treasurer, reported the availability of $2057.00 from first semester fees and approximately $1500.00 from the second semester fees. He informed the Senate of the possibility of giving the clubs all the money ask for if the budgets were presented on a yearly basis instead of the present semester system. Under the advise of the treasurer the Senate passed a motion for annual budgets which would be acted upon, on the basis of anticipated activities fees.

Tom Learman, Dave Goldman, and Doug Anderson were elected to the Activities Fee Committee. Kathy Essling was elected to the Student Affairs Committee.

The Constitution Committee had no report.

A donation, collected from the students, was made to the Therapy Center in Beth Bobillo and Pat Sovanich's name. Money from the Senate budget was included in the place of flowers.

The Senate voted to sponsor the Miss LaPorte County Beauty Pageant. No details were discussed at that time.

Placement Tests To Be Given

On Monday, Feb. 3, and Tuesday, Feb. 4, the Language Placement tests will be given. Any student who wishes to take a second semester language course who didn't take the first semester is eligible. If you had two years of a foreign language in high school you can probably pass the test. Students with a C or better on the test will be allowed to take the second semester course for 6 hours of credit instead of 3.

The tests will be given in French, Spanish, and German. All tests are one hour long and will be given in Rm. 216. Remember, you have nothing to lose by taking the test and all to gain.

SCHEDULE
Monday: 10:30, 12:30, and 2:30

financial aid

All students interested in receiving financial aid for the summer session or next fall should contact the Student Affairs Office before the Christmas Holiday. This includes students presently receiving aid and those who are not but would like to.

Students may pick up the renewal forms, or new applications from the Student Affairs Secretary. However, if you have a loan please make an appointment with Mr. John Wagliardo.

Mr. Wagliardo indicated that student with a State Commission Award will be receiving those renewal forms in the mail. Each student should complete the form and return it even if his is an honorary award.

If you have additional questions concerning educational aid you are encouraged to go to the Student Affairs Office.

Dr. Clifford M. Hardin, appointed secretary of agriculture Wednesday by president-elect Nixon, is the holder of three degrees from Purdue University and the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Hardin of Knightstown, Ind.

Purdue gave him an honorary doctor of science degree in 1952 after awarding him earned degrees of B.S. in 1937, M.S. in 1939, and Ph.D. in 1941.

The 53-year-old new agriculture secretary has been chancellor of the University of Nebraska since 1954 after teaching and holding a variety of executive positions at the University of Wisconsin and Michigan State.

Dr. Hardin is the first Hoosier cabinet member since Claude Wickard of Camden, who was secretary of agriculture from 1940-1945.

admissions board meets

The Elementary Education Admissions Board met for the first time this semester. Anyone who has declared elementary education as his major must appear before this board before they are officially admitted to the school of elementary education.

Seven people appeared before the last board including; Jane Powell, Josephine Plahetka, Pat Pappas, Linda Dolk, Betty Collins, Ruth Alger, and Georgiana Timm. The board panel consisted of Professor's Crowder (Lafayette), Frank, and Blythe (PNC).

The substantial number of participants that appeared before the board indicates the further growth in elementary education at PNC.

The next board will convene early in January. The exact date will be announced later.

Wagliardo Interviewed

This year at PNC the students welcomed a new Student Affairs Officer, Mr. John Wagliardo from Dallas, Texas. He resides in Long Beach with his wife and two children. Mr. Wagliardo attended Southwestern Assemblies of God Junior College in Waxahachie, Texas. He received his B.A. at East Texas State Teacher's College in 1957 and continued his education at ETSC, earning a MED in 1958. He has also completed some graduate work at the University of Denver and is a doctoral candidate at ETSU.

When asked, he said he liked the people, ie: students and colleagues, but his attitude on the location was something less than positive. (Too much snow, huh?)

Ladies, here's one for you to remember, he feels women in the South are distinctly more feminine. His pet peeve: a woman carrying a cigarette everywhere.

Mr. Wagliardo added that the day he gets snow bound is he returning to Texas as soon as possible.

PNC CAGERS WIN

Herald-Argus

On Dec. 6 North Central recorded its first basketball victory following three losses with a 79-68 decision at IU-PU Ft. Wayne.

PNC took the lead early in the game and led the rest of the way. It was 30-27 at halftime. Steve Hart and Heil Hurdle combined for 51 points to lead the victory. Hurdle had 28 and Hart 23.

TRI-STATE TOPS PNC

Herald-Argus

Purdue North Central suffered its fourth basketball loss in five games, 82-64, against the Tri-State College junior varsity in Angola. Tri-State held a 40-32 halftime advantage over the shorter North Central cagers.

Steve Hart, who was injured with six minutes left in the game, led PNC with 25 points and Neil Hurdle added 16.

VALPO J.V. 107 - PNC 83

PNC was beaten by the Valparaiso Jr. Varsity on Friday, the 13th. Goede, Valpo, scored 36 points to lead the assault against the North Central team.

PNC made a game out of it in the first half, trailing only 41-33, but three of the players fouled out after the intermission, allowing the Valpo team to pull away in the last seven minutes. PNC hit 48 per cent of its shots in the first half.

Steve Hart led the Purdue cagers with 18 points, followed by Neil Hurdle with 16, and Greg Christensen with 14.

Vallangeon Scores Win

Harry Vallangeon and Mr. Ralph Schreiber, PNC math prof, attended the Eastern Indiana Open Chess Games at Ball State on Dec. 14. Harry tied for first place in the under-21 division. Mr. Schreiber didn't place in the final rankings but he did win one game in eight moves and another in fourteen moves.

Harry showed good game tatics, losing only one game out of five. In the final game he put pressure on the Black weak king pawn, weakening it and leaving it open for threat by White later. This move also threaten the Black queen which gave White the oportunity to capture several pawns to win the game.

HOLIDAY NOTES

Did you ever stop to think how all the Christmas customs originated? Customs such as the Christmas tree, the Christmas card, Santa Claus, mistletoe, the yule log, and the Christmas Seal.

The Christmas tree, one of our oldest customs, dates back to early Christian times when it was believed an ever green tree protected Mary, Joseph, and the Infant Jesus from the soldiers of King Herod. The Christmas Card originated just a century ago, in England, when the King and Queen commissioned famed artists to decorate the Royal Greetings to members of nobility.

"Santa Claus" brought to America by the early settlers of New York, is of German-Dutch origin and began with Saint Nicholas who lived in the Fourth Century. Kissing beneath the mistletoe comes from an ancient custom of enemies dropping their weapons and embracing in a gesture of friendship when they met beneath this winter green.

Scandinavia contributed the yule log. The Christmas Seal, which originated in Denmark in the form of a penny stamp has become a means of putting the Christmas spirit to work helping wipe out misery and disease.

Here in America, these and other customs of the Season have been brought to gether into a Christmas spirit that has no equal in all the world. Aside from its reverence and holiness, the Christmas Season has become a time to think about the many ways in which we can live better and happier lives.

Senate recommends activity fee increase

On Feb. 7 the Student Senate sent the following letter to Dean Schwarz.

The Purdue North Central Student Senate, inadequately financed to promote athletic, cultural, service, and social programs, hereby deems it necessary to recommend the following changes in the student activity fee:

The Senate urges that the current full time student activity fee of $3.00 per semester be increased to $15.00 per semester ($10 activities, $5 athletics), affecting all undergraduate students carrying nine credit hours or more; and that the proposed $15.00 activity fee be optional to all undergraduate students carrying less than nine credit hours.

The Senate asks that the proposed recommendations be initiated with the 1969-70 fall semester. The above, confirming the necessity of the resolution submitted by the 1967-68 Student Senate, was passed by the 1968-69 Student Senate on February 6, 1969.

Ed. Note: The Senate has done something! asked for a raise in activity fees. It is interesting to note that the student body has not been consulted as to their feelings about this increase. Senate members have stated that the students would be against an increase of this sort. It seems to me that if the Senate would present a positive program for the use of this additional money the students would be in favor of this.

This increase can be and will be useful with intelligent, thoughtful use by an active Senate. If the Senate is going to be a do-nothing group as thus far they seem to have been, then a fees increase will solve nothing with one exception: the Senate will no longer be able to use a lack of funds as an excuse for the lack of activity in campus life.

MOO APPOINTED

Former State Police Staff Captain John E. Moo, LaPorte, has accepted a position at PNC as Chief of Security. He replaces Mr. Hugh Richardson.

Captain Moo served with the State Police for 27 years, beginning in 1941 with the Dunes State Park Division. For the last several years he was Commander of the Traffic Division in Indianapolis.

Lots of luck to Captain Moo in his new position with us at PNC.

camera club

A new member drive has been started by the Camera Club. Anyone interested in learning about photography, film developing, etc., is invited to attend a meeting. Meetings are held every Wednesday afternoon in Room 60 from 4:30 - 5:20.

parking fee facts revealed

There has been much controversy over the parking fees and fines on this campus. Mr. John Black, PNC Business Manager, recently presented to this reporter the following facts and figures.

The total cost of the parking lot, including the drive from Highway 421, sidewalks, the parking area with storm sewers and lights, was approximately $108,000. The present lots have a capacity of 415 spaces, 371 in A & B areas and 44 metered spaces. Income from parking fees, fines, and metered areas from September 1967 to August 1968 was approximately $17,500. Approximately $10,600 was taken in for the fall 1968 semester and an estimate of $9000-$9200 has been advanced for the spring 1969 semester.

During the fall 1968 semester about 1050 parking permits were purchased, although more permits were issued because a pool permit has only one charge levied. Student enrollment was 1193 in the fall with approximately 120 staff members including instructors, administrators, clerical and service employees.

Plans have been made to construct an additional lot to the south of the present parking areas. This should be completed this summer in time for the fall 1969 semester.

So here are the true facts and figures. Check them closely and if you don't like what you see, there is a free parking area about two blocks north of the building.

centennial begins

A special event to honor the centennial year celebration of Purdue University was held at the North Central Campus at 2 p.m., Thursday, February 13.

Kenneth L. Schwab, president of the Student Union Board at the Lafayette campus, presented a centennial flag to David Goldman, president of the PNC Student Government. Dave Goldman, in return presented a special centennial proclamation that was prepared by the Student Government.

Dean Schwarz accepted the proclamation.

The centennial flag, measuring 3 x 5 feet, is white silk bearing a blue stylized P.U. centennial log with the numerals 100 below it. The two letters represent 'Purdue University' and 'Progress Unlimited', the latter the theme of the centennial year. The flag will be flown on the PNC flag pole the rest of 1969.

Two members from the Lafayette Centennial Policy Committee, L.O. Nelson, vice-chairman of the committee and administrative dean for student services and continuing education, Regional Campus Administration, and Professor James L. Clapper, executive secretary and assistant dean of undergraduate affairs in the School of Industrial Management accompanied Schwab. Similar presentations were made at the Ft. Wayne, Indianapolis and Hammond Regional Campuses.

CONVO TO BE HELD

An Honors Convocation to recognize students who have achieved the Deans List for Academic Excellence will be held on Sunday, February 23, 1969 at 3:00. The criteria for the Deans List is a minimum of 12 credit hours and a 5.5 semester grade index. Thirty-three students will be honored.

The student body, faculty, and individuals in the area communities are invited.

BULLETIN

Purdue regional campus students, are you aware that you are being discriminated against? Right now while you sit reading this news story, the state legislature is discussing a measure to reduce state support to Purdue regional campuses. This will affect YOU, it will increase YOUR tuition by 40-50 percent.

The 1968-69 Purdue allocation was $8,027,991 and the request for 1969-70 was $9,000,000. The state legislature is now discussing a figure of $7,639,000 which is a difference of $388,991.

Ten to fifteen PNC students left this morning to lobby against this proposal. In addition, every other Purdue regional campus will have lobby groups present including Purdue Calumet with approximately 300 students present. The Hammond Chamber of Commerce has reserved an entire floor of the Columbia Club for a meeting with the representatives. The Gallery has also been made available with emergency telephones to the floor for the Feb. 21 afternoon session.

It is this reporter's hope that our student representatives are effective in stopping this measure. You can help by writing your re-

SENATE MEETS

The February 17th meeting of the PNC Student Senate was opened by David Goldman at 4:30 p.m. The agenda was accepted, roll was noted, and the minutes were approved.

The Treasurer reported no new expenditures or receipts to the SEC budget. He noted that the current balance of the Activity Fees was $960.57. He also presented a list of the receipts and expenditures from the 1967-68 school year. His reports were approved by the Senate.

Tom Learman, General Chairman of the Miss LaPorte County Pageant told the Senate that the LaPorte High School auditorium would not be available for the Pageant. As a result, the Pageant will be held at the Westville High School. He also announced that the contracts for the selling of ads would be ready next week. A general meeting will be held Thursday, Feb. 20, at 4:30 p.m. for all ad sellers and general committee chairman.

The next item on the agenda was the Newspaper budget. Since the budget had not yet been submitted properly, this item was tabled. The Senate then decided that all budgets must be submitted and either approved or rejected at the next meeting of the SEC. Doug Anderson was asked to inform all clubs of this decision. The Camera Club budget was read. Various discrepancies were found; this budget was tabled until the conflicts could be worked out.

Committees next reported. The election committee said the Senate election would take place on the Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday of next week (Feb. 24, 25, and 26). First, the apportionment would have to be adjusted with the new enrollment. The chairman of the bookstore committee asked that a formal list of grievances be submitted. He also noted that the bookstore, committee, Dean J.R. Blackwell, and representatives for the bookstore would meet together Monday to discuss these grievances. Members of the "Noon Enlightenment" committee informed the Senate of their successes. They requested that any suggestions be given to David Goldman. Kathy Essling reported that the plaque for Professor Nunn would arrive Tuesday. She asked to be allowed to make the presentation at the Convocation February 23rd. The Senate agreed.

The Activity Hour came up for discussion. Mr. Mehler informed the Senate of the existence of an activity hour. He said that from 12:30 until 1:30 few classes are held for the very purpose of affording a time when special activities may be held.

Various rumore concerning A.R.C. were discussed. It was decided to send out a Newsletter to all involved campuses to find out the true status of A.R.C. Kathy Essling volunteered to make-up the letter and a questionnaire. President Dave Goldman informed the Senate that they would have to select to other representatives to the A.R.C. Convention, the President of the Senate being the third. Beth Schaviak and Kathy Essling were elected as the two representative. At this time Kathy Essling announced her decision to run for the position of Vice President. The Senate approved of her decision and decided to support her. It was also decided that the three delegates to A.R.C. would determine the policy to be followed and the objectives to seek, but only after the results of the Newsletter had been noted.

In the final order of business, Mr. John Wagliardo said that the Dunes Theater would perform at PNC on March 8th if the Senate decided to pay for the rights to the play performed. The Senate decided to pay the rights and invite the Dunes Theater group to perform if these rights would cost $60.00 or less. Mr. Wagliardo was asked to take care of all arrangements. The agenda completed, the meeting was adjourned.

Play to be presented

On Saturday, March 8, the Dunes Theatre Group will present "The American Dream" to the students of PNC. This play by Edward Albee recently ended a highly successful 31 week rerun on Broadway. It concerns the ambitions of the citizens of this affluent society and their disappointment upon reaching their goals. The feature begins at 8:30 p.m. in the activities lounge. Leave your wallets at home, because in keeping with the theme of the play, there will be no charge. Come early, however, as the seating will be on a first come first served basis.

Tournament Begins

The chess club has started a new "ladder tournament" which will give each chess player a better chance of winning. A rating system based on points will be used. The rules are as follows: (1) every contestant will start with 1200 points, (2) games can be played at any time between any of the contestants, (2) points are won and lost by one's performance in each game.

The winner's will be posted at a latter date.

CONTEST TO BE HELD

The English Department of Purdue University is sponsoring the 39th annual Literary Contest open to all P. U. students. Over forty prizes will be available, ranging from $25-$50, in many categories -- traditional poetry, untraditional poetry, short story, novel, drama; essays on subjects such as economics, journalism, government, science, the cinema; and this year there will be a contemporary issues prize for the best essay on The Crisis of the Cities.

It is the hope of the Lafayette English Department that entries will be submitted from all regional campuses in addition to the main campus. There will be posters and tear-off sheets with more information about categories, prizes, rules, etc., posted in a few days.

All entries must be in Lafayette on April 18 and prizes will be awarded at a banquet in Lafayette on May 1.

If you have questions, talk to your English instructor and watch for the posters. Sharpen your pencil and your brain and get busy-- you could be $50 richer on May 1.

noon programs begin

Two programs were presented on Tuesday, February 18 and Wednesday, February 19 in the formal lounge for student entertainment. Mr. Bill Boyd, Continuing Education and an accomplished musician offered a program "Classical Music for People Who Hate Classical Music." On Wednesday a color sound film entitled "The Piroque Maker" was presented. Plans are indefinite for next week.

Hopefully, with enough student response and support, the program will be expanded to four days a week. The programs will include musical presentations, faculty and outsider's lectures, and color sound films. These programs are dependent on the students, YOU, and what you would like to see and hear.

PNC RADIO PROGRAM BEGINS

Lyndy Babock, Lynn Gasaway, and Jim Nadeau under the guidance of Mr. Bill Boyd, Continuing Education Office, started taping a series of interviews in January for WIMS radio station. The groups in interested in acquainting the general public with the activities and attitudes of the North Central Students. The program is presented on Monday night from 7:05 - 7:15 and is called Campus Highlights.

The first program was aired January 6 with Stu McDonald, WIMS personality interviewing the three student participants on the type of program they would present and their goals.

On January 13, Jim Nadeau interviewed Dr. Buck about his trip to Russia and other Communist countries. Lynn Gasaway talked with married and single students on their views about college on January 20. Tom Learman and Lyndy Babock discussed the Student Senate on January 27 and on February 3, Barb Varils interviewed Lynn Hauck and Dan Shaft about their newspapers.

Other programs of interest to everyone have been taped. Re

PNC DELEGATION VISITS STATE LEGISLATURE

On Friday, February 21, a delegation of eight Purdue North Central students traveled to Indianapolis to express to their representatives their concern over the proposed bill which would cut Purdue Regional Campus appropriations. This bill which passed the House of Representatives early in the week still faces the Senate. If this proposed bill becomes law, a tuition increase will be necessary in order for the Regional Campus to operate. The delegation included David Goldman, Mary Novak, Tom Learman, Beth Schaviak, Keith Harmon, Kathy Nowicki, Doug Anson, and Randall Eckley.

This delegation was formed on Thursday afternoon, February 20, after it was reached Purdue North Central that Purdue Calumet Campus was sending several bus loads of students to meet with legislators the following day. The Student Senate agreed that PNC should be represented at the Indianapolis meeting since the North Central Campus would also be affected by the proposed legislation.

Friday's activities began at 10:30 EST at the Columbia Club's tenth floor facilities. A question and answer session was held at these facilities which were rented for the Purdue students by the Hammond Chamber of Commerce. Legislators present at this meeting were Sen. William Cristy, Sen. Bill Stannish and Sen. Robert O'Bannon. These representatives, who belonged to the minority party, stated that the problem was one caused by the Republican administration and reassured the students that the minority party would fight to kill this legislation.

After the question and answer period, the PNC delegation met with Porter and LaPorte County representatives. At separate meetings, the North Central delegation discussed with Representatives King Telle, Walter Roorda, Royner and Senators Kleinkort and Shaw. Pending legislation and expressed their hope for some Senate action which would kill the proposed legislation.

After these meetings the PNC delegation returned home with several questions yet unanswered, but satisfied at least that they had made the viewpoint of Purdue North Central known to the Indiana State legislature.

February 24th

The meeting was opened at 4:30 pm with the accepting of the agenda. The treasurer reported no new receipts or expenditures.

First on the list of old business was the Activity Fee increase. A delegation of approximately twenty students was present to offer grievances, ask questions, and make suggestions. The rules were suspended to facilitate discussion. The Senate explained the purpose and the necessity of the activity fee increase. The students present were commended for their interest. The meeting was put back into formal session at 5:25 pm.

President David Goldman reported that the plans for an A.R.C. Convention had all but disintegrated. It was suggested that PNC co-host the convention with a centrally located campus. The need for a communication center was further stressed. However, no action was taken upon the two suggestions.

An updated version of the Women's Club Constitution was presented and accepted. The Music Club Constitution was also presented and accepted.

The next order of business was club budgets. The Camera Club budget, requesting $100.00 was referred back to the treasurer of that club until the results of their dance could be determined. The Music Club budget was accepted, allocating the club $56.00. The Women's Club budget was presented, amended and accepted, giving the Women's Club $100.00. A representative of The Newspaper presented their budget. It was approved, allocating $320.00 to The Newspaper. The Agriculture Club budget was tabled until their constitution could be approved. The Chess Club budget was also tabled.

The chairman of the Miss LaPorte County Pageant was not present, so no report was made.

The Bookstore Committee was called upon to report their findings. It was made known that a meeting would be held Thursday, February 27, 1969, at 1:00 pm with the committee, the Dean, and a representative of the Bookstore. It was noted that the meeting would be valuable, even if it only explained grievances and heard explanations. The committee was charged to have all grievances formally written and to plan the purposes of the meeting.

The election committee reported that the election to fill vacancies on the Student Senate would be on Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday (Feb. 26, 27, and 28). One junior, two sophomores, and three freshmen will be elected. Petitions for the nominees must be in by Tuesday afternoon. Voters will be recognized by showing their I.D. cards to the Senate members manning the election center.

The agenda completed, President Dave Goldman entertained a motion to adjourn at 6:15 pm.

STUDENTS HONORED

Twenty-three freshmen and ten sophomores received certificates for high academic performance on Sunday at the Honors Convocation.

Professor L. Edward Bednar opened the program by welcoming the guests, which was followed by several musical selections sung by the Westville High School Swing Choir.

Professor T.R. Nunn gave the address. Kathy Essling then presented him with a plaque from the student body honoring him for his many years of service to Purdue.

Following the address, Dean Robert F. Schwarz presented the certificates. A reception and open house was held in the formal lounge after the program to honor these students.

ARC PLANS TOLD

Last November 15-18, members of the Student Senate of PNC and The Newspaper went to Fort Wayne Regional Campus to attend a convention of the Association of Regional Campuses (A.R.C.).

A.R.C. is a formal organization including all P.U. and I.U. regional campuses which will work for the collective good of all students. The student governments of all member campuses attend semi-annual meetings, each campus having three voting members.

The preamble of the constitution states the purpose of A.R.C. "to govern ourselves wisely, to promote high standards of conduct, to further unify the spirit of cooperation between the student bodies in the presentation of student opinion; and to promote, in the interest of the universal community, a program of service, social activity, and educational projects." This means, with A.R.C. a campus can lobby for funds at the Indiana General Assembly, revise the present grading system as someone is trying to do. If all regional campuses of Indiana join, A.R.C. will represent 19,000 students.

The next meeting is in April, but the date has been set. As of February 11, all regional campuses have ratified A.R.C.'s constitution. Primarily due to the fast, yet thorough work done by the Student Senate, PNC achieved the privileged position of being the first regional campus to ratify the A.R.C. constitution.

The A.R.C. convention, which began at the North Central Campus on Thursday, February 12, at 2 pm with the presentation of the centennial flag. The flag was presented by President of the Student Union Board at the Lafayette campus, David Goldman, President of the PNC Student Senate.

EDITORIAL

As cool hand Luke would say, "What we have here is a failure to communicate." This has certainly been the case with THE NEWSPAPER to date. This problem has not been the fault of any one person - everyone to some extent is to blame. The student body is certainly at fault. Only ten people volunteered to work on THE NEWSPAPER during the fall semester. This is approximately only 2 percent of the full time enrollment. The Student Senate is also at fault for failing to appropriate any funds for THE NEWSPAPER for the fall semester. It is the job of the Senate to open lines of communication between the student body and student government. The Senate certainly failed in this respect by not doing more than acting on THE NEWSPAPER budget last semester. The faculty and administration also are to blame for having a deaf ear to the problems of THE NEWSPAPER and having no interest in the publication of a student newspaper. Of course, THE NEWSPAPER staff is at fault. THE NEWSPAPER staff did not fight hard enough to recruit workers, obtain funds, or instill interest in the faculty and administration.

On Tuesday, February 18th, I was appointed Editor-in-Chief of THE NEWSPAPER. This action came after the administration decided to begin a precedent of replacing the editor of THE NEWSPAPER each semester. I hope that my appointment will not reflect adversely on the work of my predecessor, Lynn Hauck. It would have been impossible for Lynn to publish a better newspaper this past semester because the human and financial resources would not have permitted it. I am amazed that a regularly published newspaper was produced at all. Although I am replacing Lynn, she will continue to work on THE NEWSPAPER as Associate Editor, and I will rely greatly on her for advice and counsel.

It is my hope, now that we have access to funds and an enlarged staff, that THE NEWSPAPER will be able to produce a publication which will open lines of communication between the Student Senate and student body, provide a forum for students and faculty, and present the news and events as truthfully and accurately as possible. It is my promise that my staff and I will do our best to realize these goals by serving you.

Randall Eckley
Editor-in-Chief

We would like to congratulate Toni Hirsch on leading a delegation to the February 24th meeting of the Student Senate. Although we cannot agree with her opposition to the proposed Activity Fee increase, we admire her determination to fight for what she believes in. If more students would attend Senate meetings and participate in student government, an active dialogue between the student body and the student Senate could be created which would result in better ideas benefiting not only the individual students involved, but also the entire student body. FACULTY FORUM

By Prof. Stanfield.
"Artists," the poet Ezra Pound once said, "are the antennae of the race." They feel or see ahead of periodic rapid and critical change, involving genuine revolution in style or sensibility such as that taking place in our time.

Literary artists deal in the revolution of sensibility. Modern literature seems to be little more than the artistic response to man's awareness of the change in himself and in his awareness of his social or natural environment.

The modern word has lost, as it were, its solidity. Bergson's theory of time, Freud's theory of the subconscious, and Einstein's theory of space and energy have altered our concept of reality.

Faith in the power of reason has been severely shaken. Two world wars and Viet Nam have shown us that man can act in a bestial way. Some of us have witnessed the eruption of Nazism, and we have seen how the state, with the aid of propaganda, technology, and torture, can become a demonic force.

Our ideas of morality and religion have been reinterpreted. Christian morality, the "ethics of pity," as Nietzsche called it, has been challenged. Modern Existentialism has, the work of previous philosophies in "high gear."

The world of modern man is one which has absorbed uncertainty in its very texture. W.H. Auden calls it the Age of Anxiety. It is more. It is perhaps an age of disintegration--and at the same time an age of regeneration. Creation and destruction are a part of our world's staccato rhythm.

What of man's changing conception of himself? Leonardo DaVinci drawings often placed the figure of man at the very center of his geometric designs. The modern counterpart of this view may be Duchamp's famous picture of a nude descending a staircase. The human form is all but abolished; it becomes a series of flowing cubes.

Man's sense of self is disjointed. Specialization and expansion in the social structure make man a marginal isolated figure. The alienation of man from his environment as aggravated by his alienation from himself.

Modern man's role is that of an outsider. Actually, the modern hero is a rebel or a victim. Most often, he is both.

And this brings us to modern literature

First, modern literature has accepted the fluidity of time and space, fancy and fact, and recognized the subjective reality behind them. Proust's great novel, Remembrance of Things Past, destroys the sense of mechanical clock time. The world of Kafka has no clear location in space. In the fiction of Virginia Woolf wish and memory are often indistinguishable.

Second, modern literature has suspended the normal operation of habit reason. In Klacka's The Trial there is no relation between cause and effect, quiet and punishment. The central event in Camus' The Stranger is a gratuitous act. Irony and unpredictability are frankly tolerated as principles of existence.

Third, modern literature has set itself to explore the dream life of man. Conrad's Heart of Darkness, Lawrence's Women In Love, and Joyce's Ulysses, employ all the resources of language to describe the stream of human consciousness. The secret and unformed thoughts of an idiot become a focal point in Faulkner's The Sound And The Fury. The Protagonist of O'Neill's The Iceman Cometh gives more weight to illusion than reality.

Fourth, Modern literature has sought to recapture the simple and enduring elements in human experience. The primitivism we can find in Hemingway's The Old Man and The Sea or The Sun Also Rises is an effort to purify human conduct, to redefine morality in terms of a clean-cut personal code. In The Immoralist, Gide contrasts primitive with civilized behavior in hope of clarifying a truth which may underlie both.

Fifth, modern literature has devised patterns for expressing both the simple and complex, the new and recurrent, aspects of life. These patterns are often borrowed from ancient myths, stories of fabulous heroes, or archaic rituals of death and rebirth. T. S. Eliot's The Waste Land, Mann's Joseph trilogy, Joyce's Ulysses, the work of

John Barth in Magnus and Biles The Boy, Robinson Jeffers, The R Stallion refer us to mythical matter Myth and archetype become the underlying structure which gives order the chaos of the modern world.,

Part II of Professor Stanfield's icle will be presented in the next sue of The Newspaper.

By PATRICK DODSON

(One of the chief problems facing Student Senate this year has been covering a means to communicate activities and aims to the student body. This will be an attempt to edy this situation.)

The most pressing subject currently receiving student debate is question of an increased activity There has been much discussion of proposed move, unfortunately, most it has been misinformed.

It was necessary this year for Senate to cut almost every budget mitted. to it. (The Basketball Team which has received much of the budget for this shortage, took the largest of any organization.) As more colleges and organizations come into existence this shortage of funds will become more glaring. Last year's Senate it necessary to propose an activity increase. This year the situation came even more critical. Unless an crease is approved for next year school will be in a genuine financial crisis.

The question of an increased fee of far greater import than a mere question of money, however. The essence of university life and educational experience goes far beyond facts garnered from lectures and textbooks. Unless one encounters new ideas and activities he has not received a full education

Purdue North Central is still in its formative stages as an institution of higher learning. Our present decisions will affect this center of learning far beyond our short tenure here. Future students will be deprived of educational opportunity if we shack them to an education that consists of no more than facts and examinations. Our institution is to continue to prosper, we must have an increased activity fee. This is a question far beyond today and we must be equal to challenge.

COURSE TO BE OFFERED

Westville - Beginning Wednesday March 5, the Purdue North Central Office of Continuing Education will offer a ten-session, non-credit course, "Fundamentals of Land Surveying." Class hours are from 7-10 p.m. at the campus. The course is designed to provide academic background for technician instrument men and other members of surveying teams.

Richard L. Taylor, assistant professor of Civil Engineering Technology at PNC will instruct.

Taylor is a Purdue graduate, having obtained his Bachelor of Science degree in 1963 and a Masters in 1965.

He is a professional engineer and a registered land surveyor with extensive experience as a consultant in civil engineering and surveying.

Fee for the course is $37 which includes all materials with the exception of the text book.

Registration may be made by phone or in person at the campus administration office, which is open Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Persons wishing additional information may call Professor Ray Bobill at 785-2541 or 872-0529.

February 25, 1969, the Valparaiso Chamber of Commerce met with the Porter County State representatives, Kleinkort and King Telle. Senators Kleinkort spoke on the financial status of the State's Regional campuses. He stated that course fees would probably be raised. Sen. Kleinkort is a member of the six man board which will meet with the heads of the Regional Campuses to decide the course of action. Rep. King Telle felt this measure would pass, but not without some effort.

"The Only" Foxes were in the activities lounge following the PNC-Ft. Wayne game.

STUDENTS OBSERVE IN LOCAL SCHOOLS

Students majoring in Elementary Education, on all Purdue Campuses, are required to take Education 249, better known as Student Teacher Observers. This is a one credit hour course taught by Professor Blythe. The course requires students to observe an elementary teacher and class three hours a week, and one hour each week to discuss or go over any problems that may arise, and do text work. Eighteen students in their third and fourth semester of study are participating in this program.

The purposes of this course are: 1) to help students decide whether they wish to become an elementary teacher and continue in the program; 2) to help students become familiar with behavior patterns, needs and interests of children at different age levels; 3) to build a functional background for methods, campus study and first-hand experience in classroom situations; 4) to help students become aware of community influences upon the school; and 5) to help students continue to study their own attitudes, feelings, and abilities as they identify themselves in the role of a professional teacher.

Periodically, the students present written papers on their observations. The topics for these papers range from the child and teacher, to the building and administration. The reason for the wide range in topics is so the students may obtain a broadened view of the entire educational system to better themselves.

Reporter's Note: Prof. Blythe would like to thank the area schools for their whole hearted support of the program.

P.N.C. Cagers Top Ft. Wayne

The Purdue North Central Centaurs, sparked by a 35 point combined performance from Dave Gonsorek and Bob Swanson, defeated Fort Wayne Purdue-I.U. 76-70 Last Saturday night. The Centaurs sixth victory in seventeen outings was especially sweet in that it gave the North Central five a 2-1 season's edge over Fort Wayne.

Fort Wayne maintained a two to three bucket lead throughout most of the second period to score three successive baskets and turn the tide in favor of the Centaurs. Gonsorek and Swanson both turned in individual season high games of 18 and 17 points respectively, while Hart added 11 to the PNC cause.

Fort Wayne was led by Glass with 20 Fulkerson and Johnloz had 14, while Hockemeyer had 12. A fine half-time show was put on by the Westville stage band and the Maple City Cadets. PNC's next game will be March 1 at the Westville High School gym as the Centaurs face Andrews College, Berrien Springs, Michigan. This will be the last chance for P.N.C. students to see the ever-improving Centaurs at home, so why not come and give our first intercollegiate team the support they deserve?

BOILERS CLINCH FIRST

Rick Mount popped in 31 points, including the game winning field goal with a little over a minute remaining as Purdue edged past Michigan State Tuesday night, 74-72.

Purdue trailed at the half-way mark 37-35, but rallied to a 65-55 advantage midway through the second period. Michigan State then suddenly caught fire behind the hot shooting of Lee Lafayette and managed to outscore the Boilermakers 17-7 making it a new ball game with just over a minute remaining. Rich Mount then dropped in what proved to be the winning basket as neither team was able to score again before the buzzer sounded. Steady Herm Gilliam added 13 points to the Boilermaker attack, while Lafayette was high scorer for the Spartans with 16.

Purdue now stands 11-1 on conference games and needs only a victory over Iowa this Saturday to become the Big Ten champion for the first time since 1940. Along with the Big Ten crown comes an automatic berth in the NCAA tournament, and there is nothing Purdue would like better than a possible rematch against UCLA and the great Lew Alcindor.

PURDUE BEATS WILDCATS

The Purdue Boilermakers tighted their hold on first place in the Ten race by drubbing Northwestern Saturday, 107-68.

Rick Mount scored 32 points despite sitting out the final seven minutes of the game after his team had rolled to an 86-48 lead.

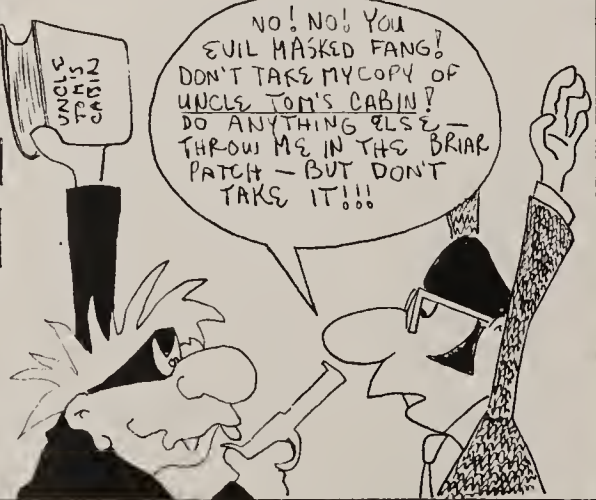

The Boilermakers scored on 58 of their shots and hit a phenomenal 20 of 30 free throws. Purdue's hot shooting coupled with a very decisive 52-36 edge in rebounds was entirely too much for the Wildcats who now occupy the Big Ten cellar, having won only 3 of 10 games this year.

FEE INCREASE RAISES STUDENT OBJECTIONS

Two students attended the March 3 session of the Student Senate to voice their opposition to the proposed activity fee increase. They presented a student petition asking for a student referendum on the increase.

Toni Hirsch and Nino Pecararo presented the petition bearing 113 signatures. (There were three petitions presented supporting the Senate position.) Nino also discussed the feasibility of raising the fee to, perhaps, ten or twelve dollars, instead of the proposed fifteen. He stated his contention that the board of trustees could be persuaded to abandon their usual guidelines granting an interim fee of ten or twelve dollars.

BULLETIN: News reached Purdue North Central, Thursday, March 6, 1969 that the Purdue University Board of Trustees has approved the Purdue North Central Student Senate recommendation for a raise in activity fees. The raise, which will be effective beginning the fall semester 1969, will be an increase from 3 dollars to 15 dollars, and will affect only undergraduate students carrying 9 or more hours.

A question was also asked concerning the possibility of an unusable surplus. Several Senators spoke in answer to this point. Tim Bietry also attended the meeting as an observer and asked several meaningful questions. *

michigan firm approved to develop pnc master plan

Westville - At the March 5th meeting in Lafayette of the Purdue University Board of Trustees, the firm of Johnson, Johnson & Roy, Ann Arbor, Michigan, was awarded the contract for the development of the "Master Plan for Purdue North Central Campus."

The firm developed a similar plan for the Purdue Fort Wayne Campus."

Lytle J. Freehafer, Vice President and Treasurer, Purdue University, said, "A master plan will be needed if we are to have a good development of the campus in the future."

C. H. Lawshe, Vice President for Regional Campus Administration added that a committee of faculty, administration and students will be appointed to consult with the Ann Arbor organization in the development of the master plan.

A. J. Rumely, LaPorte, a member of the Purdue University Board of Trustees, said that the development of the master plan will cost between 25 and 30 thousand dollars.

Robert F. Schwarz, Dean and Director of the PNC campus, pointed out that the trustees' action will "guarantee not only an orderly growth for the campus but will help to insure the academic excellence of its faculty and facilities." *

COURSES BEGIN

Beginning the week of March 3rd, the Continuing Education classes will start eight non-credit courses, including camping, painting, photography, radio, and real estate. Most of these courses are offered at night, and vary in the number of class meetings. For further information, contact Mr. Bill Boyd, Director of Continuing Education. *

pageant details told

The Miss La Porte County Pageant, being presented by P.N.C., has finally started to gain momentum. Ads are being sold, judges and contestants are being contacted and the overall plans indicate that this year's pageant will be better than last year's.

However, more people are needed to help sell ads so the March 15th deadline can be met. Also, people will be needed for the production and ticket committees.

Doing this job well will gain for P.N.C. higher public esteem, and also a greater amount of profit which will be put in a reserve fund for the summer. *

Senate Presents Tentative Budget

The following is a budget proposing how a $15.00 activity fee might be used. It should be stated that this is only a proposed budget and is subject to revision as students come forward with ideas for activities and organizations. One person cannot be expected to be able to anticipate the ideas and ingenuity for 1200. The following budget is projected on 500 full time students of $15.00 per semester.

		Overall
Activity	Amt.	Amt.	Activity	explana.
Sports	$5	$2500	Basketball (Baseball & Cross Country under consideration)	Eventually any activity of Athletic Dept.
News-paper	$3	$1500	$90 per issue and $100 per semester for editor
Clubs, Org.	$1	$ 500	Finance new clubs and campus club allocations
Convocations	$1	$ 500	Five speakers, projected $100 honorarium per speaker.
School Activities	$1	$ 500	Dances, seminars, noon activities, etc.
Fine Arts	$3	$1500	Musical groups, poets, authors, ets. (Cost partially defrayed by public ticket sales.)
Cumulative Fund	.50	$ 250	Supply student lounges, recreation areas and union facilities	Excess into fund for large proj.
Reserve Fund	.50	$ 200	Funding to begin next semester and run interim activities during summer.

A few notes of explanation are in order. First, $100 for the editor of the paper is conservative considering the number of hours involved. Second, Convocation speakers of national reputation are often available to college groups for merely expenses or a small honorarium. Musical groups, ranging from "The Lettermen" to "The Docs" can be obtained at partial, if any, cost to the school, by the sale of public tickets and good publicity. A reserve fund would lend continuity to student life by allowing carry-over activities.

There is room in this proposed budget for numerous adjustments. If you have what you consider a helpful suggestion for use of funds, submit it to any member of the senate or to The Newspaper. *

Due to students transferring and being unable to qualify for the second semester student senate, five new senators were elected to fill the vacancies. The student senate held the special election on February 26, 27, and 28 to elect the new senators. The freshman results were Tom Christensen with 66 votes, Daniel Kilgore 22, Jim Nadeau 42, Robert Schaffner 25, Edward Timm 29, Jack Titolo 48. Christensen, Nadeau, and Titolo were high to win the three freshman senate seats. The sophomore results were Pandall Eckley 40, Lisa Feldman 9, Cathy Nowicki 27, David Randall 23. Eckley and Nowicki were high to win the two sophomore senate seats. Thirty-five percent of the sophomores voted and twenty-four percent of the freshmen; this was the highest percentage ever recorded in a PNC election.

The five new senate members were interviewed to find out their motives for running in the elections and their ambitions for the new senate.

Jack Titolo, who is from Bass Lake, Indiana, is living in Westville while attending PNC. He is a second semester freshman majoring in Pre-medicine. Jack wants to represent the student body in the Senate because he feels he knows what the actual problem are, and can best help by being a senator.

Jim Nadeau, who recently moved to Michigan City from Boston, is a freshman majoring in marketing. Jim ran for the senate to get involved in campus activities and present the student problems to the senate.

Cathy Nowicki, a sophomore, is majoring in English. She makes her home in La Porte and cites her reasons for running for the senate as her interest in people and her desire to get involved in student activities.

Randall Eckley, who lives in Valparaiso, is majoring in education. He is a sophomore and also serves as editor of The Newspaper. Eckley ran for the senate office to represent the student body and encourage more activities for the campus.

Tom Christensen was not available for an interview. *

contest begins

The Annual Literary Awards and Book Collection Contest is now in progress on all Purdue Campuses. Kneale Awards of $30.00 and $60.00 are being given to the undergraduate in nine categories. $30.00 prizes are also offered for the best set of English 101 and 103 papers submitted.

The contest closes at 5:00 p.m., Friday, April 18, 1969.

All students are invited to submit entries in the contest. For further information, see Dr. Ryan, Office 310.

Mrs. Eppel Honored

An informal gathering of faculty and administration met in the Conference Room at 10:00 am, March 7 to honor Mrs. Lois Eppel upon completion of 15 years of service to P.N.C.

Mrs. Eppel who lives on Johnson Road with her husband Clayton served as Dean Schwarz's private secretary for 13 years at Barker Center. After the move to P.N.C. she transferred to the business office.

Dean Schwarz said there was no greater trust than that between himself and Mrs. Eppel during her tenure as his secretary.

During the gathering, coffee and rolls were served. Mrs. Eppel received a pin of gold, bearing the seal of Purdue University in black. The student body wishes to thank Mrs. Eppel, along with the faculty and administration, for her many years of service to P.N.C. and offer heartiest congratulations. *

The second prerequisite is the suspension of our moral judgment. I believe modern literature is profoundly moral. Its real aim is to redeem reality through art. But it is not pious or didactic. Violence, despair, and even obscenity are often a part of it. They are functional parts, however, and their purpose is to help us recognize hidden or repressed truths. Their purpose too, is to purge us from the ills which ravage us. Conrad once wrote in Lord Jim, "In the destructive element immerse...that is the way." Conrad's appeal was not for self-defeat. It was rather for the life and insight gained through confrontation---the encounter with experience, not the recoil from it (The last part of Professor Stanfield's article will appear in the next issue of The Newspaper.)

DUNES PLAYERS PRESENT ALBEE PLAY

Saturday night culture came to PNC in the form of Edward Albee's American Dream. The play was presented by the Dunes Art Foundation and was attended by about 150 faculty and students.

Albee's play used satire and exaggeration to point out the foibles of American life. The cast consisted of a jaged, mercenary "Mommy," castrated "Daddy," acid-tongued Grandma, the professional lady, Mrs. Barker, and the "American Dream." Each of these persons was a caricature of the one segment of American life.

Mommy, Daddy, and Mrs. Barker typified those who have become so materialistic and socially controlled that their life has no meaning or virility.

Grandma and the "American Dream," a handsome young man with one obvious talent, carried Albee's main point-only youth and age see things as they really are. The young man had become so callous that he felt no emotion, even though he saw situations as they were. Only Grandma was a complete person. This made her so different everyone thought she was senile.

The play was well done, even though the language may have shocked some of those with puritan tendencies. The acting was superb in all the parts, but Daddy was the epitome of a part well-played. If PNC can obtain more fine arts activities of this quality, cultural life should improve noticeably.

Movie Report

Bullitt

Steve McQueen plays a hard-pressed cop which makes him a hard-nosed cop. He is a man without pity, especially when he discovers he has been duped.

He is given an important assignment to protect a defector from the Mafia. Everything goes well until the defector unlocks his protected cage. Without warning, a single man walks in with a sawed off shotgun and sprays the room with bullets.

The realism in this film is probably the strong point of the film. The defector survives the bullets and is rushed to a hospital. The hospital is sterile white and punch sure realistic. Every gory aspect of a hospital emergency is shown; the oxygen, the hurried doctors, and the sharp, true to life struggle between life and death.

The second reality and the most exciting part of the whole film is the chase. McQueen drives his custom fast-back himself, with a camera in front of the car to show what it is like doing 90-95 miles an hour around San Francisco hills.

The only other point of interest is the conclusion. You will have to see that for yourself.

The Stalking Moon

Gregory Peck plays a Kit Carson of the Old West as an Army Scout for fifteen years. He leads his last patrol against the remainder of the marauding tribes of the Southwest.

The theme is centered around Sarah Carver (Eva Marie Saint) who was a white woman found by the patrol. Sarah wants to get out of the area and she hasn't the time nor the energy to tell anyone why. We, the audience, do not find out why until much later.

Between the initial meeting of Peck and Miss Saint and the conclusion there is a lag in the story. Such scenes as Peck taking Miss Saint to the stage coach and from the stage to the train depot are not thrilling and may lull some to sleep.

The conclusion makes this picture worth watching. There is tense excitement which makes the preceding worthwhile and to be remembered.

Peck is the star of this picture. He adds more to the character than possibly the author had intended, but the audience benefits.

THE GRAPEVINE by patrick dodson

The battle is over; the smoke has settled; the trustees have passed the activity fee increase. It is unfortunate that this took place before the student body had been able to express its sentiments. This is not the end however; the real task still lies before us.

If we are to avoid the stagnacy of this year, we must begin now to plan for the intelligent use of these additional funds. The Senate cannot do this alone. There are three areas in which we must have student participation if we are to effectively administer the funds for next year.

First, we must have student help now to begin planning next years activities. If high-quality talent is to be obtained, we must begin the communications now. Only the student body as a whole can tell us what activities they desire. If all students will come forward with constructive ideas, next year can be an exciting one at PNC.

Secondly, there will be much sweat and time invested in any kind of effective program. If a number of students answer a call-out to serve on an activity committee, vigor can be brought to the arranging of next years schedule. The Senate does not have enough members or time to do this alone.

Finally, no program can be successful unless it enjoys student support. No amount of ideas or planning will be enjoyed if events are not attended. Each of us must decide now that next year PNC will have a university atmosphere - not just a classroom atmosphere.

SENATE MEETS

Minutes of the Student Senate meeting held March 3, 1969 -

The meeting was called to order at 4:30 p.m. by President David Goldman.

Minutes - The minutes were approved as read.

Committee Reports - Budget committee - The budget listed $1019.00 to be budgeted in the following manner: $400 for a typewriter, $100 and the LaPorte Pageant profits to the Reserve Fund, $125 to the Emergency and Contingency funds, and $394 plus all surplus to the Convocation Committee. The budget was accepted. The Senate allocated to the Newspaper all funds necessary to operate. The S.E.C. was allocated $250. $175 was allocated to the Agriculture Club, and $150 to the Chess team through the Chess Club. $400 was allocated for an I.B.M. Selectric typewriter.

Miss LaPorte County Pageant Committee - no report.

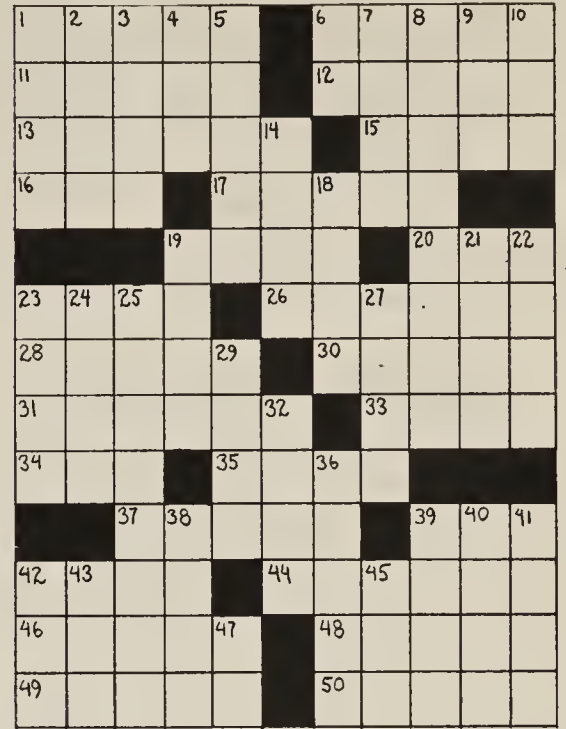

Bookstore Committee - The Committee reported the root of the problem was the book business itself. It was decided that the bookstore publish the new and used prices of the books, that a list of the texts to be used for the next semester be published, and that all students who have complaints or who receive less than one-half for used books approach the bookstore for an explanation.

Election Committee - The election for new Senators was held. Elected were Tom Christenson, Jim Nadeau, Jack Titolo Randall Eckley, and Cathy Nowicki. The election was held for the office of Vice President. Kathy Essling was elected. Cathy Nowicki was elected to fill the vacancy of a Second Corresponding Secretary.

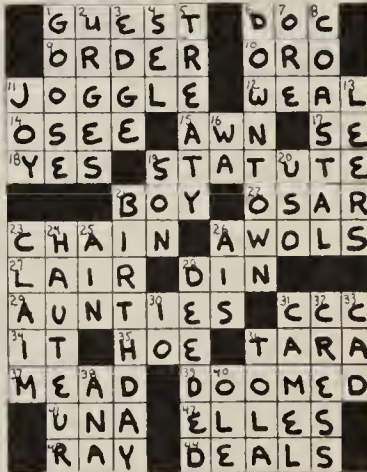

A.R.C. or Student Government Convention - Mr. Wagliardo reported that a convention would be held on April 25 and 26 at Kokomo or Michigan City.

Activity Fee - The rules were suspended to facilitate discussion between the Senate and members of the student body. The figure, for the Activity Fee increase was questioned. The Senate asked to make a tentative budget and investigate the possibility of a surplus. The Senate was also asked why the increase had to be mandatory. Petitions were presented for and against the fee increase. A special meeting will be held on Thursday at 1:30 p.m. to plan and discuss a referendum on the matter. The meeting was adjourned at 7:15.

PURDUE TEAMS TRIUMPH

banquet plans told

The Basketball banquet honoring members of PNC's Centaurs will be on March 20, at 6:30 PM in the formal lounge.

Tickets may be purchased from Mr. Konzelmann, Mr. Bednar or basketball team members.

Those who have lettered in a sport will recieve a monogram. Also a trophy will be given to the team's most valuable player. The programs host will be Stu MacDonald of Michigan City radio station WIMS.

WHAT IS A CENTAUR?

Since PNC has named the Centaur its athletic symbol, the newspaper staff has investigated the meaning of Centaur.

The Centaur, a half-man, half horse, originally dwelled in Thessely. One fable suggests they sprang from the union of the god Ixion and a cloud. The Centaur is swifter and stronger than mortals, and is usually a savage creature. It is also characterized as a wild, lawless, and an inhospitable being - the slave of its animal passion.

In recent times the Centuar is described as a resemblance between the shape of clouds and spirits of the rushing mountain torrents or winds.

SCHEDULE ANNOUNCED

The following Noon Enlightenment schedule has been announced:

"Discover Luxembourg" - March 18

"How to Take Notes" Prof. Murdock
March 19

"Honolulu" - March 25

"New York City" - March 26

Island Oddities - April 9

Any program may be pre-empted for a local speaker.

Lights Installed

The P.N.C. Campus had added two new caution lights, on the highway at the entrance, and four street lights, two on either side, since February. The lights are there to caution students to look and stop as they leave the campus and for other travelers to watch for outcoming cars.

The campus had to pay the initial cost for these lights from funds appropriated for this purpose. Although Purdue must pay for the electric bill for the four lights, the State Highway Department is responsible for all other costs.

Mr. Brubeck felt that although there have been no accidents yet, it will pay to be alert and observe traffic laws and signals. (By the way - do you always observe the circle rule?)

NOTES

CONGRATULATIONS to Daniel P. Anderson, Instructor of Industrial Management, upon the birth of his daughter, Christine, and congratulations to Prof. Ed Bednar upon the birth of his daughter, Catherine.

Twenty-seven faculty members participated in a contest held to guess the number of students enrolled for the Spring Semester. Mr. Jim Gallagher was low with 915 students, and Peggy Weiler was high with 1,311 students. Dean Schwarz won the prize, $6.75, with his guess of 1,112. The official count from Lafayette is 1,116.

ANYONE INTERESTED

Anyone interested in forming a golf club at P.N.C. should contact Doug Anderson.

CENTAURS TOP ANDREWS COLLEGE 98-84

Steve Hart ripped the nets for 31 points and pulled down 25 rebounds to lead the Purdue North Central Centaurs as they defeated a scrappy Andrews College quintet Saturday, March 1 at the Westville High School gym 98-84.

The game was not really as close as the score might indicate. Due to superior defensive and offensive rebounding, the Centaurs were never really in serious trouble. If coach Blackwell had not elected to substitute freely throughout the contest, PNC may have been able to break the school scoring record of 108 points in a single game.

Hurdle tossed in 12 points before fouling out while Gonsorek and Christenson had ten each. Pitman was the only bright spot for Andrews with 29.

The Centaurs closed the season with a record of 7 wins and 11 losses.

BOILERMAKERS WIN

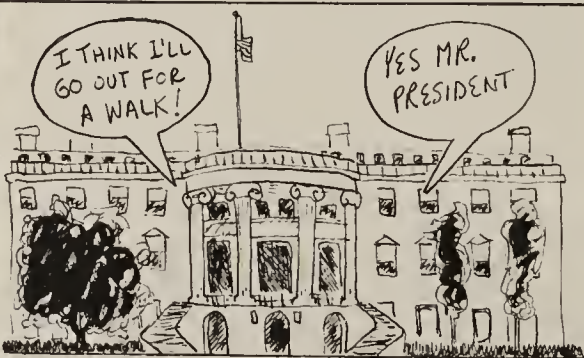

Purdue All-America Rick Mount hit 18 of 36 field goal attempts and 9 of 12 free throws as the mighty Boilermakers blasted the University of Michigan Tuesday evening 116-87. Mount was aided by 6-6 sophomore forward George Faerber and 5-10 guard Bill Keller who each chipped in 20 as Big Ten basketball champion Purdue hit 53% from the floor.

The name of the game was run from the beginning as both teams continually employed the fast break, while the referees, in the meantime, were allowing many fouls under the boards to go unwhistled. Michigan's 6-7 junior center Rudy Tomjanovich, scored 26 points and grabbed 15 rebounds in a valiant one-man effort to keep his team in the game.

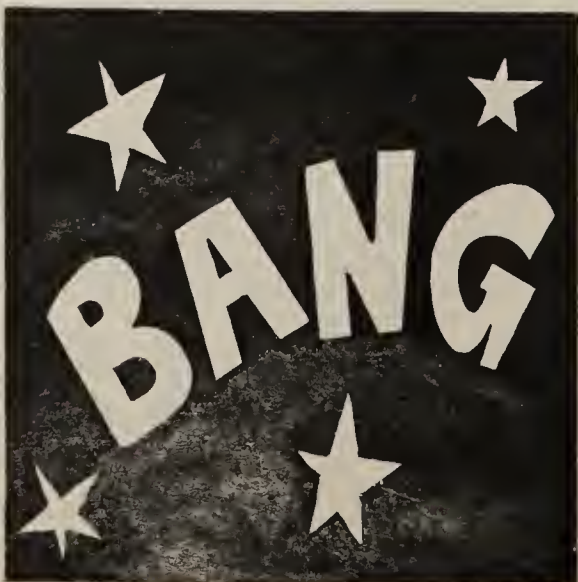

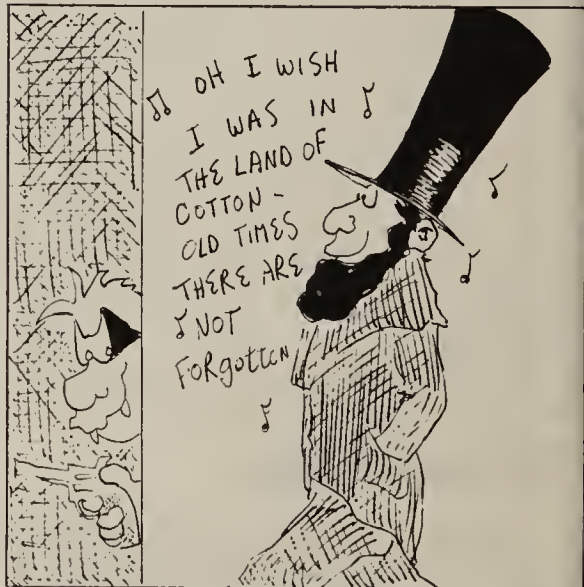

The talented Boilermakers, now 19-4 for the season, will play their final regularly scheduled game at home against Indiana University March 8. Then it's on to the BIG one--the NCAA tournament and a possible meeting with UCLA, the number one rated team in the nation.

BUDGET CUTS INDICATE INCREASE IN TUITION

THE MUSIC CLUB

The Music Club meets every Tuesday night from 7 to 9 in the Formal Lounge. The purpose of the club is to promote music for the use of the P.N.C. student body and the members. To become a member of the club, one must audition. Auditions are held every Tuesday night at the regular meetings. (The club is in need of basses and tenors.)

The members are now planning a presentation of popular and folk songs to be presented at the Noon Enlightenment. The club president is Tanya Saracoff and the faculty advisor is Mr. Bill Boyd.

AGRICULTURE CLUB

Although anyone may attend the meetings of the Agriculture Club, to become a member one must be enrolled in the School of Agriculture. Meetings are held every other Tuesday in Room 60 at 1:30.

The purpose of this club is to promote a deeper understanding and appreciation of agriculture and its purposes.

This newly organized club has made many plans for future activities. Future plans include participation in the Basketball Tourney, field trips, and guest speakers from the School of Agriculture, Purdue Lafayette Campus.

David Millar is the club president and the faculty advisor is Mr. David P. Konzelmann.

CHESS CLUB

The purpose of the Chess Club is to instill an interest of Chess playing at P.N.C. Although there are only 20 members in the club there are over 35 people playing the tournament.

The ratings for the tournament will be run through the computer thanks to Harry Vallangeon.

The club meets on Thursdays at 7:00 in the student lounge. Future plans are being made to play the prison team.

The president of the club is Harry Vallangeon and the faculty advisor is Professor Schreiber.

CAMERA CLUB

The Camera Club meets every Wednesday at 4:30 in Room 60. The purpose of the club is to cover social events, to promote interest in the art of photography, and to promote good conditions in all phases of photography.

The president of the club is Larry Cline and the faculty advisor is Mr. Johnston.

The following resolution was sent to Dean Robert Schwarz as a result of the Student Senate meeting with representatives from Southworth's Bookstore:

March 11, 1969

The Purdue North Central Student Senate, acting upon the grievances of the student body against Southworth's Bookstore, has met with representatives of the bookstore. The Senate, having discussed the problems with the representatives, and having reviewed the issues in light of the advice of these representatives, hereby requests the Purdue North Central administration to publish the list of books that will be used each semester, at least one month prior to that semester, this action to be initiated for the fall semester, 1969.

This recommendation is forwarded after its passage at the March 10, 1969 meeting of the Student Senate.

Brainstorming Session Held

On February 12, a Brainstorming Session took place in the Formal Lounge. The session was sponsored by the Student Senate in hopes that the student body would come forth with suggestions for the spending of next year's Activity Fee. Since no limitations were assigned to student suggestions, the ideas proposed were sometimes wild. Some of the suggestions were having a Viet Nam War Memorial, a turtle race, a debate team, a croquet tournament, a literary contest, a motor cycle run, a color television for the activity lounge, a metaphysical society, and a sophomore-freshmen tug of war. These were only a fraction of the suggestions the students submitted.

Participation and interest was so good that committees were set up to do some of these things this year. These committees will give preference to Kathy Essling's suggestion of having a Spring Weekend. The tentative plans include various faculty student sports activities on a Friday afternoon later this spring. That night a film festival will be held. Plans call for a road rally for the following Saturday morning. Later Saturday afternoon a Bar-b-que will be held followed by a parking lot dance to complete the weekend. If anyone is interested in working on a committee, contact Dave Goldman or any Senate member. By involving the entire student body, future plans can be insured of success!

six coeds named to sorority

Six Purdue North Central coeds have been invited to join the Purdue Chapter of Alpha Lambda Delta. The six coeds honored are Marsha Lynn Hibner, Susan Elaine Linsemeyer, Mary Jo Novak, Denise Lynn Ritter, Susan Marie Scott, and Nancy Gay Sutherland.

Alpha Lambda Delta is a national honor society for freshman women. The purpose of the society is to promote intelligent living, a high standard of learning, and to encourage superior scholastic attainment among freshmen women in institutions of higher learning.

To be eligible for membership, a student must attain at least a 5.5 while carrying a minimum load of 14 hours in her first semester of college, or she must have at least a 5.5 graduation index and a minimum total of 28 hours for her first two semesters. In addition, she must be enrolled in a course of study leading to a baccalaureate degree. At the end of the past fall semester, 151 women on the Lafayette Campus, six each on the North Central and Calumet campuses, two on Indianapolis, and one at Fort Wayne met the eligibility requirements.

The initiation is scheduled for Monday, May 12. A banquet will be held in conjunction with Phi Eta Sigma, the freshman men's scholastic honorary following the induction ceremony.

West Lafayette---A Purdue tuition increase and a moratorium on classroom construction are almost assured as the 1969 Indiana General Assembly adjourned early Tuesday morning leaving four financially distraught state universities in its dust.

According to John W. Hicks, executive assistant to University President Frederick L. Hovde, the General Assembly's appropriations for the university will leave the school "rather hardpressed for funds".

Hicks explained that the current university budget is $42.1 million. The legislature appropriated $41.2 million--a decrease of $900,000--for the 1969-70 operating budget and $45.9 million for the 1970-71 school year. About 1,400 additional students are expected both years, Hicks added.

As a result of the budget cuts, the university administration will have no choice but to recommend to the Board of Trustees in their special meeting set for March 19 that tuition be increased for both in-state and non-resident students, Hicks said.

According to Hicks, the increase "would be in the neighborhood of $300 per year" for resident students and as much as $400 to $500 a year for out-of-state students.

In addition to tuition increases, Hicks said that the picture also looks bleak for academic building construction. He said that preliminary plans for a major classroom-office building will have to be scrapped.

"We'll still be able to go ahead with the new chemistry building, but that's the end of the building program for the next several years," he added.

The regional campuses fared a little better, Hicks said. The current operating budget for the campuses is $8 million and it will be $8.4 million during the 1969-70 term and $9.7 million for 1970-71.

Hicks speculated that one of the far-reaching effects of the low appropriations would be eventual restrictions placed on the number of incoming students.

According to Hicks, the only restrictions placed on enrollments now are in the relatively new school of technology. Students with insubstantial academic abilities are also restricted, he said.

Since Purdue has the only school of agriculture in the state and the only state supported pharmacy and engineering schools, if the time ever comes to hold down enrollments, "we will be slower to restrict students entering our unique areas," Hicks said.

"Nobody (in the Administration) wants to restrict enrollments in any of the schools" but the first to have student cutbacks will be in areas duplicated by other Indiana universities, he said.

Presumably, the schools that will feel students cuts first are humanities and education, science, industrial management, home economics and others.

According to Hicks, the major reason for the scanty appropriations was the current Indiana fiscal crisis. "Most of the state-supported agencies suffered" but the universities probably were hurt the most, he commented.

"Had the state enacted a major new tax program, we probably would have received more money," he said. As it is now, the state may not have enough revenue to cover its statewide budget.

Indiana Governor Edgar Whitcomb campaigned on the promise that state taxes would not increase. According to a story from United Press International Whitcomb said he was "pleased" that the corporate income tax was not doubled and that sales and income taxes were not increased.

the way to heaven

Three cheers for our state legislators! It is time someone put a stop to all the foolish student activism and dangerous ideas running rampart on college campuses. Imagine all those silly children being troubled by war, bigotry, and poverty. The cut in college appropriations by the far-sighted Indiana State legislature and the subsequent tuition increases should lay all those un-American problems to rest.

Long overdue was the day when someone would put events in proper perspective. We have a harbor to build, roads to maintain, and industry to accommodate. Who can afford the luxury of ideas, philosophy, and worthless study when great financial enterprises present themselves. The ivory tower atmosphere of the university is out of place in the modern world.

Let students who can't afford increased tuition go to work. Labor is noble; the sweat of the brow was good enough for our forefathers. History will look back and praise the 1969 Indiana State Legislature for their wisdom and foresight in cutting college budgets. Burns Harbor and super-highways are of the utmost importance; for how shall we ever get to heaven if we don't build super-highways.

THE GRAPEVINE
patrick dodson

Earlier this year the Senate committed us to sponsor the Miss LaPorte County Pageant. This will be the second year P.N.C. has sponsored this event. Huge amounts of time are needed to sponsor the pageant, so an explanation might be in order as to why we committed ourselves to this task.

First, there is money. A well organized and well-executed pageant can be a source of considerable income. Last year the Miss LaPorte County Pageant was one of two county pageants in the state to show a profit. This profit was the result of some good planning and gallons of sweat. These same ingredients can insure similar success this year.

There is another element of far greater importance than money, however. Every university has a responsibility to share constructively in the life of its community. It should be a center of culture, a hub of activity, a liason between all the differing elements of its society. The Miss LaPorte County Pageant is a step in this direction. Hopefully there will be many more.

FACULTY
by Professor John Stanfield

(This is the final portion of Professor Stanfield's article)

The third prerequisite is harder to attain. It is simply attentiveness to language, the nuances of words. Symbols and images, shifts of tone and devices of structure, are particularly important. Unlike the literatures of some other periods, modern literature relies heavily on oblique rather than direct statement. It exploits the whole range of artistic expression, the implicit and the explicit. Hence, we find reason for the charge of modern literature's obscurity. But modern literature is obscure only if we insist on responding to it with the rational or discursive mind. The events in a poem by Frost or a play by Brecht, two notably direct writers, are less central than the texture these events acquire. In reading modern literature, one requires some of the watchful patience needed to learn a new language. You need to read with the whole being alive.

Students who like fiction might start with deceptively simple stories of Hemingway's In Our Time, or those of James Joyce's Dubliners, Fitzgerald's The Great Gatsby or D. H. Lawrence's Sons And Lovers would also make a fine start for readers who prefer a more active plot in the novel. Readers should provide themselves the opportunity for the enjoyment of the more complex masterpieces of our time too: Joyce's Ulysses, Mann's The Magic Mountain, and Kafka's The Castle. Likewise poetry lovers may begin with the work of Frost and early Ezra Pound before attempting Yeats, Eliot, Rilke, or Dylan Thomas. In the end, however, the less studied and self-conscious the approach to literature is, the more likely is it to bear the fruits of pleasure.

I also believe that modern literature, difficult as it may seem to be, is worth attempting. Works like Salinger's The Catcher In the Rye, Jack Kerouac's On the Road, or John Knowles' A Separate Peace are closer to young people. Writers in the past twenty years are generally in reaction against the generation that preceded them. Their values presuppose, in some way or other the values of the older masters, most of whom, now that Faulkner, Hemingway, and Steinbeck are dead, belong to the past.

In great literature, however, there is no past and no built-in obsolescence. There is only radical continuity. We could not afford to live in the perishable present without knowledge, deep passionate knowledge, of the continuous present. Men like Yeats, Lawrence, Kafka, and Faulkner are still prophets of the continuous present. They tell us who we are, and how we could live. That "telling" is important in our fragmented society.

SENATE MEETS

David Goldman opened the Student Senate meeting at 4:30 p.m. in the Conference Room with the accepting of the Agenda. The minutes were accepted and the roll was noted by the Secretary. The treasurer reported an addition of $25 to the S.E.C. budget and an expenditure of $73.15 leaving the balance at $260.50.

Tom Learman reported that the Miss LaPorte County Pageant would be held on June 14, 1969, at the Westville High School. He also reported that less than $2.00 in ads have been sold, an insignificant amount compared to the goal of $3000. Beth Schaviak announced that many more people were needed to help sell ads.

President Dave Goldman stated that an A.R.C. or Student Government Convention would be held at the Michigan City Holiday Inn on April 25 and 26. Kathy Essling then explained the purposes of A.C.E. for the benefit of the new members. Jack Titolo questioned the accomplishments of the last conventions and the goals of the upcoming convention. The limitless possibilities were emphasized. The new members were asked to become familiar with A.R.C. for the next meeting. Further discussion was tabled.

A motion providing for the destroying of the Senate election ballots was unanimously passed.

Pat Dodson was made chairman of a committee of the whole to work out a budget for the Activity Fee fund for the 1969-70 semesters. The committee was given permission to check into advance bookings.

As prescribed by the Student Senate Constitution, the Senate took action on the petitions presented to it. The Senate unanimously passed a motion to have no referendum on the Activity Fee increase, since the disputed increase had been approved by the Board of Regents on March 5, 1969. President Dave Goldman read the letter of approval to the Senate.

As decided in the March 3, 1969, meeting, a resolution requesting the administration to publish the list of books to be used for the upcoming semester was presented and accepted.

The Activity Fee Committee reported that the proposed Overall Budget adopted by the Senate had been passed, with a few corrections. The budget accepted includes the following figures: $980.77 from the first semester, $1904.00 from the second semester activity fees, totaling $2884.77 to be budgeted. The items were budgeted as follows: $650 to the Newspaper; $500 to the Basketball Team; $56 to the Glee Club; $175 to the Agriculture Club; $250 to the S.E.C.; $150 to the Chess Team; $459.77 for capital equipment-I.B.M. typewriter; $394 to the Convocation Committee; $150 to the Contingency Fund; and $100 plus any profit from the LaPorte County Pageant to the Reserve Fund.

Kathy Essling next explained the Man and Woman of the Year Award. A committee consisting of Kathy Essling, chairman, Beth Schaviak, Cathy Nowicki, and Randall Eckley was appointed to research the award.

The next two items on the agenda, the Croquet Tournament, and the Faculty-Student Basketball game, were tabled until student opinion could be obtained at the Wednesday "Brainstorming Session."

A film festival including five W.C. Fields films and two Road Runner cartoons was presented. It was noted that such a festival would cost $70.00. The Senate approved the idea and put it under the Convocation Committee for further planning.

Mr. John Waglairdo, Faculty Advisor explained the Wednesday Brainstorming session. He stated that there will be no limiting factor for suggestions. It was requested that all Senate members be present.

The last item was the purchase of the I.B.M. typewriter. Mary Jo Novak was asked to check the worth of a $38 per year maintenance agreement. A disagreement on the most suitable type style arose. Randall Eckley and Mary Jo Novak were asked to compare the different styles, and note the ones best for the needs of The Newspaper and the Senate.

The meeting was adjourned at 5:50.

Budget cuts

Hicks said that there also "may have been a feeling in the state legislature that the Lafayette and Bloomington (Indiana University) campuses are getting too big."

"I don't know how much a part it played, but there was also some reaction against student activism"

"But even the friendliest legislature couldn't have given us a major budget increase because there just aren't enough funds," he added.

Hicks emphasized that the tuition increase was regrettable, "but we only had two alternatives. We could either raise tuition or let the campus go downhill rapidly."

It is uncertain now what impact the hike in fees will have on students already attending the university.

Hicks said that Indiana University was badly hurt by state budget cuts. Ball State and Indiana State were more fortunate, however. "I suppose you can argue that these campuses (ISU and ISU) need more money because they have a longer way to go," he commented.

For the future, Hicks said that the administration "will approach then (the Indiana General Assembly) as we have in the past -- with the best and most information we can give them"

"We will show them the facts" of the effects of tuition increases this biennium, he said. "I also suspect that the increase in fees may generate a great deal of concern among parents and students." This would be a strong political factor for the next session of the legislature, he speculated.

BOILERMAKERS CLOSE SEASON

Rick Mount scored 40 points to break Big Ten and Purdue scoring record as the Boilermakers ended their regular basketball season with a 120-76 rout of Indiana.

Mount's total gave him 810 points for all games this season and 493 in 14 conference games. The previous Purdue season record was 781 by Dave Schellhase in 1965-66, and the old Big Ten mark was 474 by Ohio State's Gary Bradds in 1963-64.

Co-captain Bill Keller chipped in with 31 points as the conference champions broke the school single-game scoring record, which was 116 points.

The loss meant a cellar finish for Indiana, led by Joe Cooke and Ken Johnson with 18 each.

The Boilermakers finished with a 20-4 over-all record and 13-1 in Big Ten play.

The Junior Engineers' and Scientists' Summer Session enables pupils to orient themselves in the sciences and engineering, thereby avoiding costly program changes later in college. Purdue's broad program will include not only the sciences and engineering, but also serve to acquaint the pupils with veterinary medicine, pharmacy, statistics, computers, and other fields of study.

Purdue officials expect about 250 youngsters to enroll. They pay their own expenses. The fee of $145 includes board and room, as well as other expenses.

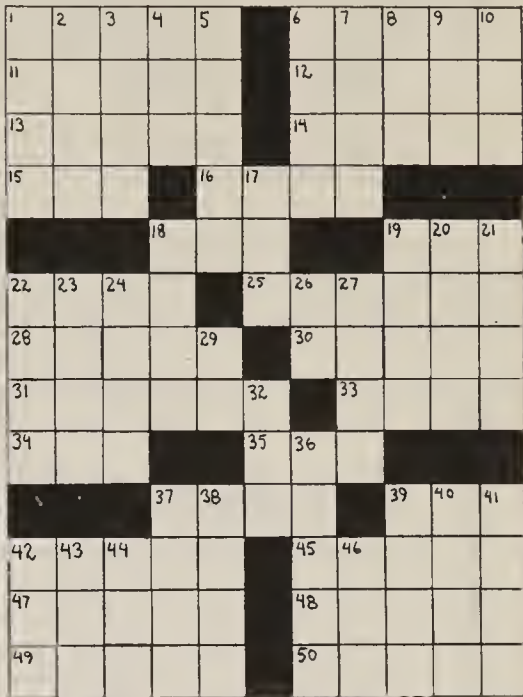

An opportunity for high school pupils from Indiana and neighboring states to decide whether or not they wish to become the "Scientists of Tomorrow" will be provided in a two-week summer institute at Purdue University, starting June 8.

Five Purdue University seniors have been named as winners in the 1969 Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship competition. Purdue had one designate and four alternates. The selections are made nation-wide to identify those students best qualified to become college teachers.

An intensive three-week program of study of the oral dimensions of literature will be held on the Purdue University campus from July 21 to Aug. 8. The summer workshop for teachers will feature extensive use of closed-circuit television for experimentation and evaluation.

Abandoned courtyards in Oslo, Norway, are being reclaimed for living through the influence of a Purdue University design professor. Victor J. Papanek met with a group of design school students at Oslo last month to lead them in design problems. They decided the little-used courtyards in the middle of blocks of four and five-story apartment buildings near the heart of Oslo could become playgrounds for children. They designed low-cost play-ground equipment, benches and shelters. The students are now spearheading the move to get the renewal project underway.

MOUNT'S OVERTIME SHOT WINS MIDEAST TITLE

MEETING PLANNED

Tom Christensen would like to see the Spring Weekend committee chairmen, Friday, March 21, 1969 at 11:00 am in the Activities Lounge!

Purdue's classy Rick Mount sank a one-handed jump shot with only two seconds left to play in overtime Saturday night as the Big Ten champion Boilermakers fought and scratched their way to a 75-73 victory over the fired-up Marquette Warriors.

With two seconds remaining in regulation play, it looked as if Mount and Company were playing their last game of the season. Jerry Johnson had just fouled Ric Cobb of Marquette and Cobb promptly dropped in the first of his two free throws making the score tied at 63-63. The second shot by Cobb was no good and a frantic tip-in effort by teammate Joe Thomas similarly missed the mark sending the game into overtime and giving the Boilermakers a new lease on life.

In the overtime period, Purdue lost no time gaining the lead 69-65, but the Warriors tied it at 69-69 with 1:53 remaining. Both teams proceeded to exchange baskets until Purdue called time out with 26 seconds to play and the score deadlocked at 73 all. The Boilermakers obviously planned to work for one shot and Marquette must have known that the shooter would be Rick Mount. Nevertheless, the ball was carefully worked around for 18 seconds, lobbed over to Mount who faked to his left, dribbled toward the right corner, and let fly with the game-winning toss, untouched and unmolested.

Mount led Purdue with 26 points, followed by Keller with 17 and Weatherford with 13. Captain George Thompson led his team with a fine 28-point performance. Purdue, now the Mideast Regional Champions will next meet the Eastern Regional Champions, North Carolina, Thursday night in Louisville's Freedom Hall. The Tarheels had even a rougher time of it Saturday than Purdue as Charlie Scott dumped in a 20 footer at the last second to give them an 87-85 come-from-behind victory over Davidson.

DR. JABLON RECEIVES PROMOTION

Robert F. Schwarz, dean and director of PNC, reported that Howard Jablon, assistant professor of history, has been elevated to the rank of associate professor.

Jablon has been a member of the PNC staff since 1966. He received his B.A. degree from Hofstra University in 1961. He attended Rutgers University and received his Master's degree in 1962 and his doctorate in 1967.

Prior to joining the PNC staff, Dr. Jablon spent two years as a teaching assistant at Rutgers and later instructed at Monmouth College in New Jersey.

In announcing his promotion, Dean Schwarz said, "During Jablon's tenure at PNC he has exhibited outstanding teaching abilities. His imaginative methods and the knowledge he communicates to his students has won both their praise and highest respect. It is not only as a teacher that we commend him, but he has given unstintingly of his time to students both as an academic counselor and an advisor in student activities."

Jablon is a resident of Michigan City and resides with his wife, Jessica, and daughter, Lisa, at 320 Southwood Drive.

Dr. H. Jablon

Hibner gives speech

On Friday, March 21, State Representative Roy Hibner, Rep-Michigan City, addressed a group of government students. In introducing Mr. Hibner, Professor Anita Bowser commented that only a brave politician would speak before a group of college students since the legislature's budget cuts had necessitated a tuition increase.

Mr. Hibner opened his address by explaining the various steps which are required for a bill to become law. Some comment arose to whether the various committees to which bills are assigned actually follow through with the idea of representative government. Since the chairmen of the various committees have control over what bills go before the legislature, a handful of politicians actually decide what legislation will be passed. Mr. Hibner stated that these committees are necessary since the great number of bills introduced each session prohibits legislators from reading each one.

Mr. Hibner then explained a few of the important bills that were passed. Among these was a bill to revoke the driver's license of any person suspected or convicted of violating the drug laws, and the automobile inspection bill which has been revised and will go into effect in August. Representative Hibner then commented on the University budget cuts. He assured the students that the House of Representatives had done everything possible to prevent the budget cuts but the governor's tax policy and the actions of the Senate had necessitated the cuts.

State Representative Roy Hibner

"Purdue North Central students will face a substantial increase in fees this fall," said Robert F. Schwarz, Dean and Director of PNC in explanation of the action taken by the Purdue University Board of Trustees today.

In establishing higher fees to compensate for a reduction in appropriations by the Indiana General Assembly this year, the trustees raised resident undergraduate fees at Purdue's four regional campuses from $15 per credit hour to $20 and non-resident undergraduate fees from $23 to $40 per credit hour.

At the same time, resident graduate fees were raised from $18 to $25, and non-resident graduate fees from $26 to $40 per credit hour. The $4 per credit hour laboratory fee was raised to $5.

Dean Schwarz was careful to point out that while the regional campus fee structure differs from that of the Lafayette campus corresponding increases will be instituted on the main campus.

"The facts of life in higher education in Indiana today are such that these additional fees are mandatory if Purdue University's regional campuses are to continue to provide the high quality of instruction Indiana citizens have come to expect of their educational system," said Dean Schwarz.

"The essence of the situation is that, in the face of the rising costs of all goods and services due to inflation, and the growth in student enrollment at PNC, the state appropriations for the two years beginning July 1 will not be sufficient without this fee increase."

"We expect 150 new full-time students next fall and this means additional faculty. We must also provide some salary increases to keep the excellent staff we now have."

"The decision to raise fees was undertaken only after a thorough and exhaustive analysis of our financial position," Schwarz indicated.

"The alternative to a fee increase would be a decrease in the quality of education at PNC, and this would be a direct loss to those we are here to serve -- the students."

PLANS FORMED

Last week, every time anyone mentioned "The Spring Weekend" ten others queried, "What's that?" Well, here's the explanation.

Many people have been complaining about the lack of activities around P.N.C. Some students in conjunction with the Student Senate have elected to alleviate this deficiency by a Spring Weekend. The plan is this:

1. To have classes dismissed Friday, May 9, at 12:00 (committee, Dave Goldman and Kristy Kniola.)

2. To have a faculty-student participation sport that afternoon followed by a picnic. The evening would feature a film festival. The committee for these activities is Kathy Essling, chairman, John Witzgall, Toni Hirsch, Connie Goodson, Doug Ely, Phil Hargarten and Mary Jo Novak.

3. Beginning early Saturday morning, a road rally is scheduled which will last until the early afternoon. This committee consists of Doug Ely, chairman, Mike Lidga, Ted Gorski, Toni Hirsch, Jim Pizarek, Dave Nauch, and Tom Komaskinski.

4. An ox-roast is going to be served then by a committee of four P.N.C. coeds, Tanya Saracoff, Beth Schaviak, Joan Kukla and Cathy Nowicki, chairman.

5. This fabulous weekend will be climaxed by a parking lot dance featuring a popular band. This committee is formed by Keith Harmon, chairman, Randall Eckley, Leonard Jankowski, and Dave Goldman.

Tickets and publicity will be handled by Pat Dodson, chairman, Randall Eckley and Keith Harmon. The general chairman of the P.N.C. Spring Weekend is Tom Christensen. If you would like to help on any of these committees just contact the chairmen.

This great event is being planned for you, the student, and it's guaranteed to provide you with a good time.

COURSE BEGINS

A five-session, non-credit Continuing Education course in Advanced Photography will get under way this Thursday evening at the Purdue North Central Campus.

Wendell Nicholson, area photographer who will act as the instructor for the class, described the course as one "designed for those who have had a basic photography course or its equivalent."

"Students will learn the methods of technique and expression that can give them complete control of their picture-making in either color or black and white."

Mr. Nicholson has taught basic, advanced and outdoor photography courses at P.N.C. for the last two years.

He has taught photography courses in Michigan for several years and has a four-star rating with the Photographic Society of America for proficiency in International Salon Exhibiting.

One of his side interests in conservation, and he has addressed many area civic organizations with slide programs on both conservation and natural history.

He has also shown an active interest in youth and youth programs, having acted as a judge and instructor for 4-H photography groups.

Mr. Nicholson advised prospective students to bring in addition to their camera, a light meter, a tripod and cable release at the first session.

A MODEST PROPOSAL FOR THE SOLUTION OF THE BIAFRAN PROBLEM*

The inability of the developing nations of the world to solve their internal problems emphasizes the need for modern methods in our world. A lack of imagination has hampered these nations in availing themselves of pragmatic solutions to their most basic problems. The most glaring example of this inefficiency is Biafra.

Biafra could be a small thriving community in the heartland of Africa; instead, people are starving. The reason for this is the falacious assumption that the other nations of the world in some vague way disapprove of genocide. From this they deduce that these humanitarian interests will solve their problem by feeding them.

This is ridiculous! Not only will Biafra not receive the massive aid they need (who wants to offend Nigeria?) but they have within their own tiny domain a simple solution to their problem. If the Biafrans would earmark one out of every five offspring to be raised as food, they would have no problem. Within ten years they could not only alleviate the food shortage, but might even gain income through export. Such imagination would not only alleviate malnutrition and supplement the income, but it would also relieve my conscience.

FACULTY FORUM

This is the week of the flight of Apollo 9, the prelude to the landing of men on the moon. It is a particularly appropriate time to consider what this event will mean to the world, to our country, and to our own personal lives. The world, the country, and the personal lives of young people will be especially affected, and they ought to be, therefore, particularly concerned. For this reason I should like to offer a few thoughts of my own about the significance of the space program.

I can only hope to write to a very limited aspect of the total subject and so I have chosen to discuss a single specific question. "Why?" it is asked, "why spend all that effort and money to send a few men to a dead, lifeless moon? How can it possibly be of any value? Couldn't the money be better spent to help solve the many social ills that beset our world?"

And it does seem a waste of treasure and effort to spend $50,000,000 to launch a single space rocket, to spend many billions of dollars and many millions of man hours to mount a space program. The money would feed so many and house so many and educate so many. And yet, and yet... It has been just this technology that has presented us with nuclear power, that not too far in the future can provide fresh water from the salt and brackish waters of the world to change the desert into productive farmland. It is just this technology that may provide us with a vast new source of energy to do the world's work, the fusion reactor. The real basis for a world wide solution to the problems of adequate food, housing, and clothing of all peoples is a technology capable of extracting from our resources the required food, materials, and energy. We must of course learn to do much more; to live peaceably together, to distribute to all the goods we shall be able to produce so generously. But without the technical foundation we can't hope to provide the required goods and services. I don't believe that we can afford not to devote a substantial part of the world's capital of savings and man power to the further growth of our technology. The day may come when the material basis of our society is so great and so generously distributed to all, that we can all enjoy the leisure required to expand our understanding and to enrich our lives with the things of the spirit and the mind. The space program has been a major factor in the very real growth in our technology to date. I don't believe it is the part of wisdom to abandon it.

by Professor V. J. Raelson

THE GRAPEVINE by patrick dodson

Having no specific crusade to launch this issue, I shall deal with a few random thoughts. Some of these are my own opinions and should not be taken as a reflection of the views of the Senate in its entirety.

The Miss LaPorte County Pageant is in trouble. We just do not have enough bodies to do all that is required. Unless help from the student body itself is forthcoming, it might be necessary to cancel the pageant. This would be a black mark against the university. It could also seriously damage our community relations and public image. Students who could take one afternoon to visit advertising prospects should see Keith Harmon or Beth Schaviak.

Students who take an interest in Senate affairs might do well to ask their Senators why they voted almost their entire remaining budget to visit the upcoming A.R.C. Convention. Only three are voting members; therefore, I see no reason to pay the expenses of the others. I was in the meeting and I could find no justification for such action---perhaps someone else can.

It is encouraging to see all the activity and interest the Spring Weekend is creating. It is the best cooperation we have had all year among Senate, students, and administration. If all plans transpire successfully this could be the beginning of an annual event of major proportions. Students are heading committees for a road rally, a dance, a student-faculty volleyball game, a W.C. Fields film festival, and a genuine ox-roast. Classes will be out the afternoon of May 9, with the activities beginning that same afternoon and running through Saturday night. Advance ticket sales will begin shortly, so plan now to attend.

A closing thought from my Grandpa, "There are two kinds of people in the world--those that do the work and those who take the credit. Try to get in the first group; there's less competition."

please note

All students are asked to help the Miss La Porte County Pageant Committees sell advertising for the pageant booklet. Tuesday has been set aside as the day a CONCENTRATED EFFORT will be made in ad selling. Since the success of this project depends on advertising sales, we are calling on everyone to be in the activity lounge at 12:30 on Tuesday!

SENATE MEETS

The fifteenth regular meeting of the Student Senate was called to order at 4:30 p.m. in the Conference Room by the president. Roll was taken by the secretary. The minutes were read and accepted. The treasurer reported a balance of $260.50.

It was announced that an A.R.C. Convention would be held in Indianapolis on April 18, 19 and 20. After much debate, the Senate passed by a simple majority of 6 to 5 a motion stating that the fees of the three voting delegates be paid in full, while the remainder of $200.00 be divided to pay the expenses of all other Senators attending the convention. It was noted that nine other Senate members would be attending, the count made before the vote had been taken.

Tom Learman, chairman of the Miss LaPorte County Pageant, reported that an important meeting of faculty advisors and all students connected with the pageant would be held Thursday, March 20, at 4:30 p.m. in the Conference Room.

The Spring Weekend was the next item on the agenda. It was reported that the Spring Weekend date had been changed to May 9 and 10. The financing of the Spring Weekend was brought up. The Senate decided to leave matters of financing up to the student committees.

Two items previously tabled were taken up. The Senate decided not to sponsor a Croquet Tournament or a Faculty-Student Basketball Tournament. The Man and Woman of the Year Award was again tabled.

Pat Dodson, chairman of the 1969-70 planning committee said that he needed letters written to various well-established campuses to ask for ideas and information on their successful activities. The two corresponding secretaries were asked to write the necessary letters within the two days succeeding. Randall Eckley was asked to check into bookings in Chicago. The planning for the Freshmen Week was put under Pat Dodson's committee.

It was suggested that a Brainstorming Session be held Friday, March 21st to obtain suggestions on financing. Larry Nickell, an interested student, volunteered to direct the Friday session.

Finally, President Dave Goldman announced that any Senate member coming late to the meetings would be given an unexcused absence.

The meeting was adjourned at 5:25.

Robert L. Miller presents the P.N.C. Alumni Association's 'Most Valuable Player Trophy' to Steve Hart.

Dean Blackwell presents Pat Dodson with the P.N.C. Monogram. Nine members of the Basketball team received letters.

Professor Bednar presents certificate to Nancy Cordell, one of three cheerleaders honored.

Parents and friends gathered at Purdue North Central campus on Thursday to pay tribute to participants in PNC's first inter-collegiate basketball season.

The first annual basketball banquet was sponsored by the PNC Alumni Club.

The event began with the televised Purdue-North Carolina game from Louisville. Dinner was served during the half-time.

Stu McDonnell was the master of ceremonies and introduced Dean Blackwell and Professor L.E. Bednar, PNC, and Mr. Robert Miller, LaPorte.

Letters were awarded to nine members of the basketball team by Dean Blackwell. They were: Tom Busckowski, Greg Christensen, Pat Dodson, Steve Hart and Neil Hurdle, Michigan City; Dave Gonsorek, Wawasee; Al Krause, Henry Matthys, Jackson Township; and Bob Swanson, Chesterton.

Professor Bednar presented certificates to Dave Christensen, Willie Zahn, Michigan City; and Eric Youngren, Valparaiso.

Certificates were also presented by Bednar to Nancy Cordell, Lucinda Mead, and Tanya Saracoff, cheerleaders; and Phil Hargarten and Jack Titolo, team managers.

The PNC Alumni Association's 'Most Valuable Player Trophy' was awarded to Steve Hart by Robert Miller.

Neil Hurdle was named honorary team captain for 1968-69.

Details of the tentative 1969-70 Basketball schedule were also announced.

PAGEANT FACES SERIOUS PROBLEMS

Accident Claims Mans Life

Wreckage lies on 421 directly in front of PNC. One man was killed and another injured in the three car collision.

Blizzard-like conditions and extremely hazardous driving could be blamed for the 10th highway traffic fatality in the county which occurred during the height of Wednesday's storm on U.S. Road 421 three miles north of Westville. The time of the accident was 12:15 p.m.

Dead is Seymore Silverstone, 54. He died in St. Anthony Hospital, Michigan City, of chest and internal injuries. Paul Peeples, 56, Rolling Prairie, is a patient of St. Anthony's suffering fractures ribs and possible internal injuries in the same crash.

The Peeples car was traveling north on Road 421, and apparently lost control on slick roads in a driving snow storm. The Peeples car skidded out of control and crashed almost head on into the Silverstone auto. A car driven by Jackie Wright, Valparaiso, who was not injured, also traveling north on Road 421, was unable to stop and crashed into the two-car wreckage.

Educational T.V. Plans for PNC Told

Educational T.V. is now in use at P.N.C., but it's on videotape. Last semester there were three videotape courses offered. This constitutes a problem since these tapes are sent by mail from Lafayette campus and sometimes arrive late.

Mr. Bowley said these problems would be eliminated next September when a microwave tower is installed which will enable P.N.C. to receive programs directly.

These pictures will be monitored to five locations: three classrooms, the activity lounge, and the study-lounge. The programs can also include any television show monitored in the area from Chicago or South Bend stations. In short, anything will be shown that the registrar wants to set up.

It is not yet known however, which courses will be offered next semester.

Mr. Bowley also said that it would be possible to receive two channels simultaneously under the new E.T.V. set up.

Astronomy Course Offered April 8th

An eight-session, non-credit Continuing Education course in astronomy will be offered at Purdue North Central campus from 7 - 9 p.m. on Tuesday evenings beginning April 8.

The course is entitled, "The New Frontier - An Introduction to the Astronomy of our Solar System."

Verner J. Raelson, Assistant Professor of Physics at P.N.C. will be the instructor.

In describing the course content, Professor Raelson stated that "the course is to be a descriptive, non-mathematical introduction to the field of astronomy and in particular to the astronomy of our own solar system.

"It should prove a most stimulating offering," Raelson continued. "The space age is a reality and already man has taken his first steps in solar exploration. The course should appeal to persons of all ages who have an active curiosity about the universe in which they live."

Several thought-provoking areas will be covered. Included are such topics as: how to map out the night sky and locate any object we might wish to observe; how can the motions of the sun and moon, the stars and the planets we observe be explained; how does the telescope work and how is it to be used to observe the night sky; what are the principles that govern interplanetary flight and the motions of the planets and their moons.

In addition, two of the eight sessions will be devoted to actual observation of the sky with a telescope.

Registration can be made by phone, mail or in person at the PNC campus. The registration office is open Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. until 8 p.m.

An interview with Tom Learman Chairman of the Miss LaPorte County Pageant, has revealed that the pageant is in serious trouble. This trouble stems from the lack of finances. Financing for the pageant is obtained primarily through the sale of advertising in the pageant booklet, which will be sold at the pageant. Learman stated that the advertising to date has gone very slowly and that the pageant would have to be cancelled unless sales increased.

Although pleas to the student body to assist the Senate in this project have gone out, response has been very apathetic. Beth Schaviak and Keith Harmon held a meeting for people wishing to help sell advertising and help with the project. Only six students attended this meeting, all of which were on the Senate. Despite the apparent lack of interest on the part of the student body, much work was accomplished at this meeting. Sales packets were made and assigned to specific zones in Michigan City and LaPorte. It is the hope that these packets will encourage people to volunteer their time to sell ads.

Learman is optimistic about the pageant success although things appear bleak at the moment. He announced that the pageant will be held at the Westville High School gymnasium on June 14, and that the various committees are finalizing their respective plans. Learman also expressed his hope that the student body would be more active in this project since, they, as the school, will benefit from the positive public relations the pageant will bring!

Dr. J. P. Jones Gives Speech

Dr. J.P. Jones, Jr. associate medical director, medical department, Chas. Pfizer & Co., Inc., New York, spoke on "Antibiotics" at the Purdue North Central campus on April 7 at 7 p.m.

Dr. Jones talked to members of the PNC student nursing technology program, area physicians, nurses, dentists and pharmacists.

Dr. Jones is a graduate of the University of Tennessee College of Medicine (1956) and has been associate medical director of Pfizer & Co., since 1964.

His scientific activities include membership on the American School Health Association's committee on Drug Abuse; the National Coordinating Council on Drug Abuse, Education and Information.

He has also acted as consultant to the National Aeronautical space Administration; to the Division of Scientific Affairs, American Medical Association and to the American School Health Association.

As an instructor, Dr. Jones has been a guest lecturer at both Indiana and Purdue Universities.

Arrangements for Dr. Jones' appearance at PNC were made through Dr. Glenn R. Knotts, visiting lecturer in pharmacology in the nursing technology program at the campus.

Persons may obtain additional details by calling William C. Boyd, Coordinator of Continuing education of PNC.

Dunes Players To Present Thurber Play

On Saturday, April 12, The Dunes Art Foundation will present Thurber's "Carnival." The presentation starts at 8:00 and will be in the Student Activities Lounge. There is no charge to attend.

Thurber's "Carnival," not a play in the sense as we think of one, is a selection of the best of James Thurber's humorous writings put into dramatic form.

The humorous writings, in the form of skits will include three word dances like Rowan and Martin's Laugh-In during the party scene; one on gentlemen shoppers which are offered free drinks at Christmas time to encourage them to go shopping; the problem of getting rid of books he, Thurber, didn't order; one on three characters who don't care for poetry and keep changing it; a girl attempting to read Macbeth as a modern day murder; how a man murders his wife to marry his secretary; the story of a castaway on an island trying to teach a mermaid to speak English; Walter Mitty, the great soldier, pilot, and surgeon; and "the Last Flower," the history of the world with cartoons.

Each skit will last about three or four minutes. A discussion will follow the play.

please note

Advance registration for Summer Session 1969 and Fall Semester, 1969-70 will be from April 7, 1969 through May 16, 1969. Students may make appointments with counselors.

April 12, 1969 is the last day any student can drop a course without a grade.

POEM

One's Mind

Can be overthrown,
Deplorable as it seems,
And portray you,
Evident of the time,
Deprived, neglected person
Overthrown by the mind.
You will one day
Realize the fact
That no matter who you are,
You still can think like that.
Designate your merit and belief,
But remember make it be brief.
Desire can turn to lust,
And that can turn to rust
Thy mind, and that into dust.

Final Statistics Announced

The 1968-69 Basketball season is over and the final statistics have been released. Steve Hart led the PNC Centaurs in scoring with a 21.9 average and 394 points total. Neil Hurdle was second with 208 points and an 11.6 average, and Gred Christensen was third with 186 point and a 10.3 average.

The Centaurs, 7-11 for the year, scored a total of 1386 point against 1417 for their oponents. PNC averaged 77 points per game while their foes were averaging 78.7 Hart was high scorer in all but 5 of Purdue North Central's 18 contests, hitting a career high of 35 high against Roosevelt, Feb. 6th. Steve connected on 15 field goals in that game while leading the Centaurs to a single-game scoring record of 108 points.

BOMB SCARE GROUNDS PURDUE TRACK TEAM; MEET CANCELED

Dunes Players Present Thurber's 'Carnival'

The Dunes Art Foundation had another artistic triumph Saturday night on their second visit to the PNC campus. A cast of seven persons presented James Thurber's Carnival.

Carnival used a sketch and one-lines format a la Laugh-In that lampooned the idiosyncrasies of American life. The subjects ranged from everyday life (a man who had fantasies about killing his wife) to the national scene (Congress investigating a man who said Brazil was bigger than the U.S.)

The acting generally was good, although certain roles were slightly overplayed. It is to the cast's credit that they were able to follow a format of almost pure humor for 1½ hours and never lose attention.

Overall, Carnival was entertaining and thought-provoking if one cared to go beyond the humorous facade. The Dunes Art Foundation deserves our thanks and appreciation for this fine contribution to our social program.

State Senator John Shawley, above, addressed Mrs. Bowers government classes Wednesday, April 9

The Purdue track team canceled a meet with the University of Iowa yesterday after a bomb scare grounded the team chartered air liner at the Purdue airport. Officials said the event may be rescheduled later.

The bomb scare reportedly was by comments of a former Purdue track team member, Eric McCoskill, who was lending moral support to two athletes banned from the meet because they failed to shave off their moustaches.

McCoskill, who quit Purdue's track team two weeks ago over a racial issue, was arrested on a disorderly conduct charge and taken to the Tippecanoe County jail.

Kent Hannon of the Purdue Exponent student newspaper said he was walking toward the plane with the former member, McCoskill, and three Negro athletes who had been told to shave.

Mel Harris and Jimmy Jackson still sported their moustaches, Hannon said; Don Price did not.

Hannon said Harris and Jackson asked what would happen if they were told they couldn't go to the Iowa meet, and McCoskill jokingly replied, "Well, I've got a bomb here."

McCoskill, gestured toward a bag of athletic equipment he was carrying when he made the remark, Hannon said.

He said the assistant track coach, Roger Kerr, was walking nearby, heard the remark and warned McCoskill he shouldn't joke about bombs on planes.

"I didn't mean anything serious," McCoskill later told police officers. "I was just talking to some friends and said that as a joke."

Track Coach David Rankin said a rule governing all sports at Purdue is that athletes must be clean shaven before a meet. Before the plane was grounded, Hannon said, Harris and Jackson were told they could not participate in the meet.

Don Coppolillo of Purdue Aeronautics corporation, which owns the plane, said the corporation is a charter air line and must abide by federal rules governing bomb threats.

The Federal Aviation agency, the Federal Bureau of Investigation, and local police were called and all passengers left the plane. A demolition squad was called from Fort Harrison in Indianapolis, but found no explosives on the plane, the FBI said.

PNC TO OFFER HIGHWAY TECHNICIAN PROGRAM

Beginning June 16 and concluding on August 8, Purdue North Central campus, in conjunction with the Highway Commission will offer the second "Summer Highway Technician Program."

The main purpose of the program is to provide technically-qualified employees in the Highway Commission to meet the present and future manpower needs in highway engineering classifications.

Under the provisions of the technician program, qualified students will be employed by the commission. They will attend PNC during the regular summer session with full tuition paid plus a salary of $330 a month. Upon completion of the course, students will report to the commission for work.

Qualifications listed by the commission include graduation from high school in the upper 2/3 of their class; normal good health and have reached the age of 18 on or before August 6; have an interest and aptitude for engineering work; and reasonable availability for at least one year of continuous employment. No physical examination is required.

Richard L. Taylor, assistant professor of civil engineering at PNC, who will head the program offered these suggestions to interested students.

"A high school senior who meets the requirements may be referred by his high school principal to the District Office of the Highway Commission at LaPorte as an Applicant for participation in the program."

"The applicant will prepare an application for employment form and be interviewed by a representative of the Highway Commission. The program will then be fully explained and discussed to determine if both the applicant and the commission are agreeable to the conditions for employment for the program."

Applicants selected for the training program will report to the PNC campus for registration and enrollment in the program on June 12-13, between the hours of 5 and 8 p.m.

Professor Taylor explained that "the Highway Commission will pay the cost of tuition for the course in the amount of $213 per student."

"However," he added, "student employees will be required to purchase the necessary books and equipment for the course from their own funds. This will amount to approximately $50."

"Additionally, the student must arrange and pay his normal living expenses including meals and lodging. Students will receive their first paycheck within 30 days of their initial employment."

Commission spokesmen added that the Highway Commission offers a leave of absence after one year of employment for educational purposes. A number of men have taken advantage of these opportunities and the night courses offered at PNC to complete the two year degree Divil Engineering Technology.

Completion of the two year degree and additional practical experience will qualify graduates as chiefs of surveying parties, field engineers in charge of construction projects, laboratory technicians, and aids to design engineers.

Salaries for the two year graduate range from $500 to $550 a month.

Additional information about the program may be obtained from David P. Konzelmann, admissions officer at PNC Unknown to most of you, I still have relatives living behind the iron curtain. Communications are practically impossible due to the prevailing political climate. A letter does occasionally get out, however, so you can imagine my surprise and pleasure on finding one yesterday in my mailbox. I think it is worthy to be quoted intact.

Dear Peatroski (My Russian name),

I am happy upon this occasion to be able to take pen in hand and communicate with you. Miska and Boris are both fine and much missing you. We are all hoping soon to see you there in the land of freedom and home of the brave. We think everyday of you and pray God some day we shall be allowed to live as do you.

I shall now recount you small incident showing how much you have to be thankful for. Recently we had here program on CBS (Communist Broadcasting System) called Smotski Brothers. These men sometimes had said Russia was sometimes not right. They laughed often at those who seek only after rubles. They even laughed at the Party sometime. They made us think. Party censors took them off the Party station.

I know nothing like this could happen in U.S. of A. We thank God everyday that there is still freedom in your country.

Give my love to your mama and papa.

Love,
Uncle Nicolai

I thought this might make all us appreciate the freedom we have here in America. I am glad that it can't happen here.

FACULTY FORUM

BY PROFESSOR ANITA BOWSER

If a comparison were made between Indiana's constitution and the constitutions of the other states of the Union, the outcome would show that Indiana's constitution is much worse than most of the constitutions of the other forty-nine states.

Indiana's present document, adopted in 1851, has more things wrong with it than the constitution of 1816 that it replaced. Unlike the older United States constitution, Indiana's constitution is restrictive, inflexible, and obsolete.

Drafted for an agrarian society, it presupposes that the best way to choose experts is by popular vote, and the best way to have honest government is to keep every office of government independent of every other office. These doctrines produce gross inefficiency and waste. As a result the governor is not the business head of the state nor does he appoint heads of his various executive departments. Instead the secretary of state oversees the business corporation, is head of the securities department, issues automobile licenses, is head of the state police, is in no way responsible to the governor, and is, in fact, a sort of chief executive himself. The attorney-general is also elected by the people and is entirely independent of the governor. So far as the executive branch of the government is concerned, the Indiana state government is a conglomerate of petty executives with no one in supreme command.

The Indiana constitution, moreover, keeps voters from reelecting a governor whether they would like to or not, and encourages legislation by desperation in that it limits regular sessions or the General Assembly to 61 days every two years. During this brief time legislators are expected to analyze billion-dollar budgets and to intelligently pass on fifteen hundred or more bills covering all kinds of diverse subject matter.

The constitution vests the judicial power of the state in many different independent courts presided over by elected judges. Because the judges are elected, control of cases seems to pass to trial lawyers. The reason for this might be that the lawyer could see to it that the judge is defeated in the next election is concessions were not made to the lawyer's client.

Since the courts are not organized into one court system, but many cases are moved from one court to another for new trials or reversals, attorneys play the game of legal procedure by looking for errors in the record, or even by introducing errors into the record. Courts, therefore, spend half their time litigating the rules of legal procedure, instead of deciding substantive issues.

Judges to be elected to the Supreme and Appellate courts are nominated in state conventions after the other state officers have been nominated, and are frequently nominated as the result of trades made in efforts to nominate candidates for other offices. This often produces judicial mediocrity in our courts. The judiciary should be reorganized and taken out of politics. This can only be done by constitutional amendment or revision.

Among the obsolete precepts crowding the Indiana constitution are provisions on fighting duels and for completing the Wabash and Erie Canal. Reference is made to deputy postmasters who earn fewer than $90 a year and to counties that have fewer than 1,000 population.

Furthermore, the Indiana constitution is in part unconstitutional. It violates the Nineteenth amendment of the federal constitution by not recognizing women for reapportionment purposes. The document dictates that there shall be an enumeration of male voters every six years. An enumeration could more practically be had every ten years. The state could use the federal census figures for this purpose and thereby avoid the costly process of taking a census of its own.

While the constitution calls for legislative reapportionment every six years, this provision was violated for more than a forty-year period starting in 1921 by the legislators who swore when they took office to uphold the constitution. Finally, the constitutional decree was partially obeyed after federal courts stepped in and forced reapportionment and redistricting. If the constitution were a respected document, legislators, the courts, and the voters would see to it that such abuses would not occur.

Because of all of these constitutional defects and many more, a new constitution is needed for Indiana. However, recommendations have been made that change should take place through the amendment procedure rather than through adoption of a new constitution.

The cumbersome amendment process of the constitution specifies that a constitutional amendment must be passed by two successive legislatures and then be referred to the people in the following year for their approval. This is a very long uncertain route for needed change and there is no guarantee that the proposed amendments can survive the process. A very few constitutional amendments have succeeded in the past. Even if they were to succeed, the constitution would become a hodge-podge.

Because a few other states have recently experienced some negative results from voters in presentation of all-new constitutions, an Indiana Constitutional Revision Commission has recommended revision through amendment. The fear of the Commission is that the voters could negate an entire document because of one offensive clause. The answer to this argument is to avoid offensive clauses. Fear of the outcome of a referendum for a new constitution should not be the cause for not having one.

Even if the constitution of 1851 had been a workable expression for its time (which is doubtful), it can not, without complete revision, fit modern needs. Since 1851 our civilization has been transformed from a simple, rural, horse-and-buggy community to a complex, urban, mechanized society. With these changes a new social order has come into existence demanding attention. Hence it would seem that Indiana is entitled to have as good a constitution as any state in the Union, and if its present constitution is not as good as the best, there is an overwhelming presumption that it ought to be changed.

Supreme Court Refuses to Hear Students' Case

The U.S. Supreme Court refused to consider the case of a group of students who were suspended from Bluefield State College in West Virginia. The Students had been suspended after they were accused of disrupting a football game in October 1967 and following the college president to a parking lot where they rocked his car and beat upon it.

In denying the review, a member of the court, Justice Abe Fortas, spoke out about the meaning of freedom of speech as it applies to student protest:

"The petitioners were suspended from college not for expressing their opinions on a matter of substance, but for violent and destructive interference with the rights of others. An adequate hearing was afforded them on the issue of suspension. The petitioners contend that their conduct was protected by the First Amendment, but the findings of the District Court, which were accepted by the Court of Appeals, establish that the petitioners here engaged in an aggressive and violent demonstration, and not in peaceful, non-disruptive expression...The petitioners' conduct was therefore clearly not protected by the First and Fourteenth Amendments."

Spring Basketball Tourney Held

Rick Peterson's Sodbusters defeated Bob Jackson's Mustangs 97-85 in the championship game of the Purdue North Central Spring Basketball Tourney held April 1, 2, 3 at the Michigan City Naval Armory.

The six teams entered in the tournament and their captains were: "The Jets" Jerry Whirl, Capt.; "Kutch's Kittys", Ed Kutch, Capt.; and "The Mustangs", Bob Jackson, Capt. The self-supporting double elimination Spring Tourney owes its success to the initiative and resourcefulness of two PNC students, George Brenn and Bob Jackson. With careful planning and continued student interest, this tournament can become an annual highlight of Springtime at Purdue North Central. Congratulations to all the members of Rick Peterson's team and to Bob Jackson and George Brenn for a successful tournament.

BOILERMAKERS LEAD NATION

Purdue was the nation's top offensive club in major college basketball this past season, final statistics released Saturday showed. The Boilermakers, runnerup to UCLA in the NCAA tourney, averaged 93 points per game, scoring 2,605 in 28 matches. Purdue was also represented among the nations leading individual scorers as All America Rick Mount finished second in scoring to Louisiana's Pistol Pete Maravich. Mount averaged 33.3 points a game while Maravich had a fantastic 44.2 average.

Student Senate Meets

The seventeenth regular meeting of the P.N.C. Student Senate was called to order by Dave Goldman at 4:30 p.m. in the Conference Room. Roll was noted and the minutes were accepted. The treasurer gave no report.

The first item of business was the Miss LaPorte County Pageant. It was reported that sales packets had been put together to better enlist student cooperation. Beth Schaviak and Doug Anderson told the Senate of their findings concerning a commission system for ad salesmen. The stated that the Senate needed to propose a policy statement which would have to be approved by the administration. Doug Anderson moved that the Senate institute a commission system; the motion was defeated. Next it was announced that Kit Fields, the current Miss Indiana, would be visiting PNC Thursday, April 10th, from 2 until 3, and that a small reception should be planned. Tom Learman, chairman of the pageant, was put in charge.

The recording secretary next took the names of those Senators who will be attending the A.R.C. Convention at Indianapolis on April 18 and 19. Those planning to attend are Beth Schaviak, Kathy Essling, Dave Goldman, voting delegates; also, Doug Anderson, Keith Harmon, Cathy Nowicki, Randall Eckley, and Jack Titolo.

The Spring Weekend was discussed next. Randall Eckley suggested that tickets be printed or that a special punch be obtained and used with student I.D.'s. He noted that the overall cost would be $3.50 per student. It was noted that the dance would be open to public, but all other activities would only be open to students of PNC and their invited guests. As of April 7, no word had been received on early class dismissal for Friday, May 9th.

The committee appointed to check on weekend food storage in the A.R.A. vending machines reported that the food left from the weekend was cleaned out every Monday morning.

The first item of new business was traffic violations. A memorandum from Dean Blackwell was read. The corresponding secretary was asked to inform the complaintee to appear before the Senate at the next meeting. Dave Goldman introduced to the Senate the standard form which should be used in writing up Senate decisions on traffic violations.

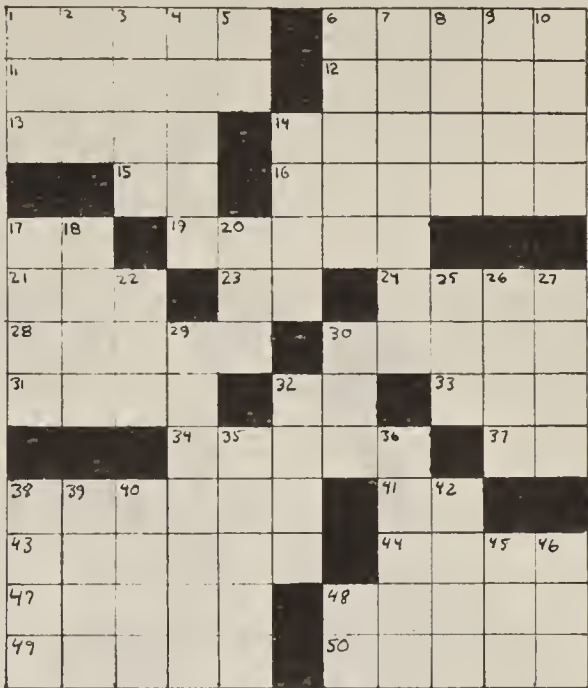

As requested, The Newspaper presented a Mid-Semester Budget Report. The report was approved.

A memorandum from Dean Blackwell concerning the arrangements to publish a list of textbooks in advance of each semester was read. The secretary was asked to post a copy of the memorandum for all students to read. Mary Jo Novak suggested that a system be initiated whereby the students are polled as to which books they will sell and buy. Mary Jo Novak, Keith Harmon, and Randall Eckley volunteered to set up such a system.

The Constitution of the Goliards' was presented and approved.

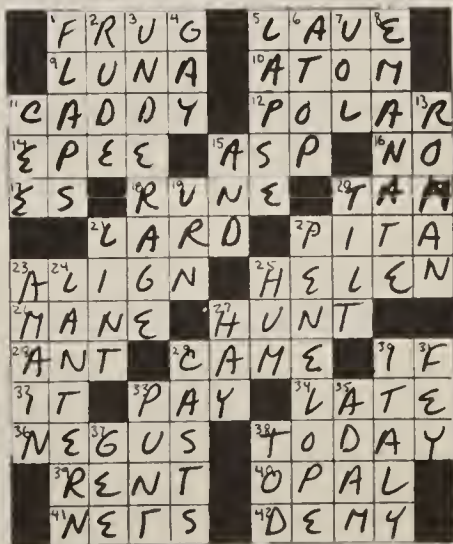

Finally Mr. John Wagliardo told the Senate of the visit of Rabbi Karl Richter and Rabbi Elliot Rosenstock to PNC on Tuesday. He told them of the lunch at the Holiday Inn at 11:30 am to which all Senators were invited. He noted that Senator Shawley would speak to students at PNC on Wednesday at 10:30. Finally, he suggested that the Goliards be asked to co-host Saturday's play, Thurber's "Carnival."

The meeting was adjourned.

Treat yourself to Sony's fine Stereo

If you think of it as just a radio it's ridiculous. It's an FM stereo/FM/AM Receiver with a built-in pre-amplifier, a 28-watt music power amplifier plus a pair of sealed 5" woofer and 2" tweeter speakers. The 8FS-50W is a great way to start a stereo system. You can add a turntable or tape deck or both any time you want to complete it. But while you're making up your mind (or saving up your money) you can be listening to beautiful stereo, compliments of every broadcaster in your area. Sensible stereo—another revolutionary idea from Sony.

THE PERDEW Phantom

AS YOU REMEMBER FROM OUR LAST EXCITING AND EDUCATIONAL EPISODE, OUR HERO-THE PHANTOM-HAD BEEN ACCOSTED BY A HERD OF 50 POUND CANARIES WHO HAD BEEN TRICKED INTO THE EVIL DEED BY THE MASKED FANG WHO HAD SPIKED THEIR BIRD SEED WITH LSD. AS WE JOIN THE PHANTOM WE FIND HIM FLYING BACK TO PNC AFTER ESCAPING THE 'BIRD HEADS'

MEANWHILE THE EVIL MASKED FANG AND HIS EVIL COHORT FIENDISH FELIX THE MAD INVENTOR HAVE COMPLETED THE CREATION OF AN ARMY OF FLYING ROBOTS PROGRAMED TO INTERCEPT THE PHANTOM AND END HIS GOOD DEEDS!

SO AS THE PERDEW PHANTOM JOURNEYS ACROSS THE HOOSIER SKY, THE ROBOT ARMY FOLLOWS IN QUICK PURSUIT

THE PHANTOM WITH HIS ULTRA-SENSITIVE HEARING DETECTS THE FLAPPING OF THE EVIL ROBOT WINGS AND ATTEMPTS TO MAKE A FAST GET AWAY. HOWEVER THE ROBOTS UNDER THE DIRECTION OF FIENDISH FELIX ENCIRCLE THE PHANTOM IN A MAGNETIC FIELD CAUSING HIM TO PLUMMET TO EARTH!

THE END LOOKS NEAR FANS! BUT THE PHANTOM'S INGENUITY OUTWITS THE MASKED FANG AND THE FLYING ROBOTS. BY CHANCE THE PHANTOM HAPPENS TO HAVE HIS INFLATABLE HOT AIR BALLOON. AS HE FALLS TO EARTH HE QUICKLY BLOWS UP THE BALLOON RUBBING HIS TEETH TOGETHER TO CREATE THE HEAT NECESSARY FOR FLIGHT. THE FLYING ROBOTS, POWERED BY WOUND RUBBER BANDS, RUN OUT OF POWER AND FALL TO EARTH. THE MASKED FANG HAS BEEN FOILED AGAIN AS JUSTICE TRIUMPHS OVER EVIL!

FACULTY VOTE KILLS SPRING WEEKEND PLANS

Student Senate Passes Resolution

On Monday, April 21, the Purdue North Central Student Senate passed the following resolution. The resolution, which is aimed at improving communications between the student body and faculty, was submitted to the student affairs committee for consideration.

RESOLUTION

A RESOLUTION to establish communication, promote cooperation, and create an efficient governing unit for Purdue North Central.

BE IT RESOLVED that:

SECTION 1. A student representative be seated on the Faculty Senate with debating but non-voting membership.*

SECTION 2. A faculty representative be seated on the Student Senate with debating but non-voting membership.

SECTION 3. An open-end committee be established to discuss the relevance of Purdue North Central to the student and to the community.

SECTION 4. The Faculty Senate make known to the student body all measures involving the student.

Dean Blackwell Acts On Senate Recommendation

The following Memorandum was sent to the Student Senate from Dean Blackwell:

This memorandum is in reply to your request to the Dean and Director of March 11, 1969 that a list of the textbooks scheduled to be used for a semester be published one (1) month prior to the beginning of that semester.

I have made arrangements to have this list published no later than one (1) month in advance of the beginning of each semester. In view of the magnitude of these lists, it will be posted in the enclosed Bulletin Board at the north end of the first floor of the building.

The list of textbooks to be used for the 1969 summer session will be published prior to May 1, 1969.

Your attention is again invited to our meeting with representatives of the book store at which time we discussed in detail the continual revision of this "textbook list". It is reiterated that even after the list is published and posted, textbooks for certain courses will be changed. Nevertheless, I believe that the list of textbooks will be of assistance to all the students at the Purdue North Central Campus.

Road Rally, Faculty- Student Sports Challenge Affected

On April 16, the Purdue North Central faculty at their regular meeting killed the proposed class dismissal for the Spring Weekend. The actual times and dates in question were Friday afternoon May 9, and Saturday morning, May 10. The activities that will be affected are the Student-Faculty Sports Challenge and the Road Rally.

Although no formal notification of this decision has been given, several faculty members have relayed the faculty's action to the Student Senate. Since no official notification of the faculty's decision has been presented, the actual reasons for the action can not be determined. However, discussion with various faculty members has given some indication of their reasons. The main objection, according to these unofficial sources, is that the faculty feels the Student Senate has usurped the power of the faculty by planning the weekend class dismissal before consulting the faculty.

An interview with Senate president David Goldman revealed that the weekend committee had sent a letter through proper channels two weeks before Easter vacation. Goldman indicated that the Spring Weekend committee could no longer delay plans because of faculty procrastination. Another reason for the faculty's action was that there was a 3 hour class during the period of the proposed class dismissal which represents an entire week's work. Goldman stated that an exception would have to be made for this class if class dismissal was approved.

Although class dismissal has not been approved, plans for the Spring Weekend are still on. The two events which are affected will probably be rescheduled for sometime Saturday afternoon. Official notice of this rescheduling will appear in next week's newspaper.

PNC ALUMNI CLUB HOLDS ANNUAL BANQUET THE 17th

The third annual PNC Alumni Club banquet was held at Wellman's Restaurant in Valparaiso Thursday evening, April 17th.

Joe Rudolph, Executive Secretary of the Alumni Association presented a film high-lighting the Purdue Basketball team, 1969 Big Ten champions and National Runner-Up. In addition, a recent Purdue newsreel was shown.

Principal speaker for the banquet was Dr Earl L. Butz, Dean of Continuing Education and Vice President for special projects of the Purdue Research Foundation.

Dr. Butz is a longtime Purdue faculty member and for 10 years was dean of agriculture. He resigned his deanship in December, 1967 to seek the Indiana gubernatorial nomination.

In July, 1968, he returned to Purdue and assumed his present position. As vice-president for special projects of the Purdue Research Foundation, President Frederick L. Hovde assigned him to the chairmanship of the Centennial Year Policy committee.

He has since been devoting a major portion of his time to the day-to-day direction of the University's multimillion dollar gift fund drive that is being conducted during the 1969 centennial year.

SENATE GIVES GO AHEAD TO PAGEANT

A SPECIAL SESSION of the Student Senate was held Wednesday, April 23 to decide the fate of the Miss LaPorte County Pageant. Because of the new enthusiasm that had been engendered by members of the student body, the Senate voted to go through with the pageant, in spite of the serious difficulties now hampering it.

PNC Students Attend A.R.C. Convention

Indianapolis was the site of the last Association of Regional Campuses, (A.R.C.) meeting on April 18-20 of this year. A.R.C. is an association of seven campuses whose goals are the betterment of the association and of the individual campuses.

The member campuses are P.N.C., Indianapolis and Fort Wayne (Purdue Regional Campuses) and South Bend, Jeffersonville, Kokomo and Indianapolis (I.U. Regional Campuses).

Members of the P.N.C. delegation were Dave Goldman, Kathy Essling, Beth Schaviak, Randall Eckley, Keith Harmon, Doug Anderson, and Cathy Nowicki.

The first order of business was to send a telegram to President Hovde of Purdue University asking for an investigation of the Ft. Wayne business office. The business office on one occasion taxed the student government $435 to stage a four hour dance.

Next a resolution was passed and sent to the President of Indiana University asking for a change in the grading system. Now at I.U. if one fails a class and retakes it he retains grade. (At Purdue, the second grade erases the first.)

Election of officers took place that Saturday. Among these were Kathy Essling, who was chosen Vice-Chairman. Committees were then set up, such as the Mass booking, and Athletics committees. Jack Titolo, P.N.C. Student Senator, was picked to serve on the latter.

Next a resolution was sent to the Presidents and Chancellors of all the state universities. In one of the most important resolutions made by A.R.C., the request was made that students be allowed to sit in on the Budget Committee hearings of the various universities. This would clear up many misconceptions concerning, among other things, the fee increase.

Lastly, a site for the next A.R.C. convention was chosen for the November 1969 meeting. It was unanimously voted that Purdue North Central take that responsibility. Kokomo (I.U.) was put in charge of all inter-campus communications.

2 PNC Students Receive $125 Federal Grants

Two Purdue North Central students have been awarded grants in the amount of $125 each under the provisions of the Law Enforcement Education Program, U.S. Department of Justice.

Robert F. Dick, 615 S. Calumet Street, and Robert L. Whittenburg, Daphne Park, both of Michigan City are the recipients.

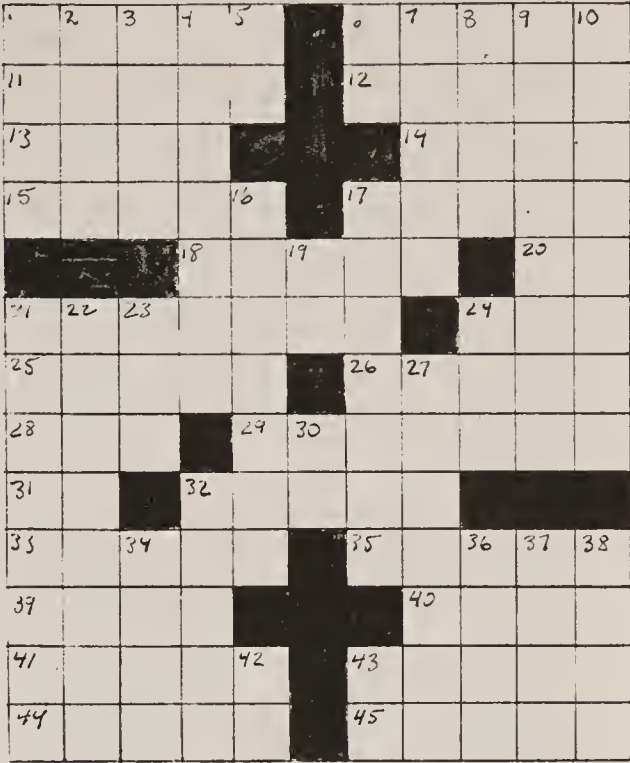

In addition to their academic work at PNC both are employees of the Indiana State Prison, Michigan City. Whittenburg is a sergeant and Dick a correctional officer.

The grants are authorized by the Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act of 1968 and were established by the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration.

The purpose of the grant program, as defined by the U.S. Congress, is to improve and strengthen law enforcement by encouraging, through financial assistance, persons pursuing or interested in pursuing law enforcement careers.

Upon learning of the awards to Dick and Whittenburg, a prison spokesman remarked, "The institution is, of course, happy for both of these men, and is especially proud of the fact that they have received these grants as a direct result of their own initiative and desire for self-improvement."

Home Buying Course to be Offered at PNC

The Purdue North Central Office of Continuing Education will offer a five-session, non-credit course on "How To Buy a Home".

Held on Wednesday evenings from 7-9 p.m. at the campus, the course will begin April 30 and end May 28.

Fred Adams, local realtor who will instruct the course had this advice to offer prospective home buyers. "The largest single investment a married couple is likely to make during their lifetime is the purchase of a home.

"In making such a sizable investment", he added, "there is only one way to undertake it, and that is to be armed with as much information as is possible to obtain about the many considerations that are involved in home-buying."

The first session will be devoted to the problems of home ownership versus rental, repair and maintenance, the inflation benefits of purchasing, income tax benefits and equity build-up.

The second session will delve into the problem "How Much Can You Afford?"

The third session will delve into the problem "How Can You Choose the Best Buy for the Money?" Important problems to be discussed are: location, transportation, the neighborhood, utilities, lot sizes, city versus county taxes, land values and many more.

The fourth session undertakes the problems of purchasing an existing house versus building a new home.

The fifth evening explores the question "Will the Home Being Considered Meet Your Requirements?"

Class size is limited and enrollment will be accepted on a first-come first-served basis.

Registration can be made in writing, by phone or in person at the North Central Campus. Those desiring further information should contact William C. Boyd, Coordinator of Continuing Education at 872-0520 or 785-2541.

Noon Enlightenment Schedule Announced

The schedule for the Noon Enlightenment program for the next few weeks has not been set as yet. Anyone wishing to suggest a speaker is asked to see Mr. Wagliardo.

THE PERDUE PHANTOM

AS YOU REMEMBER FROM OUR LAST EXCITING EPISODE OF THE PERDUE PHANTOM, OUR HERO - THE PHANTOM - HAD BEEN LOCKED IN A GIANT FISH BOWL WITH 35 HUNGRY EELS. WHILE THE PHANTOM ESCAPES WE JOIN A WELL KNOWN BIOLOGY PROFESSOR EXPLAINING TO HIS CLASS THE UNIQUE CRAWLING SLIME MOLD - THE PLASMODIUM

THIS IS THE FRIENDLY CRAWLING SLIME MOLD - PLASMODIUM. IT MAKES A GREAT PET, BUT YOU MUST NEVER LET IT ESCAPE FROM ITS GLASS CAGE!

OVERHEARING THIS LECTURE, THE EVIL MASKED FANG TAKES THE COVER OFF THE SLIME MOLD'S CONTAINER ENABLING IT TO ESCAPE!

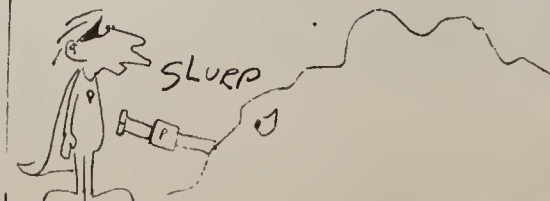

SINCE THE 'BLOB' IS NO LONGER CONFINED, IT IS ABLE TO GROW AT A REMARKABLE RATE. AS IT GROWS ITS APPETITE ALSO INCREASES MAKING IT NECESSARY FOR THE BLOB TO ENGULF EVERY EDIBLE ITEM: STUDENTS, FACULTY, BOOKS, EVERYTHING EXCEPT THE FOOD IN THE FOOD MACHINES WHICH IT REFUSES TO TOUCH...

HOLY HOOVE!! WHO WILL SAVE US FROM THE BLOB? THIS IS A JOB FOR THE PERDUE PHANTOM. THE PHANTOM AFTER ESCAPING FROM THE EELS RUSHES TO PNC TO COMBAT THE BLOB

ALL RIGHT BLOB, YOU'VE HAD IT - WHAT?! YOU'VE EATEN MY ALL PURPOSE ANTI GRAVITATIONAL WONDER BELT - I'M HELPLESS
